1	Chris Bill Linda Diana	5	Adele Edward Leo Jessica
2	Peter Steve Emily Eve	6	Sam Grace James Kate
3	Alex Amy Andrew Anna	7	Tony Joe Nicole Sophie
4	George Paula Charlotte Sean	8	Caroline Mia Mike Simon

b With a partner, decide if the names in a are men's names, women's names, or both. Write M, W, or B next to each name. Are any of them short for another name?

c Communication Middle names quiz p.106 Do the quiz.

3 READING

- a With a partner, guess which countries or regions these names are from. Do you think they are first names or surnames?

Yeon Seok Rakhmaninov López Ramírez
Aarushi Li Abdul Ahad Jones

- b Read the article and check your answers to a. Are the first names from the list male or female?

- c Read the article again. In which country or countries...?

- 1 does the surname come before the first name
- 2 do people have no surname
- 3 do people have more than one surname
- 4 do people have a middle name connected to their father's name
- 5 do some people stop using the surname they were born with
- 6 are people given names depending on when they were born

- d What is the naming custom in your country? Has it changed over the years? Do you think it ought to change?

4 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a  1.4 Listen to four people talking about their name. For each person, write their name and tick (✓) if they are happy with it.

- b Listen again and answer the questions for each person.

- 1 Why did their parents choose that name for them?
- 2 Do they have a nickname?
- 3 Would they like to change their name?

- c Answer the questions in groups.

What's your first name?

Why did your parents call you that?

Do you have a middle name?

Do you have a nickname, or are you called something for short?

Do you use your initials or your full name when you sign your name?

Do you like your name? Why (not)? Would you like to change it? What to?

Are there any names you don't like at all? Why do you dislike them?

Do you think it's an advantage or a disadvantage to...?

- have a very long name
- have a very unusual name
- be named after a celebrity

Naming customs around the world

- 1 KOREA Names in Korea are written with the surname first, and the first name usually has two parts. So, if Yeon Seok has the surname Lee, his name is written Lee Yeon Seok. Two-part first names are never shortened; that is, Lee Yeon Seok will always be called Yeon Seok, not Yeon.
- 2 RUSSIA Russian names have three parts: a first name, a patronymic (a middle name based on the father's first name), and the father's surname. If Viktor Aleksandrovich Rakhmaninov has two children, his son's name might be Mikhail Viktorevich Rakhmaninov and his daughter's name might be Svetlana Viktorevna Rakhmaninova (the 'a' at the end of all three names shows that she is female).
- 3 SPANISH-SPEAKING COUNTRIES In most Spanish-speaking countries, people have a first name (sometimes in two parts, e.g. Maria José, Juan Carlos) and two surnames, their father's and their mother's, for example, Maria José López Ramírez. In Spain, traditionally the father's surname goes first, followed by the mother's, but nowadays the order can be reversed. However, both surnames are always used and on any form, people will be asked for their surnames, not their surname.

- 4 INDIA India has many religions and languages which influence the naming customs. Hindu first names are usually based on the position of the planets at the date and time of birth, but the names are often shortened by family and friends. For example, a brother and sister may have the formal names Aditya and Aarushi, but family and friends may call them Adi and Ashi for short.
- 5 CHINA Chinese names are made up of three 'characters': a one-character surname followed by a two-character first name, e.g. Li Xiu Ying. A child's official name is used for their birth certificate and for school, but Chinese children often have a different name that is used among friends and classmates.

- 6 AFGHANISTAN Afghan names traditionally consist of only a first name. Male first names are usually Arabic double names, e.g. Abdul Ahad, and women are generally given Persian names, e.g. Jasmine. Surnames are chosen only when needed. Commonly, this is when people have contact with the Western world. The surname may be related to the tribe the person comes from, their place of birth, or their profession, e.g. 'Doctor'. This may result in people within the same family having different surnames.
- 7 THE UK Since the 15th century, British women have taken their husband's surname when they get married, so when Sophie Jones marries Peter Elliot, she becomes Mrs Sophie Elliot. However, 14% of married women now choose to keep their maiden name. If they do so, couples sometimes then combine their surnames for their children, so if Sophie decided to keep the surname Jones, their children might have the surname Jones-Elliot or Elliot-Jones.

5 GRAMMAR pronouns

- a Talk to a partner. What are the two most popular brand names in your country for phones, sportswear, and cars? Do you know what country the brands are from, or what the names mean?
- b Read about how the Kindle got its name. Do you think it's a good name? Why (not)?

The Kindle eBook reader first appeared in 2007, and since then, millions of them have been sold. But how did it get its unusual name? Amazon's founder, Jeff Bezos, asked an American designer, Michael Cronan, to think of a name for the new device. Bezos told him that he didn't want a high-tech name because Amazon's customers loved traditional paper books. Cronan and his wife talked to each other about the warm, comfortable feelings people get from reading. Finally, he chose the word 'kindle', which means 'to light a fire'. Cronan thought that it would make people think of the excitement they feel when they are enjoying their favourite book. The name was also inspired by a line from the French novelist Victor Hugo: 'to read is to light a fire'.

How colour affects our mood

Since ancient times, colour has been linked to the way we think and feel. For early humans, the red of fire signalled danger. Later, artists used coloured glass in church windows to represent different feelings, for example, green symbolized hope. In modern times, the colours we use to paint the walls in our houses can affect our mood. So which colours should we use when we are decorating?

Red is an optimistic colour. It's a good colour for a dining room, because it makes people feel sociable. It stimulates conversation and makes you feel hungry. But as it's a strong colour, it can sometimes be a bit too much, and even give people headaches. You could just paint one wall red, or use it for accessories such as lamps and curtains. However, never use red in a baby's bedroom, as it may stop the baby from sleeping. Pink, on the other hand, is often used in bedrooms. It's traditionally the colour of love – a pale shade can be peaceful and restful, while a darker shade can suggest passion. Some people think it's a very 'girly' colour, so adding in areas of dark grey or black to this colour scheme can help make it more generally attractive.

If you want a warm, comforting effect, try orange. It's also good for dining rooms, as it's said that it helps you digest your food. However, like red, it's a strong colour and can make a room look smaller, so only use it in a room that gets plenty of light. A colour that's great for smaller spaces, on the other hand, is yellow. It's a happy, energetic colour, and is a good colour for a kitchen, as apparently, it discourages insects! It's not very restful though, so it's best not to use it for a bedroom.

Purple is good for rooms where you work, for example, a study or a bedroom, because it's a very creative, stimulating colour. However, it's another colour that can make it difficult for people to relax after a busy day, so if you use it in a bedroom, it's a good idea to combine it with a lighter shade or another colour. Blue is also suitable for a study, because it helps you to think and concentrate, as well as being calm and restful. It's a popular colour for bathrooms, and bedrooms too, where a lot of people spend 'thinking time'. Another calming colour is green, and it's also good for a bedroom or living room. Green makes people feel relaxed and less stressed, but it can make them lazy, so if you don't want people to go to sleep on the sofa, choose cushions and carpets in a bright colour like red or orange.

For people who prefer neutral colours, brown can be a good choice. Although it can be boring, it's a safe, reliable colour in a living room, and you can paint one wall green or blue if you want a bit of extra mental stimulation! Other neutral colours, like white, grey, and beige, are always in fashion. White is the most flexible. It's safe and clean, and you can add any other colours to make the room look brighter. However, white isn't great for a bedroom if you want to relax there – a survey showed that people with a white bedroom tended to work in bed at least three times a week. Finally, the most dramatic, and perhaps eccentric, choice of bedroom wall colour is black. In fact, it works in any room in moderation, for example, one black wall.

d Talk to a partner. Why does the article suggest...?

- 1 only using red for one wall
- 2 adding grey or black to a pink room
- 3 only using orange in a light room
- 4 using yellow in a kitchen
- 5 combining different shades of purple in a bedroom
- 6 having red or orange accessories in a green living room
- 7 having a green or blue wall in a brown living room
- 8 not using white for a bedroom
- 9 using black

e Look at some adjectives from the article to describe colours. Match them to 1–3.

- pale / light green ■ bright green
■ dark green

Use the adjectives to describe these colours.

f Are there any rooms in your house that are painted the 'right' or 'wrong' colours, according to the article? Do you think you should change them?

7 SPEAKING & WRITING

a You're going to describe your favourite room in your house to a partner. Think about these things.

- why it's your favourite room
- the colours of the walls and accessories, e.g. curtains, blinds, cushions, carpets
- the furniture that's in the room, e.g. sofa, armchairs, etc.
- any paintings or posters
- what you can see from the window
- anything else in the room

While you listen to your partner, ask questions to help you imagine what their room is like.

6 READING

- a Are there any things that you do on holiday that you don't usually do in normal life? Think about the things below.

activities daily routine food and drink shopping spending money

I don't usually do much exercise, but when I'm on holiday, I go for a lot of walks, and if I'm at the beach, I swim every day.

- b Read the article once. Does it mention any of the things you answered in a?

We only do them on holiday

We all have them. Strange little rituals that have become an important part of any holiday, and if you don't do them, it somehow doesn't feel quite right...

Go on an airport shopping spree

This could be because you like a bargain. It could also be because you get to the airport and realize that you packed at the last minute and ¹ . Whatever the reason, the hour before your flight is usually spent buying more travel adaptors, sweets, another pair of headphones, and unnecessary clothes.

Pay too much for hotel extras

You never eat macadamia nuts at home. But when you find them in a little jar beside the minibar, you have to eat them. Whether it's a tiny but ridiculously expensive tub of Pringles, or an overpriced and mediocre cocktail at the bar, you don't seem to have a problem paying far too much for little extras at your hotel. It may be because you're tired after the journey, or just because you're on holiday, but suddenly ² .

Steal things (sort of)

Of course you don't take bathrobes or towels, but after being charged so much for those macadamia nuts, you try to get your revenge on the hotel by taking little things – espresso capsules, shampoo, shower gel...sometimes even a sewing kit, that ³ .

Talk to strangers

On holiday, suddenly everyone wants to make new friends. How many times have you started talking to the people at the next table at a restaurant in your town? Probably never. But walk into a beachside taverna, and ⁴□.

Change your eating habits

Your normal breakfast routine goes completely out the window. Goodbye cornflakes, hello smoked salmon, eggs, toast, and a big slice of cake from the hotel buffet. You're also thrilled when you find strange and exciting foods at the local supermarket and you want to try them all, even though ⁵□.

Sleep in the afternoon

Maybe it's because the shops have closed. Maybe ⁶□. Maybe it's all that breakfast. Whatever the reason, afternoon naps only become a fixture twice a year: at Christmas and on holiday.

Buy pointless postcards, and other rubbish

There must be millions of postcards out there that people buy and never send. They're a great reminder of your holiday, but when you get home, you put them in a shoebox under the bed and never look at them again. You also have the urge to buy cheap souvenirs from street stalls. 'A fridge magnet of the Eiffel Tower? A solar-powered Japanese sumo-wrestler figure?' 'Yes, sure, ⁷□...'

Visit obscure museums

Can you imagine your partner suggesting a Saturday afternoon trip to the local ethnographical museum to see a wonderful new ceramics exhibition? Definitely not. But on a city break, suddenly the most obscure cultural attractions develop a magnetic pull. 'Darling, the guidebook says it's one of Hungary's six best museums, so ⁸□...'

3 LISTENING

- a Look at a list of things people love and hate about online shopping. Tick (✓) the things from each section that you strongly agree with. Compare with a partner.

Online shopping is here to stay

Do you love it or hate it – or both?

THINGS WE LOVE

- You don't have to carry heavy bags any more.
- It's easy to send presents to people.
- You can do your shopping from work without anyone noticing.
- You can buy things from shops that aren't near you.
- You can do your shopping in your pyjamas, when it's cold and raining outside.
- Things are often cheaper than if you buy them in a shop.
- You don't have to push your way through crowds of people.
- Online shops are open 24/7.

THINGS WE HATE

- You do less exercise and interact less with other people.
- You can't get advice from a specialist shop assistant.
- You can't feel things or see exactly what they look like.
- Your shopping is always delivered when you're out.
- Supermarkets often substitute an item you ordered for something you don't want.
- Things are often bigger or smaller than you wanted because you didn't read the detailed description.
- Clothes or shoes often don't fit, or don't suit you because you weren't able to try them on.
- If something isn't right, it can be a problem sending it back or getting it changed.

- b 2.20 You're going to listen to five people talking about what they love or hate about online shopping. First, listen and complete some extracts. Are the phrases positive or negative?

- 7 That's so _____.

- c 2.21 Now listen to the people talking. Which 'loves' and 'hates' from the list in a does each speaker refer to? Write the speaker's number next to the things they mention.

- d Listen again and answer the questions with the speaker's number.

Who...?

- likes knowing exactly when things he or she has bought are going to arrive
- once bought a large quantity of something by mistake
- has one particular item he or she often has to return
- enjoys looking on shopping websites
- thinks it's easier to deal with problems in real shops

- e Are there any other things you love or hate about online shopping?

4 SPEAKING

Choose three of the topics and tell a partner about them. Give as much information as you can.

Talk about a time when you...	made a mistake and bought the wrong thing online	bought a present for someone online had to wait a long time for something to be delivered	ordered something that didn't fit and had to send it back	bought something online much more cheaply than in a shop found that something you bought online was very different from what you were expecting	ordered something online that never arrived

Showing interest

Ask questions about what people say to show interest and keep the conversation going, or react to what they're saying.

- Really? Then what happened?

David and Goliath, or Waterstones versus Amazon...

At 6.00 p.m. on Thursday, in Waterstones in Piccadilly, London, staff were running around with bowls of jelly beans and bottles of raspberry lemonade. Five minutes later, people of all ages started to come through the doors, some dressed up as characters from the books – a small girl even produced an owl cage! ‘I’m reading the fifth book again at the moment’, said 28-year-old Alex. ‘This is the third event I’ve been to. Last year they transformed the second floor into Diagon Alley.’ In many of the chain’s 275 branches across the UK, similar scenes were taking place. ‘Our first wizards have arrived for #harrypotterbooknight’, tweeted staff at the Bradford store.

But Harry Potter night wasn’t the only cause for celebration for staff and customers. The previous day, Waterstones had announced that it was back in profit for the first time since 2011, under the leadership of its very own wizard, James Daunt. Daunt was already a successful bookseller, who had many loyal customers. He was brought in to rescue the Waterstones chain when it was about to close down.

When Daunt took over Waterstones, his first task was to cut costs. Then he had to make the stores more attractive and improve the lighting. Coffee shops were opened inside the stores, and events were held, such as the now-famous Harry Potter nights, or talks by authors. But the biggest change was that Daunt gave each individual store the power to choose what books to sell, and to choose the prices for different books. This made a big difference. Sales went up because shops were stocking more books that appealed to local customers.

Another of his changes was training really knowledgeable staff. ‘If a customer can tell me what was the last really good book they read, I know exactly what to sell them next,’ Daunt says. Given that Waterstones stocks more than 150,000 titles, this is not an easy thing to do – but it is something that is helping Waterstones to differentiate itself from Amazon.

Daunt is optimistic about the future of bookshops. ‘People love buying books,’ he said. ‘It’s a physical pleasure that customers don’t get when they shop online. If we keep creating shops that do that, it doesn’t matter what goes on online. High streets and shops are part of the heart of the community. People will always want to go to shops.’

Glossary

- a Read the article once. Which Underground stations were named after things which were made there?

Where did these Tube station names come from?

If you travel on the London Underground, you will notice that the names of many of the stations are rather strange. Here is ¹ well-known station names.

The name with one of the oldest origins is Tooting Bec. It goes back more than 1,300 years, to ². Many English towns still contain words from Old English: the suffix '-ham' (as in Birmingham) meant 'settlement', while '-ton' (as in Brighton) referred to a farm. The ending '-ing' meant 'belonging to someone', so Tooting means a place belonging to the Saxon chief Tota. Bec comes from France. When the Normans invaded England in 1066, they took over a lot of properties and gave them new names. The abbey of Bec-Hellouin in Normandy was given the land that once belonged to Tota.

At some point in its long history, Covent Garden lost the letter 'n'. Now it is one of London's best-known tourist attractions, but ³ which was owned by monks from Westminster Abbey. They called it 'the garden of the Abbey and Convent', or 'Convent Garden'. King Henry VIII destroyed the monastery in the 1500s and some large houses were built there. It was also a fruit market from the 1650s to the 1970s.

The Elephant & Castle station in south London probably gets its name from a group of medieval craftsmen who made knives and swords. Their symbol showed an elephant carrying a castle. It is thought that the elephant referred to the ivory that they used for their knife handles. The castle was possibly included to ⁴, because few Europeans at the time would have known what this animal looked like.

Like Oxford Circus, the 'circus' part of Piccadilly Circus refers to a roundabout where different streets meet. The other half of its name is centuries old. A 'piccadill' is a large collar that ⁵ – often worn by Queen Elizabeth I, for example. One London tailor, Robert Baker, made a fortune selling piccadills and built a large house called Piccadilly Hall in the area in 1611. When the roundabout was built in 1819, it was named Piccadilly Circus, and the same name was given to the Underground station when it opened in 1906.

V stages of life

P -ed endings, sentence rhythm

1 VOCABULARY stages of life

a Match the phrases and photos.

He's / She's...

- a baby /'beɪbi/
- a toddler /'tɒdlə/
- a child /tʃaɪld/
- a pre-teen /,pri: 'ti:n/
- a teenager /'ti:neɪdʒə/
- in his / her early twenties (= 20–23)
- in his / her mid-thirties (= 34–36)
- in his / her late forties (= 47–49)
- retired /rɪ'taɪəd/

🔍 middle-aged, old, elderly

The word middle-aged means different things to different people, but usually refers to a person in their forties or fifties.

old and elderly mean the same thing, but elderly is more polite. It is not considered polite to call a person old, especially to their face.

b 🎧 3.1 Listen and check.

c Which stage of life do you associate with...?

- being forgetful
- being cheeky /'tʃi:ki/
- being moody
- being naughty /'nɔ:ti/
- crying a lot
- getting a mortgage
- going clubbing
- having tantrums /'tæntɹəmz/
- listening to pop music
- playing games
- settling down
- watching cartoons
- wearing jeans

I think being forgetful is typical of elderly people.)

(I think it can be any age. I'm forgetful, too!

d Think of people you know who are in three of the different stages of life in a. Tell your partner about them.

My sister Ana is in her mid-thirties. She's married and has a six-month old baby. She used to work as a nurse, but now she's at home looking after her son.

2 READING

- a Look at the cartoon and read the information box. At what age do you think someone becomes 'a grown-up'?

grow up grow up means to become an adult. A grown-up is used, often by children, as an informal word for an adult. Grown-up can also be used as an adjective.

- b Read the first paragraph of an article about being grown-up. Answer the questions with a partner.

- 1 How long is the period of 'emerging adulthood'?
- 2 What are the characteristics of this stage of life?
- 3 According to the article, what do owning a vacuum cleaner and having a mortgage have in common?

- c C Communication A real grown-up? A p.107
B p.111 Read and tell your partner about Carol or Hugo.

- d What do you think are the three things that most show that you are (or aren't) a grown-up? Have you grown up yet?

3 LISTENING

- a What kinds of things do you think teenagers are better at than adults?
- b 3.2 Listen to Part 1 of a local radio news report and answer the questions.
- 1 What is the Mosquito Tone and who can hear it?
 - 2 Were both the presenters able to hear it?
 - 3 Were you able to hear it? If yes, how did it make you feel?
- c 3.3 Listen to Part 2 of the news report. Where is the Mosquito Tone being used? Why? Is everybody in favour of it?
- d Listen to Part 2 again. What does the interviewee say about these things?
- 1 how teenage gangs behave in shopping centres
 - 2 what shop owners say about the Mosquito Tone
 - 3 why some people think the Mosquito Tone is unfair to teenagers
 - 4 why the Mosquito Tone doesn't stop the problem
 - 5 how some teenagers are taking advantage of the Mosquito Tone
- e If you were a shop owner, would you use the Mosquito Tone? Why (not)?

So you think you're a grown-up?

Think again.

Are you 29 or older?

Then you're officially an adult. Well done. In a research study, 29 was the age at which most people thought they finally felt like a proper grown-up. But you're a legal adult when you're 18, so that's about 11 years to live through what psychologists call 'emerging adulthood', that is, the stage when you don't yet have children, don't live in your own house, and don't earn enough money to be financially independent.

Some people say that buying your first house or having your first child represent real adulthood, as these mean you are a responsible person. A few years ago, a bank did a survey to find out the top things that proved you were a grown-up. Number one was having a mortgage and number two was no longer relying on your parents for money. Other things included having a pension plan, doing a weekly food shop, and getting married. A less obvious sign was owning a vacuum cleaner!

So when do you become a real grown-up?

We asked two journalists...

- b Now discuss the following questions in groups.

What do you think is the best age for...?

- first going on holiday without your parents
- starting to learn a musical instrument
- starting to use social media
- starting to save money
- moving out of your parents' home
- having your first baby
- retiring

5 GRAMMAR past simple, past continuous, or used to?

a What were you like as a child? Choose two adjectives from the list, and add one of your own. Compare with a partner.

accident-prone clever lazy lonely naughty nervous noisy quiet serious shy sociable well-behaved

b Read the posts on an online forum. Who...?

- 1 knew how to do something grown-up at an early age
- 2 has a job that started as a childhood hobby
- 3 created problems for his or her mother
- 4 remembers being very frightened by an animal

What kind of child were you...and have you changed?

David, 47 I loved being an only child. I was never lonely; I enjoyed spending time on my own, doing what I wanted, when I wanted. I ¹ was liking / used to like reading, going for walks and bike rides in the countryside, and birdwatching. I also collected insects and I ² used to keep / kept them in the garden to learn how they grew and behaved. Now I am a professional biologist, so I still enjoy those things! I'm still very happy spending time on my own, but I enjoy the company of others much more now.

Magda, 22 I was quite sociable as a child and I really enjoyed playing with my friends. But I used to be a bit shy about meeting new people and also quite afraid of some things. Once when I was little, I remember we went for a walk, and I ³ was holding / held an ice cream and a big black dog ran over and bit the whole top off. As a result, I didn't like dogs or going for walks for many years. 'Dog ate my ice cream' has become a bit of a family joke. After I ⁴ started / was starting university, I became much more confident. Now I still enjoy spending time with friends, but I like spending time on my own, too. I also love dogs. So maybe I've changed a lot!

Alex, 59 I am one of five brothers and sisters – I'm the second youngest. I ⁵ was having / used to have tantrums as a two-year-old, but I was very independent. When I was three, my mum ⁶ went / used to go into hospital to have my younger brother, and I was the only one in the house who knew how to turn the washing machine on. Actually, I haven't changed much. I'm almost 60 now – I've been strongly independent all my life and I even have the occasional tantrum.

Stephen, 23 I ⁷ used to be / was always very messy when I was younger. I used to throw my clothes around everywhere, and Mum never knew which was clean and which was dirty washing. However, now that I'm older, I'm very tidy – mess really stresses me out! Also, I ⁸ always hated / was always hating going to school, but now I'm doing a postgraduate course at university. But in some ways, I haven't changed at all. I was quite a thoughtful, sensitive person when I was young, and I'm the same now.

c With a partner, circle the correct form of the highlighted verbs, or tick (✓) if both forms are possible.

d G p.136 Grammar Bank 3A

e Think about your answers in a. Have you changed much? Then write a short post like the ones on the forum about you. Use the correct verb forms.

6 PRONUNCIATION -ed endings, sentence rhythm a 3.6 Listen to the three different pronunciations of the -ed ending. Listen again and repeat.

1 	I used to be shy. I liked reading.
2 	I've changed a lot. I enjoyed playing with my friends.
3 	I started university. I collected insects.

b 3.7 Listen to some more regular past simple verbs. How is the -ed ending pronounced? Tick (✓) the correct box.

1 VOCABULARY photography

- a Look at the photo in the article. In which city do you think it was taken?
- b Read the article quickly and check your answer to a. Why are selfies becoming a problem?

The dangerous art of the selfie

Jane Wakefield

A lot of people have died this year while ¹ making / taking selfies. In Moscow, a university graduate died after trying to take a selfie while he was hanging from a bridge. In Australia, a very fragile and unstable rock that looks like a wedding cake was closed to the public because too many people were climbing it to take wedding photos of themselves. And in Colorado, USA, officials had to close a park after several people were caught getting a little too close to the wildlife. 'We've seen people using selfie sticks to ² do / take a photo of themselves with the bears ³ in the foreground / in the background. Sometimes they get as close as three metres,' said recreation manager Brandon Ransom. So why are some people willing to risk their life to take the ultimate selfie? Lee Thompson's selfie ⁴ on top of / in front of the Christ the Redeemer statue in Rio de Janeiro went viral. 'People see how pictures like mine spread across the world, and they see a way to make themselves famous for 15 minutes,' he said.

6 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a 3.19 You're going to listen to Chris, Tom, and Kate talking about a holiday photo they really like. Look at the photos. Then listen and match them to speakers 1–3. Were all the photos taken by the speakers?

- b Listen again. Take notes about each person's answers to questions 1–5.

- 1 Where was the photo taken? Who took it?
- 2 Who were you with?
- 3 What was happening, or had just happened?
- 4 Why do you like the photo?
- 5 Where do you keep the photo?

- c Think of an interesting photo you took on holiday. Tell a partner about it. Include your answers to 1–5.

- d Show your partner some photos on your phone and tell him or her about them.

7 READING

a Look at the list below. How do you usually store the photos you've taken?

- on your phone, tablet, etc.
- on the internet, e.g. in iCloud or Dropbox
- on a separate hard drive or CD-ROM
- on an online photo site
- on paper / in an album / on the wall

b Read the article about storing digital photos and complete 1–5 with a heading from the list. There is one heading you do not need.

- A Safe in the cloud?
- B Digital cameras vary
- C Digital files can deteriorate
- D Photo sites come and go
- E Technology becomes obsolete
- F Hard drives don't last forever

c Read the article again. Match the storage method to the problem it has.

- | | |
|----------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 .jpg files | a only last for about five years |
| 2 hard drives | b only last for 10 to 20 years |
| 3 CD-ROMs and flash drives | c are damaged when they're copied |
| 4 CD-ROM drives | d can close down |
| 5 iCloud or Dropbox | e may not exist in the future |
| 6 photo sites | f can be damaged by storms |

d Match the bold verbs or phrases from the article to their meaning.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 to store photos 1.08 | a to disconnect from the internet |
| 2 to back up photos 1.13 | b to transfer to another computer |
| 3 to go offline 1.26 | c to no longer continue |
| 4 to upload a photo 1.29 | d to make a copy |
| 5 to cancel your account 1.36 | e to keep or preserve |

e After reading the article, will you do anything differently to protect your photos?

How safe are your digital photos?

In the past, your grandmother probably kept her photos in a box, or in an old album, and sadly, over time, these memories faded or disappeared. But with today's technology, that shouldn't be a problem. A digital photo lasts forever, right? Actually, think again.

05 Although it is still a good idea to keep all of your photos as digital computer files, there are plenty of things that can damage or even destroy those high-tech memories.

Very few people realize this can happen, but if you store your photos as .jpgs (the most common file format), the file will actually deteriorate every time you copy and edit it. Experts disagree about how much damage this can do, but the damage is real.

2

Your files may be safe on your hard drive, but how long until your hard drive dies? The average lasts just five years. You could back up your photos on a CD-ROM or flash drive, but they don't last forever either – about 10–20 years at most, experts say.

3

Let's say all goes well and your CD-ROM or flash drive full of photos lasts for 20 years. By then, will there still be any CD-ROM drives in the world that can read the disc? Will you be able to insert your flash drive into a modern computer? Today's high-tech storage solution is tomorrow's useless floppy disk.

4

People talk about saving their photos in a magical place on the internet, like Apple's iCloud, or Dropbox. But this just means they are in a company's data centre on – guess what? – lots of hard drives, which could die or corrupt just as easily as your own. During a thunderstorm, a cloud storage centre in the USA was hit, and major sites like Netflix, Pinterest, and Instagram went offline for almost a whole day. Thousands of files were lost.

Websites like Flickr and Instagram let you quickly upload photos and share them with others. But bear in mind that a photo site which is popular now could one day go out of business, taking your photos with it. What's more, if you upload photos to these sites, there is someone other than you who controls your access. While it is generally not in their interest to stop you accessing your files, they can and sometimes do. They can even cancel your account.

So what should you do? Experts say you should make lots of copies of your photos and save them in many different ways – on your computer, on a back-up drive, online, and even as traditional printed photos. It may be too late to save Grandma's photos, but you can still save yours.

Have you ¹ _____ from us before?	No.
OK, could I ² _____ your driving licence, please? Great. So what ³ _____ of car are you looking for?	Oh, nothing too big. It's just for me.
OK, so a compact. ⁴ _____-door?	Yeah, that'll be fine.
For how long?	Nine days.
Automatic or ⁵ _____?	An automatic, please.
Any additional ⁶ _____?	No, just me.
Great. Well, we have several ⁷ _____ I can show you, but I'd recommend the Vauxhall Corsa. It's ⁸ £ _____ per day and that includes insurance.	That sounds promising. Can I take a look?
Of course, but first I'd like to run through some of the basics. The ⁹ _____ tank is full when you start, so if you return it with a full tank, there's no extra ¹⁰ _____.	Great.
But if you get any ¹¹ _____ tickets or speeding fines, you have to pay for them yourself.	Fair enough! Would it be possible to leave the car at the airport?
No problem, but that's a one-way rental, so there's an additional charge of ¹² £ _____.	OK.
And one last thing – have you driven in ¹³ _____ before?	Yes, I have. So driving on the left's not a problem.
That's good. OK, let's go out and take a look at the car. We can go through the paperwork afterwards.	Great.

3 LISTENING

- a Read Part 1 of an interview with Tessa Cook, co-founder of OLIO, an app to help reduce food waste. With a partner, try to predict the missing words.

Tessa Cook

Can you explain what OLIO is, exactly?

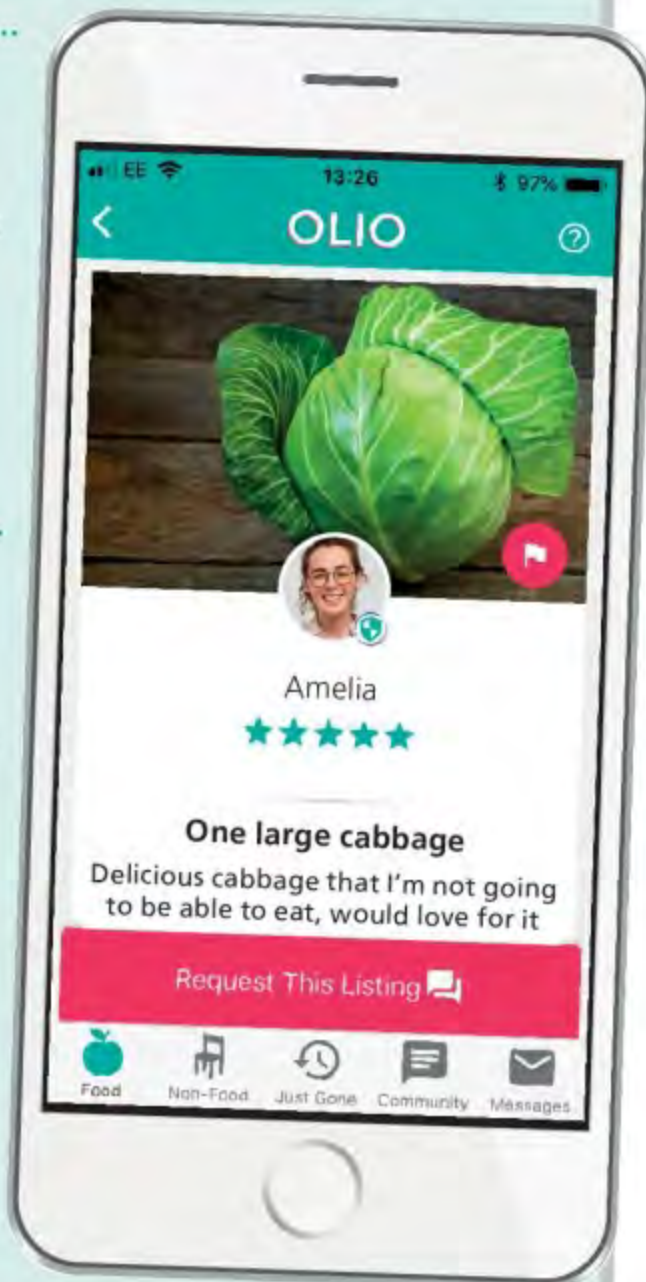

So, OLIO is a free app which connects ¹n_____ with each other and with local ²b_____ so that surplus food can be shared and not thrown away.

What kinds of food?

It could be food that's near its ³s_____ - _____ d_____ in local shops, or home-grown vegetables that you're not going to eat, or bread from your ⁴b_____ that hasn't been sold at the end of the day, or the food that's in your ⁵f_____ when you're about to go away. Any food that people have that they're not going to use.

And how does the app work?

It's super easy! If you have some food that you want to ⁶sh_____, you simply open the app, add a ⁷ph_____ and a description, and say when and where the food can be collected from. And if you're looking for some food, you just put in your postcode and send a ⁸m_____ to the person who's offering the food you want, and then you arrange a time to go and collect it.

6 READING & SPEAKING

a What kinds of things do you recycle? Do you ever feel guilty about not recycling enough? Why (not)?

b How much do you know about recycling? Do the quiz on p.39 with a partner.

c Now read the article about recycling and check your answers to b. How many did you get right?

d Read the article again. Match each paragraph to the summary of what it's about.

- A It's time to change our shopping habits.
- B One country has stopped importing and recycling plastic waste because it isn't of a good enough quality.
- C People are starting to understand that plastic is a major problem.
- D People don't really know what can be recycled.
- E Some containers have parts which cannot be recycled.
- F The food industry doesn't provide the right information clearly.

e What do you think is the main message of the article? Choose a, b, or c.

- a We don't recycle enough of our waste and need to make more of an effort.
- b We put out our waste to be recycled, but sometimes we are making matters worse.
- c We need local authorities to do more to help us to recycle correctly.

f Complete the second word in these compound nouns from the article.

- 1 water b _____
- 2 recycling b _____
- 3 ready-meal tr _____
- 4 wrapping p _____
- 5 baby f _____
- 6 pasta s _____ g Have you noticed any of the problems mentioned in the article?

h Talk to a partner. Do you think that the following will happen in the future? Why (not)?

- all food will be produced without plastic packaging
- supermarkets will stop selling all types of plastic bags to their customers at the checkout
- food producers will improve the labelling on their packaging
- people in your country will recycle 75% of their waste

Why your recycling isn't working

Do you know what can be recycled – and what can't?

Try our quiz.

- 1 Which part of this water bottle can be recycled, the cap or the bottle?

- 2 Which of these two plastic trays can be recycled, the white one or the black one?

- 3 Which of these two kinds of wrapping paper can be recycled, the glittery one or the red and brown one?

- 4 Which of these two containers of pasta sauce can be recycled, the glass jar or the plastic pouch?

- 5 Which of these two toothpaste containers can be recycled, the plastic pump-action bottle or the tube?

- 6 What does the number '4' in this symbol tell you?

- 1 'Since its invention some 100 years ago, plastic has become an integral part of our daily lives,' said naturalist David Attenborough in the final episode of the highly praised BBC series Blue Planet II. 'But every year, some eight million tons of it ends up in the ocean...and there it can be lethal.' Slowly, it seems, we may at last be waking up to the fact that something that makes our lives easier in the short term has consequences that can last thousands of years.

- 2 One of our main convenience items is plastic water bottles. They are a major contributor to waste in the UK, and we use ten million of them a day. Although the bottles themselves can be recycled, the caps cannot. The problem doesn't stop with plastic bottles. According to new research, almost a fifth of the waste that people put into recycling bins cannot, in fact, be recycled. The reason for this is that the packaging is often made up of several components, many of which are not recyclable.
- 3 People often believe that something is recyclable when it's not. Take, for example, that black plastic ready-meal tray that you normally put with your bottles and newspapers, or your glittery Christmas wrapping paper – these cannot be recycled, though white trays and plain wrapping paper can be. Plastic pouches, such as the ones used for baby food or pasta sauce, can't be recycled, so it's better to buy them in glass jars, which can be. Toothpaste tubes also can't be recycled, but the pump-action bottles can be.
- 4 Unclear labelling is often to blame. Recycling information on packaging varies dramatically. Sainsbury's supermarket, for example, labels on its own-brand packaging exactly which parts can and cannot be recycled. Some manufacturers, on the other hand, include no information. Even the recycling symbol itself is confusing, because people don't know what the numbers mean. A 1 or 2 means that a product can be widely recycled, 3 indicates PVC, which is not widely recycled, 4 is polyethylene, and 5 is polypropylene, both of which can only be recycled in some centres. 6 and 7 are not widely accepted for recycling.
- 5 Last year, more than half of the plastic waste that the UK exported for recycling was sent to China. China has now banned imports of 'foreign garbage', because it is receiving too much poor-quality plastic, contaminated with non-recyclable items. It's a worrying prospect. There are fears that it might not be possible to find alternative destinations for all our recyclable waste. As a result, plastic may end up being burnt, or put in landfill, or more will end up in the sea.
- 6 Perhaps we should stop assuming that everything that looks recyclable actually is. Instead, we need to start buying products that come in packaging that we are sure can be recycled, or better still, we should try to avoid packaging altogether.

Why do you want to go to university?

Because if I get a degree, I'll be able to earn more money.

The ultimate guide to internships

Thinking about applying for an internship? Make sure you know the facts before you get started.

An internship is generally somewhere in the middle between work experience and an apprenticeship.

It can be more like work experience if it involves shadowing other members of staff, having the opportunity to ask a lot of questions, and learning about the company and industry. This kind of internship is often unpaid. Other internships can be more similar to an apprenticeship, if you're being trained within a particular department, are contributing to the company by producing work, and are getting paid (at least a little).

Either way, an internship can be a great opportunity for a student or graduate, or someone who wants to change their career. Benefits include having the chance to try out a job without committing to it, making connections, and having something to put on your CV. A couple of years ago, a report revealed that almost half of employers said they wouldn't consider candidates who didn't have work experience, regardless of their university qualifications.

- d 4.17 Listen to the second part of the programme, where two women talk about their experiences of internships. What was each of them paid, if anything?
- e Listen again and make notes for each woman about:
- 1 the kind of work they did.
 - 2 the good side of internships.
 - 3 the bad side.
- f Discuss the questions.
- 1 Do you think unpaid internships are fair? Why (not)?
 - 2 Do the following things exist in your country?
 - work experience while you are still at school
 - apprenticeships
 - internships
 Have you ever done any of these things? Do you know anyone who has had a good or bad experience of them?
 - 3 If you had the chance to do an internship in any industry, which industry would you choose?

4 GRAMMAR first and second conditionals

- a 4.18 Listen to the ends of two job interviews. Complete the conditional sentences. Who do you think is going to get the job?
- 1 If we _____ you the job, when _____ you _____ to start?
 - 2 If we _____ you the job, you _____ a lot of training.
- b G p.139 Grammar Bank 4B
- c 4.21 Listen and write five first conditional sentences giving advice to people looking for work. Do you agree?
- d Imagine you were in these situations. What would you do? Use a second conditional sentence and say why.
- 1 You are offered a great job abroad.
 - 2 Your partner is offered a job abroad, but you don't want to move.
 - 3 You have to choose between a well-paid but boring job and a very interesting but badly-paid job.
 - 4 You are offered a good job while you are still studying.
 - 5 You have to choose between working at night or at weekends.

If I was offered a great job abroad, I'd probably take it because I'd have the opportunity to learn about a new culture.

5 READING

- a In your country, do students sometimes have part-time jobs during the evening, weekends, or holidays? What sort of part-time jobs are common?
- b Read the article. For each person, underline a sentence that shows whether they learnt something from the job or not. Who is the most positive about their job?

- c Read the article again. Answer with A–E.

Which person...?

- 1 felt that the job was badly-paid
- 2 liked the parts of the job where he / she could rest
- 3 started very early and finished very late
- 4 enjoyed spending time with the other workers
- 5 was very unsuccessful in one of his / her jobs

- d Find one word or phrase related to money in each paragraph for these definitions.

- A _____ an informal word for money
- B _____ money that children get from their parents every week
- C _____ got money for doing a job
- D _____ a regular amount of money that you earn, usually every week
- E _____ the place where you pay, e.g. in a supermarket

- e Which of the part-time jobs mentioned would you most / least like to do?

Glossary

shelf-stacker a person who puts things on shelves in a supermarket sell sth door to door visit houses to ask people if they want to buy something do a round do a job with a particular route, e.g. a postman

The best part-time job I ever had...

Dog walker, babysitter, shelf-stacker - most of us would have one of these classic part-time jobs on our CV. But did we really learn anything from the experience?

A Sir Ranulph Fiennes, explorer

When I was 16, I wanted to buy a canoe and needed £85. I washed the buses at Midhurst bus station between 3.00 a.m. and 7.00 a.m. during the week. Then I washed the dishes at the Angel Hotel from 6.00 p.m. to 10.00 p.m. I was paid £11 per week in all, and that's how I got the cash. It's too long ago to know if I actually learned anything from the experience.

B Russell Kane, comedian

I did two humiliating Saturday jobs. The first was selling vacuum cleaners door to door. I didn't sell a single one. The other job was working with my granddad for a frozen-food delivery service. I doubt that a Saturday job really teaches you anything. Where I come from, it's automatic - at age 11 you get a job. It wasn't, 'Hey man, I'm really learning the value of work.' It was, 'If I want money, I must work for it.' My dad never gave me a penny of pocket money after the age of 11.

C Tony Ross, illustrator and author

In the fifties, when I was a boy, I used to work at the post office over Christmas. It was fantastic fun. I earned enough to buy an old motor scooter. My favourite part was going in the lorry to collect the mailbags from the station because you didn't have to walk the streets all day. The other good thing was doing a round with your own house in it, because then you could stop for a cup of tea. I learned the basics of working for money, like arriving on time and enjoying it no matter what. It was a good introduction because very few people work for fun.

D Clive Stafford Smith, lawyer

I worked for a sand and gravel company when I was 16. It was cold, damp, and so boring that I cried. I've learned various important things from that job. First, I know I'm very lucky to have a job now that I truly love. I also learned that it's crazy to pay bankers millions while paying a low wage to people at gravel companies. It's terrible work and no one should have to do it. Anyone who says differently should be forced to work at that gravel company for a year.

E Adele Parks, author

When I was doing my A levels, I worked in our local supermarket for two years, stacking shelves. I was 16 then, and in a job like that, you make the decision whether this is what you want to do for the rest of your life. I spent a lot of time chatting to the other guys and girls who had permanent jobs. I am good at talking and telling stories, and I think I learned it there because one of the things about stacking shelves or being at the checkout is that you have lots of opportunities to talk to people. That's what I liked best.

Leading the fight against a 'plastic planet'

In the past few weeks, Richard Eckersley has noticed a change in the type of people who come into his shop. In 2017, the former Manchester United footballer set up Earth.Food.Love in Totnes, Devon, with his wife, Nicola. It's the UK's first 'zero waste' store – the food is in big jars and boxes and people bring their own containers. 'A lot of new people are coming in – people who have not necessarily been interested in environmental issues before', he says.

Recently, the government called for supermarkets to introduce plastic-free aisles. But Eckersley says many consumers are already way ahead of politicians. 'We are getting calls every week from people who want to do something similar.' He and Nicola have helped people set up stores in Wales, Birmingham, and Bristol. Ingrid Caldironi had a similar idea. She set up a plastic-free shop in London last year, which has been so popular that it is soon moving to a bigger site.

Eckersley and Caldironi are members of an anti-plastics movement in the UK that has been growing as a result of the BBC's Blue Planet series and a general worry about the damage plastic is doing to the environment. But big supermarkets have so far not tried very hard to reduce their plastic waste. Sian Sutherland, founder of the campaign 'A Plastic Planet', says, 'The most exciting thing is that politicians and industry are no longer saying that recycling will solve the problem. Banning the use of plastic packaging for food and drink products is the only answer.' Walking down the aisles of the supermarket where everything from pizza to fresh fruit and vegetables is covered in plastic, Sutherland says urgent action is needed. 'It is really quite overwhelming,' she says. 'I can buy gluten-free, fat-free, African food, Asian food, but I can't buy food without plastic.'

Plastic pollution is causing widespread global damage. More than one million plastic bottles are bought around the world every minute, and most end up in landfill or the sea. The contamination is so extensive that tap water around the world also contains plastic. Back in Devon, Eckersley says, 'After my daughter was born, it made me think about what future lies ahead for her. I wanted to say that at least I tried to make a difference.'

Why is the UK in love with foreign TV series?

What's the problem with British TV?

- f Now read the whole article. Choose a, b, or c.
- Foreign-language dramas nowadays are considered _____.
 - an unusual taste
 - normal because everyone watches them
 - only suitable for educated people
 - The Killing* was the first foreign series which _____.
 - became really popular
 - the BBC showed
 - Denmark exported
 - One reason for the popularity of foreign-language dramas is that _____.
 - it's much easier to watch them than it used to be
 - everybody is talking about them
 - UK and American series aren't as good as they used to be
 - Programmes with subtitles make the viewers _____.
 - do other things while they watch
 - want to tweet about them
 - pay more attention to what they are watching
 - Walter Iuzzolino is in favour of foreign-language TV because _____.
 - it encourages people to learn foreign languages
 - it allows people to experience life in other countries
 - it encourages people to visit the countries the series are set in

A few years ago, if you'd mentioned to a British friend or colleague that you were addicted to a Danish drama series, people would have thought you were a bit strange. But in the UK today, subtitled foreign-language dramas aren't just in fashion, they're completely mainstream.

It all began when the BBC bought the French crime drama Spiral, though it was Denmark's The Killing that was the tipping point. 'I remember hearing people talking about it on the bus,' admits Sue Deeks, Head of Programming at the BBC. 'It was clearly growing and growing in popularity, but the extent of it took everyone by surprise.' The Killing was followed by The Bridge, in which a crime is committed on the bridge between Denmark and Sweden, which regularly topped a million viewers. The British were hooked.

One of the reasons for the success of foreign TV is that it is more accessible than it used to be, thanks to catch-up and online services. And if you haven't watched the latest foreign series that everybody is talking about, you can binge watch the episodes that you've missed, and tweet about how much you love The Returned.

There may be something else in foreign TV's new popularity, too. In a world in which we're frequently distracted from our TV viewing by Twitter and WhatsApp, subtitles force us to focus. 'When you read subtitles, you have to be glued to the screen,' says Deeks. 'That concentration gives a particular intensity to the viewing experience. You just can't multitask when you're watching a foreign-language drama.'

And while foreign-language dramas are often remade for the Anglo-American market – for example, The Bridge became The Tunnel – the originals still dominate, because they transport us to a different culture. As Walter Iuzzolino, who has set up a new streaming service dedicated to foreign-language TV, says, 'You develop a love for the distant world, because while you're watching, you're in the country. If you see something amazing set in Argentina, then Argentina itself, the houses, the people, what they wear, what their voices sound like, the language, is one of the biggest appeals. There is a huge pleasure in that.'

'When you read subtitles, you have to be glued to the screen'

A new life for dying towns

Italy is famous for its picturesque small towns and villages, many of them originating from medieval times, but a recent report suggests that almost 2,500 risk becoming abandoned ghost towns. It all started with the post-war economic decline of rural Italian communities, when many inhabitants of these small towns and villages emigrated to cities. As more and more young people left, birth rates fell, and the villages began to empty. But recently, some of these villages have discovered new ways of surviving.

Civita is a tiny village about 120 kilometres north of Rome. It was founded by the Etruscans more than 2,500 years ago. The main piazza has a bell tower and a 13th-century church, the narrow streets have beautiful stone houses on either side, and there are ruins of Renaissance palaces. However, Civita ¹ _____ which connects it to another small town, Bagnoregio. The only vehicles ² _____, and a couple of tractors, which are used to transport building materials, or to bring supplies for the small number of restaurants and bars. Civita ³ _____, although in the summer, this rises to 100. It became known as 'the dying town', because of ⁴ _____ that have been threatening its survival since the 17th century, and it seemed destined to become a ghost town.

But in 2013, a brilliant idea from the local mayor saved it from certain death. His idea was to charge people an entrance fee to visit the village. Visitors now have to pay €3 Monday to Saturday and €5 on Sundays or public holidays. For a few euros more, they can get a private tour of the village, or a sandwich and a glass of wine. As they walk through its main entrance – a huge stone gateway – any irritation at having to pay quickly evaporates, as visitors are taken back to the Middle Ages. In only five years, the number of tourists has grown from 40,000 to 850,000 per year. As the mayor says, 'Today Civita is not only alive, but it's keeping the entire area alive, too.'

Another approach has worked for the tiny medieval village of Santo Stefano di Sessanio, 145 kilometres east of Rome. At the end of the 20th century, the village was in ruins, with only 70 inhabitants. But in 1999, Swedish-Italian millionaire Daniele Kihlgren drove through the village on a solo motorbike tour, and decided to do something about this sad situation. He started by buying one house and quickly followed that with another ten. He then made a deal with local government officials to preserve Santo Stefano and not allow any new buildings. In return, he would restore it to its original state and give the village a chance to live again by making the houses into hotel rooms.

Five years later, the village was opened to visitors and became the first 'Albergo Diffuso', which means a hotel which is in fact a whole village with rooms in different buildings. 32 of the restored houses are now hotel rooms. Kihlgren buys everything from local people in and around the village, from the food for the restaurants to the accessories in the guest rooms. As a result, local crafts and the local economy have been revived. In spite of a recent earthquake, the village is now thriving, and Kihlgren has since bought several more villages, which he plans to restore in the same way. Staying in Santo Stefano is like stepping back in time. Walking back in an intense silence from a cosy restaurant to the warmth of your own private, medieval house has a comforting and calming effect. Where once there were empty buildings and locked doors, now fireplaces burn again and soft light pours through the small windows of the centuries-old houses. Santo Stefano di Sessanio is alive again.

FROM THE CITY TO THE COUNTRY

AND SOMETIMES BACK AGAIN

Not everyone in the UK who moves to the country ends up staying there. In fact, for the first time in years, as many people are moving back to cities as are moving out to the country.

LIZ JONES

I was just divorced, and bored with my easy, if super-busy, London life. I wanted to live somewhere quieter, simpler, more beautiful, so I sold my house and bought a big farmhouse with 50 acres of land. I'll look after horses, I thought. I'll get a dog. I'll grow all my own food. It will be idyllic and friends will come to stay and tell me how lucky I am to live here.

BOB AYERS

My wife, Jean, and I had lived in London for years, and we both worked right in the city centre. I was a police inspector and Jean was a police dog handler. We enjoyed our jobs, but it was pretty stressful, dealing with accidents, drugs, shootings, and so on. We'd often talked about moving out of London, and we'd had holidays in the country, so we thought we knew what living in the country would be like. Ten years ago, we bought a house in a village in Dorset, with a huge garden.

- d Look at the highlighted words in the article. What do you think over- and under- mean when they are used before another word?
- e Which of the pieces of advice in the article do you think is the most useful?

How to complain in restaurants... without losing your cool

People often lose their temper when they try to complain about bad food or service. So how do you do it effectively?

1
Seventy-five per cent of all problems in restaurants are caused by bad organization, bad training, or employing the wrong staff. The waiters are often innocent victims, so they are not the right person to complain to.

2
Have a reasonable idea in your head of how you want the complaint dealt with (i.e. the dish re-cooked, removed from the bill, etc.). Make your case politely, but clearly; don't start your sentence with 'Sorry...'. What are you apologizing for?

3
A waiter's job isn't easy. You need to recognize the difference between when they are being genuinely rude or lazy, and when they are simply overworked. Booking systems crash. A big group of people who haven't booked suddenly arrives. Staff get ill. Look around you. Are you waiting for your drinks because the staff are chatting by the till, or are they rushing around because the restaurant is clearly understaffed?

Never tell restaurant staff how you think a dish should be cooked or how a drink should be served. If you want something done in a specific way, ask for it. Good restaurants will do it. You don't need to prove how much you know about food and wine by talking about your holiday in Italy or your best friend who has a vineyard. Please also bear in mind that you probably don't know everything. They are the professionals. You aren't.

5
The fact that a dish has not been made 'how you do it at home' is not a good reason to complain. The same applies to portion size, unless you can see that the table next to you got twice as much as you. But too much salt, important ingredients missing, undercooked fish, cold or burnt food: these are all good reasons for complaining.

6
You want a dish served without one of its ingredients? Within reason, that's fine. You want your steak cooked until it's like shoe leather? It's OK to ask for that. However, if you want spaghetti bolognese and it isn't on the menu, that's too bad. Similarly, you can't expect the staff to run to the nearest supermarket to get you some white bread because you don't like the chef's wholemeal loaf.

7
Don't threaten to write a bad review on a restaurant review site if you are unhappy with the food or service. If your complaint hasn't been satisfactorily resolved on the night, email the restaurant. You will be amazed how receptive restaurants can be.

8
Don't continue drinking your vinegary wine or eating your overcooked steak until you are halfway through and then complain. Similarly, there's no point in telling the waitress who is clearing the table that there wasn't enough sauce. Speak up while the mistake can be corrected.

4 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a 6.5 You're going to listen to three people talking about bad experiences in restaurants. First, listen to some extracts and write down the food you hear.
- b 6.6 Now listen to the three stories. Make notes in the chart.
- c Answer the questions with a partner.
- 1 Think of some places where you've eaten out. Have you ever had really bad service? What happened?
 - 2 Have you ever seen a customer who behaved badly? Have you ever worked as a waiter?
 - 3 When you go to a restaurant, which do you think is more important, the service or the food? Why? What other aspects of a restaurant are important to you when you go out?

	1	2	3
Was the speaker a waiter or a customer?
Where did the incident happen?
What is the speaker complaining about?
What happened in the end?

5 GRAMMAR obligation, necessity, prohibition, advice

- a Do you normally leave a tip in restaurants? How much do you leave?
- b Read an article about tipping. Is the situation in your country similar to any of the countries mentioned? Do you agree with the waiter's advice in the last paragraph?

Tipping in restaurants – a waiter's guide

Knowing how to tip in restaurants can be a nightmare, especially on holiday. A waiter tells you what to do...

Is there anywhere where people never tip?

In Japan. You mustn't do it there. The Japanese think that tipping someone means treating them like a servant. The price is the price.

Where should you tip?

Everywhere else. As a waiter, I find it hard to imagine anyone being upset with extra cash. You should never feel embarrassed to leave a tip on the table. In fact, in countries where you don't have to tip, it's even more appreciated.

Do you need to tip if service is already included?

In countries like France and Australia, service is always included in the prices. The service charge is often shared with the kitchen staff as well – which is a good thing, helping everyone to earn a bit more. When you have to pay a service charge, of course, you needn't add an extra tip unless you really want to. If you do tip, check that the money is going to the waiter and not to the restaurant owner, and if in doubt, leave cash.

How much should you tip?

The standard service charge is 12.5% of the bill in Britain, so if your bill doesn't include service, you should tip about 10% (the USA and Canada are another story – there's no upper limit!). But – and this is important – if you're leaving a good tip, don't make a big thing about it and expect the waiter to look at you adoringly. Do it discreetly and enjoy the feel-good factor instead.

When shouldn't you tip?

The only circumstances when I think you shouldn't tip are when the service is really really bad, for example, if you ask for things that never arrive, or if staff are extremely unfriendly. But remember that what many people think of as 'slow service' is often more the kitchen's fault than the waiter's.

- c Match the highlighted phrases to their meaning. What other verbs could you use for 1, 4, and 5?

- 1 It's an obligation / necessity.

- 2 It isn't an obligation / necessity.

- 3 Don't do it! It's prohibited / dangerous / wrong.

- 4 It's a good idea.

- 5 It isn't a good idea.

- e In pairs, circle the correct answer.
- 1 You shouldn't / You ought to speak rudely to waiters.
 - 2 You mustn't / You don't have to order food containing nuts if you have a serious nut allergy.
 - 3 You ought to / You oughtn't to send something back just because you don't like it.
 - 4 You have to / You needn't book a table in advance at really popular restaurants.
 - 5 You don't need to / You shouldn't order things which aren't on the menu.
 - 6 You mustn't / You don't have to finish everything on your plate.
 - 7 You needn't / You should leave a tip if the service was mediocre.

6 LISTENING

- a 6.11 You're going to listen to an interview with Sally, an American, about tipping in US restaurants. First, listen to two short extracts. What American English words does she use for the following nouns?

tip bill waiter or waitress note (= money)

- b 6.12 Now listen to the interview. In which situations does Sally say you don't have to tip in the USA?
- c Listen again. Complete the information with a number.
- 1 Many waiters earn $___ to ___ per hour.
 - 2 The minimum wage in the USA is around $___ per hour.
 - 3 A normal tip is ___ to ___% of the bill.
 - 4 If the service is excellent, you should pay ___%.
 - 5 If the service isn't good, you should pay ___%.
 - 6 In a bar, you should tip $___ for each drink you order.
- d Was there anything that surprised you about the US tipping system? Do you think it's fair? Why (not)?

7 SPEAKING

- a Look at the photos. What jobs do they show? What services do these people provide?
- b In pairs, answer the questions about your country.
- 1 Do people usually tip for the services in the photos? If yes, about how much? If no, do you think they should?
 - 2 Is it usual to tip anybody else who provides a service, for example, refuse collectors or postmen / women at Christmas or for other special occasions?
 - 3 Have you ever felt embarrassed about tipping or not tipping someone? Why (not)?

1 READING

a Look at the photos of everyday things. Which do you think you might be able to use...?

instead of shaving cream to make towels soft to get rid of smells to make your hair shiny to keep insects away

b Read the blog. What are the 'extraordinary' uses for the things in a? Were you right?

c Read the blog again. As you read, focus on the highlighted verbs and read the sentences they appear in carefully. Try to guess what the verbs mean.

Marina's extraordinary uses for ordinary things

Your house is full of everyday items that can be used for things you would never have expected. I promise all these ideas work – I've tried them!

1 Do you have a problem with insects? Don't like spiders in your house? Citrus or lemon oil is a traditional repellent for insects of all kinds – and the oil is in the peel. Take large pieces of peel and place them along window sills and cracks outside your house, to stop spiders, ants, and other unwelcome guests from coming in.

Cats also really dislike the strong smell of lemons, so you can use lemon peel or lemon juice to keep them away from specific areas in your house or garden. However, despite what you may have heard, lemon oil doesn't have any effect on mosquitoes, sadly, so it won't protect you from their bites.

2 Even after you've washed them, plastic food containers often end up with a rather unpleasant smell from the food you kept in them. Newspaper can absorb all sorts of moisture and smells. Just crumple a piece of newspaper and put it inside your food container, then seal the container and leave it overnight.

In the morning, throw away the newspaper and enjoy your clean container. You can also use the same method to deal with smelly trainers. Just stuff them with newspaper overnight and they'll be smell-free the next day.

3 Towels are always soft and lovely when they're new, but they soon become a bit rough. You could buy fabric conditioner to help to restore that softness, but you can also use a tennis ball. Just put the ball in the dryer with your towels or sheets. Because of the movement of the ball against the material, they will feel really soft when you take them out. Make sure you use a new tennis ball, though, or you risk ruining your lovely clean laundry.

4 Eggs are rich in proteins that are very similar to those found in our hair, so they make a great conditioner. Try beating an egg with a bit of olive oil, and apply it to your hair. (Use a couple of eggs if your hair is really dry.) If you want to smell less like an omelette and more like you've just come back from the hairdresser's, add a couple of drops of scented oil. Leave on for about 20 minutes and then rinse with warm water. Your hair will be shiny and extra smooth. But be careful not to use really hot water or you might cook the eggs!

5 Many people know that you can use olive oil to stop doors from making a noise, or to make machines work more smoothly. But you might be surprised to learn that it is also a great alternative to shaving cream. Just rub it on your skin and shave normally. Olive oil can also help with dry skin, so you can use it to moisturize your face or legs after you finish shaving.

d Now match the verbs in c to the definitions below.

- 1 _____ to wash sth with clean water only, not using soap
- 2 _____ to move a cloth or your hand backwards and forwards on sth while pressing hard
- 3 _____ to take in liquid from sth
- 4 _____ to put or spread sth such as paint, cream, etc. onto a surface
- 5 _____ to close a container tightly or fill a crack, especially so that air, liquid, etc. cannot get in or out
- 6 _____ to put sth in a particular position
- 7 _____ to make paper into a ball
- 8 _____ to bring sth back to a former condition
- 9 _____ to prevent sb / sth from going somewhere
- 10 _____ to fill a space or container tightly with sth

e Do you think you might try any of the tips in the blog? Which one(s)? Can you think of any other 'extraordinary' uses for the things in the photos in a?

- b Look at the cartoon with the article below. What problem does it show?
- c Read about IKEA. What information in the article...?
- 1 shows that IKEA is very popular outside Sweden
 - 2 shows that there are also problems with IKEA

It looks so easy at first...

The Swedish furniture store Ikea has transformed homes around the world with its cheap, modern, Scandinavian style. Since it started in 1943, IKEA has also changed the way we live: one in ten Europeans now sleeps in an IKEA bed, and its catalogue is in more homes than any other publication, including the Bible and the complete works of Shakespeare. But along with the pleasure of inexpensive furniture is the pain, for example, the frustrating one-way system used to navigate the stores, or some of the strange names given to the products. Most of all, there's the problem of getting the furniture home and trying to put it together.

- d 6.20 Listen to three people describing an experience with flat-pack furniture. What did they buy? Were they happy with it in the end?

A few months ago, I ¹ _____ to open the petrol tank of my car. When I googled, 'How to open stuck Volvo petrol tank', the first result was a video clip by a man called Robert, in Arkansas, USA. Robert demonstrated exactly how to get into the car and undo the tank from the inside. The video wasn't great, but it worked.

Every task you can think of now has a step-by-step video guide on the internet. Siobhan Freegard, who set up the online video platform Channel Mum, explains why video guides are so popular. 'I was in a café chatting about ² _____ to a young mother. We both took out our phones, and I went to the BBC food website to find one. But she searched on YouTube. For her, a video was easier than reading.'

Some of the online videos are rubbish. However, you can find some very useful ones. I've now successfully fixed a cupboard door, mended some tiles, and unblocked the sink. I am not ³ _____. A survey by an insurance company found that for DIY advice, 50% of people go to YouTube first. People also turn to the internet because professionals are not available. William Hall moved house just after Christmas and on New Year's Eve he discovered that he had a blocked drain. He knew he wouldn't find anyone to come out that night, ⁵ _____ he watched a DIY Doctor video, which explained exactly what to do. 'It was hard work,' said William, 'but it was so satisfying when I finally unblocked it.'

Some online videos have astonishing viewing figures. Chez Rossi runs a YouTube channel called Ultimate Handyman, most of which is ⁶ _____ in his garage. Some of his videos have been watched more than a million times. Rossi earns a couple of thousand pounds a month from adverts and he even gets recognized in the street. Welcome to your ATM

Over fifty years ago, on 27th June 1967, the world's first ATM (Automated Teller Machine) was opened at a branch of Barclays Bank in north London. Today, we think nothing of stepping up to a hole in the wall when we need cash, but until the late 1960s, banks were only open until 3.30 p.m. John Shepherd-Barron, Managing Director of a banknote manufacturer, found his bank was closed when he needed some money. In the bath later that evening, he came up with the idea of something similar to a chocolate bar vending machine, with cash replacing the chocolate. Within days, Barclays agreed to create the first cash machines. Shepherd-Barron, a former soldier, suggested a six-figure personal identification number, based on his army number. But his wife Caroline said she could only remember four digits, so he settled on the four-digit PIN we use today. The first cashpoint only allowed the customers to take out £10 at a time, in £1 notes. Nowadays, you can do many other things at an ATM, for example, print a bank statement, or top up your phone, and new machines will even allow customers to print digital photos.

2 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a 7.2 Listen to two true news stories about ATMs and look at the pictures. What did each machine give out? Did both the stories have a happy ending?
- b Listen again and answer the questions about each story.

Story 1

- 1 What happened when people heard about the machine?
- 2 How many people used the machine and for how long?
- 3 What kind of people were they?
- 4 Why did some people become aggressive?
- 5 What did the police do?
- 6 What did the bank say?

Story 2

- 1 What was the man doing when he locked himself in?
- 2 What did he leave in his van?
- 3 Why was this a problem?
- 4 How did he try to get help?
- 5 What did customers think at first?
- 6 What did the police do?

- c Look at two extracts from the stories. Why do you think the villager and the man 'asked not to be named'?

Story 1: 'One villager, who asked not to be named, said that some people had used five or six bank cards and had got £300 free with each card.'

Story 2: 'A man, who asked not to be named, had locked himself in.'

- d Talk to a partner.

- 1 How often do you use cash machines? What do you use them for?
- 2 Have you ever had a problem with a cash machine? What happened? What did you do?
- 3 If a cash machine gave you more money than you asked for, what would you do?

4 PRONUNCIATION linking

Linking

Remember that when a word ends with a consonant and the next word begins with a vowel, the words are linked together and pronounced like one word.

If the final consonant is w, a /w/ sound is pronounced between the two words, e.g. throw it is pronounced /θrəʊwɪt/.

a Match 1–6 to a–f.

- | | |
|---|--------------------------|
| 1 The machine says 'Insert your card'. | a Take it out. |
| 2 Your shoes are really dirty. | b Throw it away. |
| 3 Waiter, I can't finish this steak. | c Put it in. |
| 4 This chicken's past its sell-by date. | d Take it away. |
| 5 The rubbish is beginning to smell. | e Look it up. |
| 6 It's probably on Wikipedia. | f Take them off . |

b 7.9 Listen and check.

c 7.10 Listen and repeat a–f, linking the words.

d Work with a partner. A cover a–f. B say a sentence from 1–6. A say a response from a–f from memory. Then swap roles.

e 7.11 Listen to the sentences. Make a second sentence with a phrasal verb from the list and a pronoun (it, me, or them).

fill in pay back pick up put away switch off try on turn down turn up

1 You owe me money. (Pay me back.

5 SPEAKING

Who do you take after most in your family? In what way?

Is there a new hobby or sport you'd really like to take up? Will you ever do it?

When you get a missed call, do you call back immediately, later, or not at all?

When was the last time you gave something away? Who to? Why?

6 READING

- a Look at six ways of spending money. Which three do you think would make you happiest? Compare with a partner.
- going on a luxurious holiday
 - buying a birthday present for a friend
 - giving a donation to charity
 - paying off your credit card bill
 - buying yourself some new clothes
 - giving a few coins to a homeless person
- b Read a short article about the relationship between money and happiness. According to research, which three things in a will make you happiest? Why?

Can money buy you happiness?

According to research, it seems that it can. But what makes us really happy is not buying ourselves the latest iPhone, it's spending our money on other people. In a study of the link between money and happiness, researchers from Zurich University divided 50 people into two groups. The first group was asked to plan how to spend 25 Swiss francs a week on gifts or outings for other people, and the second group was asked to plan how to spend the same amount of money on themselves. The people in the first group increased their happiness more than the group who planned to buy themselves treats. Spending on ourselves, it turns out, doesn't make us nearly as happy as giving to other people. Other studies in which people have been given envelopes of money to spend show that those who spent some of it on a gift, or gave some to charity, felt happier than those who spent it on something for themselves or on a bill they needed to pay. A study of young children found that even toddlers felt happier giving rather than getting treats. And the best news is that you don't have to give a lot of money away to feel the benefits.

Glossary

treat (noun) sth very pleasant and enjoyable

- c Now read an article about Grayden Reece-Smith. Why did he decide not to work for a charity? Do you think it was a sensible choice?

Working for a big financial company in London on a six-figure salary, you might expect Grayden Reece-Smith to ¹ , going on expensive holidays or driving a sports car around south London, where he lives. Over the past five years, Reece-Smith has handed over more than £250,000 to organizations such as International Care Ministries, which ³ , and the Against Malaria Foundation. He is part of a growing number of young professionals described as 'effective altruists'. Effective altruists typically donate regularly to a charity which they think will have a significant impact. Some ⁴ to make more money, which can then be given away.

Reece-Smith considered working in the charity sector after graduating from university, but calculated that he could make a bigger difference by donating a large part of his salary. He had ⁵ at a school in Tanzania, but then realized that earning and giving would be more effective. 'The cost of my flights there could have paid the salaries of two teachers for an entire year,' he says. Instead, he could 'stay at home, living a nice life and still ⁶ '.

He is not frugal – last year he went to Cuba on holiday, and ⁷ . But his lifestyle isn't as luxurious as some of the people he works with. 'I tend not to buy supermarket-branded food products, but I don't ⁸ . Other people on my salary might have a bigger house. Some of my colleagues have four-bedroom houses, but we only bought what we needed – a two-bedroom flat. £42,000 is more than enough to live on and still save,' he says.

- b 7.23 Listen and check.
- c Read the first part of an article about board games. What is unusual about the Thirsty Meeples café? Where does its name come from?

A different kind of social network

It's a bright Thursday morning in Oxford and the Thirsty Meeples café is a buzz of activity. As I, my wife, and two sons sit at a sunny window table, the assistant, Gareth, introduces himself and recommends some games. First, he suggests Forbidden Desert. 'You have crash-landed in a desert,' explains Gareth. 'You have to find all the pieces of a flying ship in order to escape.' Next, he suggests Small World, in which wizards, giants, and humans with special powers battle for land in a world that's too small for them all. Last, he recommends Citadels, a game where you compete to become the King's Master Builder by building a medieval city. We choose Citadels. As we play, next to us Eveline, a 30-year-old Dutch university teacher, is playing Ticket to Ride with her Belgian husband, Roger – they are racing against each other to build railway tracks across Europe. Two teenagers play Sushi Go!, a card game where they have to create sushi dishes. What has drawn all these different people here, from serious gamers to families? Eveline thinks she has the answer. She looks around at the other customers and at the library of games on the shelves. 'I would say it's the original social network.'

Thirsty Meeples's name comes from the combination of 'meeples', the pieces that board gamers play with, and wanting a drink. It is one of a growing number of board game shops and cafés popping up all over the UK, inspired by their growing popularity in the USA.

- d Read the first part again and look at the photos of the games. In which game, A–E, do players have to...?

- 1 try to get an important job
- 2 make a transport network across a continent
- 3 fight others to get more living space
- 4 make something to eat
- 5 get out of somewhere after an accident

- f Read the second part again. With a partner, explain in your own words what these phrases mean.
- 1 it is thriving l.30
 - 2 young professional couples l.34
 - 3 rather than going out to the pub l.36
 - 4 much wider appeal l.42
 - 5 one of the biggest factors l.51
 - 6 not just staring at screens l.63
 - 7 in the real world l.66
- g Which games in the article would you most like to try? Can you suggest any other good games?

7 SPEAKING

- b Compare your list in small groups. Say why you like / don't like doing each of the activities.
- c Think about the last time you spent an evening with friends. What did you do? Compare with a partner.

- e Now read the second part of the article. What are the three main reasons why board games have become so popular?

Peter Wooding, a former punk rocker, opened a board game shop called Orc's Nest in Covent Garden, London, in 1987. For the first few years, the shop hardly made any money at all, but over 30 years later, it is thriving.

Wooding says that one of the reasons for its success is that the games and players are very different from 30 years ago. Today, they are young professional couples, who like the idea of playing a game with friends and having a few drinks, rather than going out to the pub. Another reason is that there are also far more women playing games. Wooding says the game Pandemic, where players must collaborate to control global diseases, and whose main character is a female scientist, has had a huge influence. 'Much wider appeal,' says Wooding. 'More friendly.' Pandemic is an example of the newer, less aggressive games, with themes like farming or landscape building. One such game, Catan, in which players have to buy and sell natural resources to build roads and new cities, has sold more than 22 million copies in 30 languages.

The growth of the video games industry has, perhaps surprisingly, also been one of the biggest factors in the new popularity of board games, largely because they have made playing games such a normal thing for adults to do. Everyone has at least one game on their phone, and more people are open to the idea of playing a game than ever before. Social media has also provided an easy way for people to recommend new games to each other.

‘You connect with people across the table. It's a very human thing.’
Matt Leacock, creator of Pandemic

At Thirsty Meeples in Oxford, I talk to owners John and Zuzi Morgan. What's Zuzi's explanation for the trend? 'There's so much technology,' she says. 'Everybody's busy and you want to bring people back together in a way that's not just staring at screens. It's a natural thing in people. We are supposed to be together and communicating with each other in the real world.'

1 ▶ ROB GETS INVOLVED

SPA TREATMENTS – WOMEN LOVE THEM. CAN MEN ENJOY THEM TOO?

The Sunday Times decided to find out. Two of their journalists, Joanna Duckworth and Stephen Bleach, went to spend a day at a health spa and try out the treatments. These are some of the treatments they had:

KANEBO KAI ZEN FACIAL

Deep intensive cleaning with face and neck massage. 1 hr 40 minutes.

BANANA, PAPAYA, AND STRAWBERRY BODY POLISH

Leaves your skin feeling smooth and hydrated. Includes head massage. 40 minutes.

ELEMIS FOOT TREATMENT

Pedicure and foot massage. 55 minutes.

- a Read the introduction to the article. Why did the journalists go to the spa? Which treatments do you think a) Joanna, b) Stephen will like best?
- b Read about the facial. Why did Stephen score the treatment only 4/10? Why did Joanna give it 9/10?
- c 8.8 You're going to listen to Stephen and Joanna talking after two more treatments. First, listen to some extracts and write the missing words. Which comments are positive and which are negative?
- 1 It was hot and _____, and incredibly _____.
 - 2 And the head massage was _____.
 - 3 _____ the time and money.
 - 4 A real _____.

THE FACIAL

STEPHEN

Laura, the therapist, started by suggesting five different products for me to use every morning, and five more at night. I was shocked – it normally only takes me a minute to wash my face in soap and water in the morning. The actual treatment took nearly two hours. Laura used 12 different creams and things on my skin and I was very bored indeed. Afterwards, I had to admit my face felt quite different: it was much smoother and quite shiny. But I'm not sure I liked it. I don't think smooth and shiny is a good look for me.

My score: 4/10. Quite nice, but it went on forever.

JOANNA

The therapist told me that the treatment would last nearly two hours. Total bliss! But I knew Stephen would be bored, and we weren't having lunch until after the session, so he wouldn't be able to relax. He's terrible when he's hungry. I had more processes (exfoliation, cleansing, masks, massages, more masks, more massages) than I ever thought possible for a facial, and I enjoyed every second.

My score: 9/10. My skin felt fantastic, really healthy, and afterwards, I was completely relaxed.

d  8.9 Now listen to them talking and complete the chart.

Battle Bayeux Hastings
 Norway Stamford Bridge

THE BATTLE THAT CHANGED ENGLAND'S HISTORY

Every year, on 14th October, a famous battle is re-enacted on the exact site where the original battle took place. Over 600 people dress up in period costumes and bring the story of an 11th century battle to life. The Battle of Hastings, which was fought in 1066, is one of the best-known events of English history, when William of Normandy defeated the army of King Harold of England. This marked the end of the Anglo-Saxon era and the beginning of Norman rule.

1066 was a turbulent year for England. King Harold had succeeded his brother-in-law, Edward, as King of England, but he was being attacked by others who wanted to rule the country – the King of Norway, and Duke William of Normandy (in what is now France). The Norwegians invaded in the north, and were defeated by the English army at the battle of Stamford Bridge on 25th September, but soon after, the Normans landed in Sussex on the south coast, and made their camp near the small seaside town of Hastings.

The English army immediately travelled south. On 13th October, after covering 275 miles, they arrived exhausted near Hastings, and on the morning of 14th, the two armies met in a field about 7 miles north-west of the town. Each army had between 5,000 and 7,000 men. They had similar armour and weapons, but William had over 2,000 cavalry, whereas the English fought on foot. William also had archers with powerful bows.

The battle lasted all day. The English soldiers used their shields to protect themselves against the Normans' arrows, but gradually the Normans gained control, and in the last attack, King Harold was killed. The English lost the battle, and on Christmas Day, William of Normandy was crowned King of England. He later became known as William the Conqueror.

In 1071, King William built an abbey on the site where the battle had taken place, as a memorial to all those who had died. Although no relics of the battle have ever been found there, we have very strong evidence that it took place, because an enormous tapestry was made – nearly 70 metres long – showing the story of the battle. This tapestry, which was completed in about 1077, is known as the Bayeux tapestry, and it has been kept in France for nearly 1,000 years. It can be visited in a museum in the town of Bayeux, Normandy.

William's abbey was called Battle Abbey, and the town that grew up nearby was also called Battle. The whole of the town would once have been part of the battlefield; for example, Harold's soldiers almost certainly retreated up what is currently Battle high street. Although the abbey was destroyed by King Henry VIII in the 16th century, the ruins and the battlefield remain one of the most atmospheric historical sites in Britain today.

CAN YOU understand this text?

- a Read the extract from a website. Would you like to visit the Roman Baths? Why (not)?

VISIT BATH

THINGS TO DO > ROMAN BATHS

The spa city of Bath is situated on natural hot springs, and the water has played an important role throughout the city's history. The Roman Baths were constructed around 70 AD as a grand bathing and socializing centre. The Baths are now in the centre of the city, and are one of the best preserved Roman ruins in the world.

The Great Bath, which lies below street level, is situated at the centre of the building, and here you can walk on the ancient paths, as the Romans did 2,000 years ago. 1,170,000 litres of hot water, reaching 46°C, still fill the baths every day. The Romans believed that this was the mystical work of the gods, but we now know that the water, which comes out of the ground at the King's Spring, fell as rainwater around 10,000 BC. There are statues around the terrace, from where you can look down on the Great Bath, and see the tower of Bath Abbey above you. You can visit the Roman heated rooms and changing rooms, as well as the other smaller bathing pools which were filled with warm and cold water.

With an audio guide, you can listen to the fascinating commentary as you slowly walk around the site. These are available in 12 different languages. A special English-speaking audio guide is also available, narrated by the travel writer Bill Bryson, who gives his thoughts and observations on all things Roman. As well as walking around the ruins, you can explore the interactive museum, where you will find out about the lives of the people of Aquae Sulis, the Roman name for Bath.

Afterwards, try the spa water in the Pump Room, which is included in the admission price. The spa water contains 43 minerals and is believed to be very good for you. This is a unique opportunity to get a real taste (literally!) of Roman Bath. Then go for afternoon tea in the Pump Room restaurant, where you'll be accompanied by classical music from the Pump Room Trio.

During July and August, the Roman Baths are open until 10.00 p.m. You can explore them by moonlight, and by the light of torches placed around the site, which creates a magical atmosphere.

- f Now do the task in the last paragraph of the extract. Then use the Number-Shape System and the Link Method to memorize the credit card number in a. Could you do it better than the first time?
- g Do you think the author's method is a good one? Do you know any other good ways of remembering things like PINs and passwords?
- h You're now going to do an activity called Build Words into a Picture, and use images to learn new vocabulary. Your teacher will tell you what to do.

How to remember numbers

We are surrounded by numbers - PINs, codes for credit card security, online accounts, or entry codes to buildings - and we are expected to memorize them all. Wouldn't it be great if we could remember these numbers instantly, whenever we needed them? I am not brilliant at remembering numbers, but I have trained my memory. Now I can ¹ . How is this possible?

I use a method called the Number-Shape System. This is a great way to store any sequence of digits, such as PINs, calendar dates, telephone numbers, and much longer ones as well. First, for numbers 0-9, ² . For example, '0' could be a ball, '1' could be a pencil, and so on. My suggestions for numbers 2-9 are: 2 a swan, 3 handcuffs, 4 a sailing boat, 5 a seahorse, 6 an elephant's trunk, 7 a boomerang, 8 an egg timer, and 9 a balloon on a string. You can use these ideas, or choose images of your own, for example, number 8 could also be a snowman.

Now you can start using the pictures. Connect ³ . So, to remind you that you have to catch a number 67 bus, imagine an elephant ('elephant trunk' = number 6) standing at the bus stop throwing a boomerang ('boomerang' = number 7); an unlikely scene, but certainly one you won't forget. Or if you want to remember that oxygen has the atomic number 8, imagine a snowman wearing an oxygen mask. Now, suddenly, numbers come to life and are instantly more memorable. This is called the Link Method. It works by linking one object to the next by creating an imaginary connection between the two items.

You're going to try to memorize the following 20-digit number.

7 9 0 4 6 2 1 3 5 8 5 9 9 4 0 1 3 2 7 6

First, using the Number-Shape System, convert each number into its equivalent shape (use either your own number shapes or mine). Then connect them together using the Link Method. So to start, imagine throwing a boomerang at a balloon on a string. Continue by connecting the balloon on a string to a ball, and so on. You should now have created ⁴ , starting with a boomerang and ending with an elephant's trunk. Now try to write down the sequence of numbers. Score one point for each digit you can recall before making a mistake. Maximum points: 20.

1 READING & LISTENING

- a You're going to read a short story by William Somerset Maugham. Read the information about him below. Do you think it was right or wrong of him to write about people he met? Why (not)?

William Somerset Maugham (1874–1965)

William Somerset Maugham (/ˈsʌməsət ˈmɔːm/) was a well-known English novelist and short story writer whose stories were often set in China, Singapore, Burma (now Myanmar), Malaya (now Malaysia), and other East Asian countries. Maugham wrote at a time when many of these places were colonies of Great Britain. The language of his stories reflects the social and political context of the time; country and city names have since been changed and some ways of referring to people would not be considered appropriate today. Many of the people in Maugham's stories were real, and they were often upset to recognize themselves in his books.

Mabel

Part 1

George was working in Burma for the British colonial government. He and Mabel became engaged when he was back in England. When he returned to Burma, it was arranged that she would join him there in six months. But one difficulty came up after another. Mabel's father died, the war came, then George was sent to a district which was unsuitable for a white woman. In the end, it was seven years before she was able to start. He made all the arrangements for the marriage, which was going to take place on the day of her arrival, and went down to Rangoon to meet her. Then, suddenly, without warning, his nerve failed him. He had not seen Mabel for seven years. He had forgotten what she was like. She was a total stranger. He felt a terrible feeling in his stomach. He couldn't go through with it. He must tell Mabel that he was very sorry, but he couldn't, he really couldn't marry her. But how could a man tell a girl a thing like that when she had been engaged to him for seven years and had come 6,000 miles to marry him? He didn't have the nerve for that either. There was a boat just about to sail for Singapore; he wrote a letter to Mabel, and without any luggage, just in the clothes he was wearing, he boarded the boat. The letter Mabel received said:

Dearest Mabel,

I have been suddenly called away on business and do not know when I will be back. I think it would be much wiser if you returned to England. My plans are very uncertain.

Your loving George.

This is how much a wedding really costs!

After we got ¹ _____ and started seriously planning our wedding, I read ALL the wedding magazines, and they all tell you that the average cost of a UK wedding is now £25,000. After the event, I can tell you that unless you are having the ² _____ in your garden, and are only inviting ten ³ _____, this is just not true.

We didn't have an enormous wedding. We got ⁴ _____ in a country house in Surrey, and invited about 100 people, which I think is the average, judging by every other wedding I've been to. We saved money where we could. We were very lucky because friends designed the ⁵ _____, and did the music and photography for free. My sister made the cake, and my parents paid for the drinks. We bought the dresses for the ⁶ _____ and the suit for the ⁷ _____ ready-made from a department store.

Still, we ended up spending over £30,000, and if we hadn't had very kind and helpful friends, it would've been more like £35,000. Just to give other ⁸ _____ a little bit of guidance, I'm sharing some of our biggest expenses with you so it'll hopefully be a bit less of a shock when you get the bills!

d 10.10 Listen and check.

e Do you find any of these things about the Americans or the British annoying? Are there any customs in your country that might 'drive foreigners crazy'?

Six things Americans do that drive Brits crazy

By Ruth Margolis

American people are some of the friendliest you'll ever meet. But occasionally, they do things that we find a bit...eccentric.

1 Saying 'I love your accent!'

Before I moved to the USA, I never imagined that my London accent made me sound intelligent. At first the compliments were nice, but then a New York mum asked me to teach her two-year-old how to talk like me. A bit too much, I thought.

2

In America, people in shops say things like 'Ma'am, you have been an awesome customer today', just because I bought some toilet paper. I do not want that.

3

American waiters love to please, but sometimes they're too helpful. Over-enthusiastic waiters take away your plate the second it's empty, even if no one else at the table has finished.

4 Insisting that turkey is tasty

There's a good reason why Brits only eat this bird at Christmas. Turkey meat is dry and tasteless. But Americans put it in everything – burgers, meatballs, lasagna – everything!

5

We get it, you're proud to be an American. We Brits like our country too, but to your average Brit, hanging a giant flag from your house is a little bit creepy.

6

Having to remove 'u's from words like 'colour' and change 're' to 'er' in words like 'theatre' is a headache. And Americans, please note: saying 'erb' instead of 'herb' and pronouncing 'fillet' as 'fillay' (without the 't') is not clever or sophisticated. You are not French.

Six things Brits do that drive Americans crazy

By Maria Roth

Americans love the British. They're so charming and smart! But there are some things about them that we don't quite understand.

1

When strangers in stores and people on the street make eye contact, nod, or say, 'Hi!', it's OK to smile and say hello back. We won't bite!

2 Overcooking vegetables

The authentic British way to prepare vegetables is to put them in boiling water for a fortnight. We Americans think this is weird and unpleasant.

3

Oh, we fat Americans with our big cars and flags! Too many Brits are convinced that this inaccurate picture of us is true, and we are not amused.

It seems that some Brits would rather not leave a 15 to 20 per cent tip for their waiter. They may not realize that waiters in the US are paid very low wages and depend on tips to survive.

5 Not wanting to 'share'

Brits are famous for being reserved – they never complain or discuss their problems. But that's not the way we do things here. We're more open with our friends, and even with strangers, and when people don't share, we find it strange.

6

We get it, in British English, 'trousers' means pants and 'pants' are really underwear. And the letter 'z' is 'zee' to Americans, but 'zed' to Brits. We Americans just have a different way of speaking and writing. It doesn't mean we're stupid, and I promise we're not trying to offend you.

What's the hardest exam you've ever done?

Probably my French speaking exam!

3 LISTENING & SPEAKING

- a Tell a partner about the last time you took an exam or test. Did you pass or fail? Why?

- b Read about exams in England. What is the exam system in your country?

Exams in England

Age 11 Most children go straight to a secondary school without taking an exam, but in some parts of the country, children can still take an exam called the 11+ if they want to go to a school which selects the most academic children.

Age 16 Students take exams called 'GCSEs' in 8–12 different subjects. Before 1988, students took similar exams, called 'O levels'.

Age 18 Students can take final exams called 'A levels' in 3 or 4 different subjects of their choice before leaving school. They need good results in these exams if they want to go to university.

- c 10.13 Listen to Mark, Sophie, Diane, and Paul talking about their experiences with exams or tests. Who...?

- mentions an exam or test that they failed
- used to find exams stressful

TIP: Multiple-choice listening

- Read the questions carefully before you listen.
- After listening once, eliminate any answers that you are sure are wrong.
- Make sure that all of the information is correct in the option you choose. Don't choose it just because it contains a word or phrase that you heard in the recording.

- d Listen again. Choose a, b, or c.

- Mark had problems with his history O level because...
 - he didn't have time to finish the questions.
 - he hadn't prepared the right questions.
 - he had drunk too much coffee the night before.
- Sophie failed her driving test the first time because...
 - she didn't follow the examiner's instructions.
 - she didn't realize that what the examiner asked her to do was a trick.
 - she stopped somewhere where it wasn't safe.
- Diane 'froze' in her French oral exam because she...
 - couldn't remember the right words.
 - had told the examiner a lie.
 - couldn't understand the examiner's questions.
- Paul did badly in his GCSE chemistry...
 - because he'd done very little work for it.
 - because his memory failed.
 - although he thought he'd done well.

- e Ask and answer the questions with a partner.

If you are still studying

How do you usually prepare for a big exam...?

- a) during the previous weeks, b) the night before

What's the hardest exam you've taken recently? Why did you find it so hard? How did you do?

Have you ever done much better than you expected in an exam? What about one where everything went wrong? What happened?

If you are no longer studying

How did you use to feel about taking exams? Can you remember any particularly bad ones?

Did you use to revise a lot before exams? Did you revise right up to the last moment?

Is there an exam that you're really proud of having passed?

Do you think you will ever have to take any more exams in the future? Why (not)?

Do you think exams are a good way of testing how much people know? Why (not)?

5 READING

- a Is there a university entrance exam in your country? How difficult is it considered to be?
- b Read the article about the gaokao (/gɑʊkɑʊ/), China's national university entrance exam. How does it compare with similar exams in your country?

A nation prepares for the dreaded gaokao

SHANGHAI, 5th June – Tomorrow, cities throughout China ¹will close roads near schools, prohibit the hooting of car horns, and even change some aeroplane flight paths, so that nine million students can concentrate on the gaokao, the three-day-long national university entrance exam.

University places are scarce in China, and most students ²are not going to have a chance if they do not do well in the gaokao, a name which means 'high exam' in Mandarin Chinese. The stakes are very high indeed: a place in a top university will almost always lead to a high-paid job after graduation. For millions of Chinese students, the exam is an important chance to improve their lives, and because most families ³have only one child, the pressure on candidates is intense.

We spoke to students who ⁴hadn't been out with their friends for many months, and who ⁵were studying all the time that they weren't sleeping. And while some cram, others cheat. Each year, candidates ⁶are caught with high-tech devices such as wireless earphones, as well as pens and watches with tiny scanners. James Bond would be proud.

Teachers' lives are difficult, too. One gaokao tutor ⁷explained her schedule: morning exercises start at 6.10 a.m., evening classes end at 10.00 p.m., students get only one day off a month – and teachers must spend that day marking practice exams.

To prepare for the exam, students memorize past exam papers and try to guess what questions ⁸will be asked this year. All candidates answer questions in Chinese, maths, and English, then choose two additional subjects: history, geography, physics, biology, chemistry, or political ideology. Some of the unusual essay questions that ⁹have appeared on past papers include:

- 'An Englishman dreams of living in Western China in another era. Write a story based on this.'
- 'Why chase mice when there are fish to eat?'
- 'Talk about water.'
- 'Why do we want to return to our childhood?'

The exam ¹⁰has been criticized for testing endurance rather than intelligence. Small reforms ¹¹were made to the exam a few years ago, but little has changed overall. More and more Chinese students ¹²have been moving overseas for university, or even secondary school, just to avoid the gaokao. The number of candidates who sit the exam has fallen dramatically in recent years, from 10.2 million in 2009, to 9 million this year.

However, at the same time, the gaokao ¹³is beginning to be more widely recognized abroad. The University of Sydney has said it will accept gaokao scores from Chinese students in place of its own entrance exam. China may not need to reform the gaokao after all – it will reform the rest of us.

★ TIP: True / False reading

- Quickly read the text for the main ideas, then read the statements carefully.
- Re-read the text carefully and look for information that shows whether each statement is true or false.

c Read the article again. Mark the statements T (true) or F (false).

- 1 During the gaokao, nobody is allowed to drive in cities where the exam is being held.
- 2 Unless you do well in the gaokao, you probably won't get a place at university.
- 3 The exam gives young people the opportunity to do better in life.
- 4 Students preparing for the exam still have time for a social life.
- 5 Students always find different ways to cheat.
- 6 The gaokao was mentioned in a recent James Bond film.
- 7 Gaokao tutors only have one day a month when they don't have to work.
- 8 Science subjects are optional in the gaokao.
- 9 Some people don't like the exam because they don't think it shows how intelligent you are.
- 10 More Chinese students are taking the gaokao now than ever before.

d What do you think about the gaokao? What do you think is the best way to decide whether someone should get a place at university or not?

3A A REAL GROWN-UP? Student A

Carol Midgley Like many other people of my age, I do plenty of things that aren't really adult at all. Like a teenager, I never remember to charge my phone. And I'm terrified of being in a bar or restaurant alone, even for a few minutes. Why? I'm not five years old! So am I an adult? The laws about age don't help you to find out. At 16, you can work full-time, get married, and join the army, but you can't drive or buy an alcoholic drink. So when did I first really feel grown-up? Maybe when I first went abroad for work, in my early twenties. I was alone in France, driving in the middle of the night with a map on my knees and no phone. That felt quite a grown-up thing to do. But the time when I really became an adult was when my baby fell and hurt her head. When I was lying by her hospital bed in the dark, feeling very afraid, asking the doctors and nurses about her progress, I had never felt more grown-up.

- a Read about Carol. Complete the sentences.

Carol

- does things that aren't very adult, for example...and...
- thinks that the laws about being an adult are confusing because when you're 16...but...

6B WHAT'S IT CALLED? Student A

- a You are a customer at a DIY store. You want to buy the things below, but you don't know the word. B is a shop assistant. Have a conversation with B, explaining what you want. He / She will tell you the names of the things you want to buy and where to find them. Write the names. B will start.

Paraphrasing

Sorry, but I can't remember / don't know the word.
I'm looking for a thing / things that you use for + verb + -ing.
It's a kind of... It's like...

- b Now you are the shop assistant. Listen to B explaining what he / she wants to buy. Ask questions and decide which of the things below they are. Tell B what they are called (spell the words if necessary), and where to find them. You start: Can I help you?

10B DESCRIBING A PHOTO Student A

- a Describe your photo to B. Say who the people are, where they are, and what is happening.
- b Listen to B describing his / her photo. What do the two photos have in common?
- c Discuss the questions together.
- Does this kind of thing often happen in exams or tests in your country? What methods do people use?
 - Do people usually get caught? Why (not)?
 - How do you think people should be punished for this behaviour?
 - If you saw a friend cheating in an exam or test, what would you do?

PE4 RENTING A ROOM Student A

- a You have a two-bedroom flat and you want to share it with someone. B would like to rent the other room. He / She is coming to see you. First, look at your house rules and decide if there is anything you'd like to add.

House rules

- No smoking
- Share kitchen – keep food on 2nd shelf of fridge
- Don't use washing machine or dryer after 10.00 p.m.
- Make sure to lock door (two keys) when going out
- _____

- b Greet B. Tell him / her about the house rules, and answer any questions. You start.

Hi, come in. Nice to meet you... If you don't mind, I'm going to start by telling you about the house rules...

- c Decide if you would like to rent the room to B.
- d Swap roles. You are looking for a room to rent. B has a room in his / her flat. You are going to meet B. B will tell you about the house rules. You also have some questions to ask. Decide if there is anything you'd like to add.

- How good is the wi-fi?
- What's public transport like?
- OK if you practise your electric guitar?
- _____ ?

- e Go to meet B and talk about the flat. B will start.
- f Decide if you want to rent the room.

7A GIVING IT AWAY Student A

- a Read the article and answer the questions.
- 1 Who is Mr Lucky?
 - 2 What is the we-are-lucky.com project?
 - 3 What did Lucy do with some of her £1,000?
 - 4 What kinds of people have received money from Mr Lucky?
 - 5 Why does Mr Lucky think the project is creating positive feelings?

we-are-lucky.com

Mr Lucky is a mystery millionaire who gives away money to strangers. We know some things about him. He is from London, he worked abroad for an insurance company, and by the age of 37, he was so rich that he was able to retire. At first, Mr Lucky didn't know what to do with all his money. He thought about giving it to a charity. But in the end, he decided to start a project called we-are-lucky.com, in which other people choose how to spend his money for him. So far, he has given £1,000 in cash to more than 100 people all over the world to do 'something good'. Lucy, for example, runs a small bookshop in London. When Mr Lucky met her, he liked her openness and her dedication to her shop and gave her £1,000. Lucy then decided to pass on some of the money by giving a bonus to a colleague, which she couldn't previously afford to do. So far, the lucky people have included web designers, nurses, taxi drivers, bar owners, and photographers. Mr Lucky says he enjoys giving the money away, and people are enjoying giving the money to someone else, so there is a chain reaction of positive feeling.

- b Tell B about Mr Lucky and his project. Use your answers in a to help you.
- c Now listen to B's story.
- d Would you prefer to receive £1,000 which you have to spend on other people, or $100 which you can spend on yourself?

8B LOCAL HISTORY Student A

10A MORE FACTS ABOUT THE USA? Student A

- a Read sentence 1 to B. Try to use the correct stress. B will guess if it's true or false.
- b Tell B if he / she is right, and explain why. Continue with sentences 2–5.

Texas is the largest state in the USA. True or false?

(I think that's false.)

That's right. Alaska is the largest. It's more than twice the size of the second largest state, which is Texas.

Are these statements true (T) or false (F)?

- 1 Texas is the largest state in the USA.
False. Alaska is the largest. It's more than twice the size of the second largest state, which is Texas.
- 2 50% of Americans don't speak English at home.
False. 20% speak a language other than English at home. About 8% don't speak any English at all.
- 3 American workers have less paid holiday than workers in other countries.
True. Most Americans have 10–20 days of paid holiday a year.
- 4 Americans buy more Mexican salsa per year than ketchup.
True. $680 million was spent on salsa last year, compared to $420 million for ketchup.
- 5 No American has ever won the Nobel Peace Prize.
False. Over 20 Americans have won the prize, including Martin Luther King, Jr. and Barack Obama.

- c Now listen to B's sentences and say if you think they're true or false.

2A CAROLINE'S HOLIDAY PLANS

Student B

3A A REAL GROWN-UP? Student B

Hugo Rifkind I'm pretty sure I'm an adult. I'm in my late-30s, and I have two kids, a mortgage, and a pension plan. Recently, I had a 20-minute conversation, which I thoroughly enjoyed, about my car. Today, there are no longer important events that mean you are an adult. A few generations ago, when a boy turned 16, he started wearing long trousers instead of shorts, and left home to raise a family. Now we stay longer in the family home, find it difficult to become financially independent, still listen to pop music, and still wear T-shirts. It took my wife and I a very long time before we had our own house. As for having kids, well, that doesn't make you feel like a grown-up. It just makes you panic. Maybe I'll only really become an adult when I stop wanting a big night out once a month, or four days a year at a music festival, that sort of thing.

- a Read about Hugo. Complete the sentences.

Hugo

- thinks he must be an adult because he has...
- thinks that it was clearer in the past when you became an adult because at 16 a boy...
- says that adults now still do teenage things like...
- says that having kids doesn't...
- thinks that he will become a real grown-up when...

- b Listen to A tell you about Carol.

- c Now tell A about Hugo. Use the prompts in a.

I read about Hugo. He's in his late-thirties. He thinks he must be an adult because he has...

- d Which of the two people do you think is more grown-up?

E Engrenages – Spiral

A French legal drama.

The show is set in Paris, and follows the lives and work of a team of Parisian police officers led by Laure Berthaud, as well as the lawyers and judges who work at the Palais de Justice.

F Bron / Broen – The Bridge

A Swedish / Danish crime drama.

The first season begins with the discovery of a dead body exactly in the middle of the bridge that joins Sweden to Denmark, and further seasons continue to be set in both countries. One of the highlights of the series is the fascinating autistic detective Saga Norén.

G El Marginal – El Marginal

An Argentinian police drama.

The series is set in Buenos Aires. Miguel Palacios, who used to be a policeman, infiltrates a dangerous prison to try to find the kidnapper of a well-known judge's daughter.

H Dupla Identidade – Merciless

A Brazilian crime drama.

Edu is a young man who appears to be smart and sensitive, but is in fact a dangerous psychopath, who is behind a number of crimes that police are investigating in Rio de Janeiro.

- b Read the texts again. Find the following information for each series, if it's available.

- what kind of series it is

7A GIVING IT AWAY Student B

- a Read the article and answer the questions.

- 1 Who is Jill Ginsberg?
- 2 What does Jill write about on her blog?
- 3 What did Mollie Dickson do after she read the blog?
- 4 What did one child do in her project?
- 5 How has Jill changed as a result of the project?

hundredsofhundreds.com

Jill Ginsberg, a doctor in Portland, Oregon, didn't use to like spending money on herself. So when she inherited some money from her mother, she decided to use it to make other people happy. Her plan was that every day for a month she would give $100 to a stranger. After the month ended, she didn't want to stop. She decided to continue, and to give away 100 more $100 bills to lucky strangers. On her blog, hundredsofhundreds.com, she wrote about the people she met. Many people who read Jill's blog wrote comments and shared her story on Facebook. She started receiving messages from people, many of whom wanted to do something to help others themselves. One teacher, Mollie Dickson, started a class project where children chose different things to do to help strangers, for example, one girl visited children with cancer in a local hospital. Jill was delighted to hear about the project, and wrote to the children to encourage them. Jill is surprised by how much she's changed. She's stopped being careful with money, and the project has helped her get over the death of her mother.

- b Listen to A's story.
- c Now tell A about Jill Ginsberg and her project. Use your answers in a to help you.
- d Would you prefer to receive £1,000 which you have to spend on other people, or $100 which you can spend on yourself?

My pink room

1 I've just finished university, so I'm living ¹ at my parents' house at the moment, ² _____ my old bedroom. It hasn't changed since I was a teenager.

2 It's quite a big room, with one window. The walls are pale pink and the door and the window frame are much darker pink. We painted the room when we first moved there when I was 13, and I'm 23 now but I still love the colour. Along one wall there's a huge wardrobe with a full-length mirror ³ _____ the door, so I have plenty of space for all my clothes and shoes and jewellery. There's a glittery disco ball hanging ⁴ _____ the ceiling ⁵ _____ the middle of the room.

3 My bed is painted bright pink, and has lots of cushions ⁶ _____ it. I have the same desk I've had since I was really little. It's pushed right up against the wall and ⁷ _____ the desk there are some wooden shelves that my dad put up. That's where I keep my diaries, books, and some plants. There's also a big pink and yellow rug ⁸ _____ the floor. There's an armchair ⁹ _____ the corner which my mum didn't want any more. It's got yellow and blue stripes. It's really comfortable but quite ugly, and the colours don't match the rest of the room. I've covered it ¹⁰ _____ a blanket which is also pink to hide it.

4 Some people might think my room is quite girly because it has so many pink things. It's a bit like me, I suppose, and that's probably why I still like it!

2 HOLIDAY MESSAGES

- a Read the holiday messages people have sent to their friends. Who is on holiday now? Who is going to have a holiday soon? Who has just finished a holiday?
- b Read the messages again. How does each person feel? What words and phrases or symbols do they use to express their feelings?
- c Read the Writing messages box. Then rewrite the last five messages using full sentences.

🔍 Writing messages

When people write messages, they often leave out words in sentences, pronouns, for example, and auxiliary verbs like I'm, I've, it's, and there is / are. This is acceptable in messages and tweets but not in formal writing.

Having the most amazing experience = I'm having the most amazing experience.

Another hard day = It's been another hard day.

3 noisy children sitting behind me = There are three noisy children sitting behind me.

- d Imagine you're having a four-day holiday. Plan where you are going and what you are doing on the days and times below.
- the evening before your holiday
 - the first morning of your holiday
 - the second and third days
 - the last evening of your holiday
 - the day after your holiday is over
- e Write short messages to friends for each of the days and times in d. Write them first in normal sentences and then try to make them shorter, like the messages in a.
- f Check your messages to make sure they are clear. Can you make them any shorter?

1

In most photos, the subject is looking at the camera. This is often a good idea, but there are other things you can try. You might ask the person to look at something outside the photo. This can make a photo more interesting – viewers want to know what the person is looking at. Or the person could be looking at something (or someone) that is in the picture.

2

Many people are very uncomfortable when they are having their photo taken and don't know how to relax. One good idea to help them is to photograph them while they are doing something they enjoy, for example, working, or chatting to their friends or family. This will help them relax, and you will get better pictures. This is especially helpful if you are taking pictures of children.

3

If you change the angle or the perspective of your photos, you can make them more interesting and unusual. Get up high, for example, stand on a table or chair, and look down on your subject. Another possibility is to sit on the floor and look up. Both of these angles will make the photo more original.

a Look at the photos in the article from a photography website. Which of them do you like? How are they different from ordinary portraits of people?

b Read the article and write the headings in the correct place. (There are two headings you do not need.)

Don't make them pose

Try different angles

Move away from the centre

Take a close-up

Don't look at me!

c Read the article again. Which tip do you think is the most useful? Have you ever used any of these tips yourself?

d You're going to write an article with three tips on one of the following topics:

- How to take good holiday photos
- How to plan a successful holiday
- How to use colour in decorating

With a partner, plan the content of each tip. Think of a heading and say why the tip is helpful.

Useful language: tips and instructions
Imperatives

Get up high and look down on your subject.

Don't make people pose.

Possibilities

The person could be looking at something in the picture.

One good idea is to photograph people while they are doing something...*

Another possibility is to sit on the floor.*

e Write your article. Use your plan and the Useful language to help you.

5 AN INFORMAL EMAIL

From: Bob Ayers

2nd April 13.05

To: Sally Ayers

Subject: What happened to spring?

Hi Sally,

Thanks for your email. Glad you're well. We're so pleased to hear that you're enjoying London. Hope that you ¹ _____ too hard.

When your mother and I woke up this morning, this is what we saw! The calendar says it's 2nd April, but the weather doesn't agree. It ² _____ for about four hours non-stop now. We ³ _____ to clear the snow all morning, so that we can drive to the supermarket and buy some food. Luckily, I ⁴ _____ to the weather forecast and they say it's all going to melt tomorrow.

Apart from the weather, there's not much news. Your mum ⁵ _____ hard, as usual. This week I ⁶ _____ the sheep to a different field. We also had a problem with the tractor and we ⁷ _____ for the man to come and repair it. Fingers crossed he'll phone today...

What ⁸ _____ you _____ apart from working? Miss you lots. Write soon, or at least send us a message!

Much love,

Dad

a Read an email from Bob to his daughter Sally, who is studying in London. What is the main subject of his email? How does he feel about it?

b Read the email again and complete it with verbs from the list in the present perfect continuous. Use contractions if possible.

do listen move snow not study try wait work

c Find and underline three examples of sentences in which the subject pronoun (I, you, etc.) is missing.

d Imagine you're replying to an email from a friend or family member. Plan what you're going to write.

- 1 Thank him / her for writing, and react to the news in his / her email.
- 2 Say what your main news is.
- 3 Talk about other things that you've been doing lately.
- 4 Ask what the person you're writing to has been doing, and to reply to any questions in the email.

e Write the email. Use the Useful language to help you, and follow 1–4 in d.

6 A RESTAURANT REVIEW

- a Read two website reviews of the same restaurant. What do they agree about? What do they disagree about?

Bistro Giacomo

Cuisine: Italian | Location: Covent Garden, Central London

Reviews

Rafael, Barcelona

Value Atmosphere Service Food

Great place for a pre-theatre dinner

My girlfriend and I had a lovely dinner here before going to the theatre.

The service was excellent. Although we hadn't booked a table and the restaurant was quite busy, we didn't have to wait long for a table. The atmosphere was lively, with great music and people chatting.

Our dinner was perfect for a summer evening. For our starter, we had a delicious brochette of cheese, mushrooms, herbs, and vegetables. For our main, we had tuna fusilli, then dessert and coffee. The bill was really very reasonable – quite a bit less than in other similar places – and we were able to get to the theatre in time for the performance. We'd definitely go back another time.

Zoe, Oxford

Value Atmosphere Service Food

Good food, shame about the music

Pros: The service was friendly and helpful, and the food was very fresh and tasty. The house wine was also very good.

Cons: The music was too loud, so it was difficult for my friend and me to have a conversation. We asked our waitress to turn it down a little, but she said she couldn't. Also, there are a lot of tables for the size of the restaurant, so we felt a bit cramped. On top of that, it was a bit pricey – the bill was much higher than we'd expected.

Overall opinion: Did we enjoy it? Yes. Would we go again? Not sure. There are plenty of other restaurants in the area with a better atmosphere, good food, and quiet music.

- b Read the reviews again. Which person...?
- organizes their review into good points and then bad points
 - gives more details about what they had to eat
 - explains why they were there and who they were there with
 - summarizes their opinion

Which person do you think gives the most useful information?

- c Look at the highlighted words in the reviews and work out their meanings. Then put the words in the correct place in the Useful language box.

Useful language: describing restaurants

- d You're going to write a website review of a café, bar, or restaurant you've been to recently. Plan your review.

Either follow the style of the first review and give the following information:

- Say which place you went to, and who with.
- Say why you decided to go there.
- Describe the service and atmosphere.
- Describe the food.
- Say what you thought about the prices.
- Say whether you would go back or not, and if not, why?

Or follow the style of the second review and use the following headings:

7 DESCRIBING A BUILDING

- 1 The most beautiful building ¹ which I've visited in my city is the Hagia Sophia. It is situated in a historic part of Istanbul called Sultanahmet.
- 2 The Hagia Sophia was constructed on the orders of Justinian I, ² who was emperor of Rome from 527 to 565 AD. It was built on the spot ³ which two other churches had burned down. Construction began in 532 and the building was completed in 537. In 1453, it became a mosque, and it has been a museum since 1935.
- 3 The Hagia Sophia was the world's largest cathedral for nearly a thousand years and it is famous for its large dome. It is surrounded by four tall minarets, each of ⁴ that is different. There is also a lovely park in front of the building, ⁵ where you can relax and enjoy the view.
- 4 When you go into the Hagia Sophia, you can look up at the dome, ⁶ that has beautiful Arabic writing in the centre. On the second floor, there are beautiful mosaics on the walls. Some of them are more than a thousand years old. In the north-west of the building, there is a column ⁷ that has a hole in the middle called the Wishing Column, ⁸ who people think has special powers.

- 5 The building is open from 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p.m. (7.00 p.m. in summer). It is closed on Mondays. There is an entrance fee of 60 Turkish lira (about 10 euros), but children under 8 are free.

- a Read the description of the Hagia Sophia. In which photo can you see a) a minaret, b) a mosaic?
- b Read the description again and match the questions to paragraphs 1–5.
 - a When is it open? How much does it cost to go in?
 - b What does it look like outside?
 - c What does it look like inside?
 - d What's the most beautiful or interesting building in your town or city? Where is it?
 - e Who was it built by? When was it built?
- c Look at the highlighted relative pronouns. Are they right (✓) or wrong (X)? Correct the wrong ones.
- d Which relative pronoun could be left out?

Defining and non-defining relative clauses

Relative clauses add information to a sentence about a place, person, or thing. They are introduced with a relative pronoun (who, which, where, whose and sometimes that).

- In defining relative clauses, the information is essential, and that can replace who or which.
St Paul's is the cathedral which / that has a huge dome.
- We can omit the relative pronoun when the verbs in the main clause and the relative clause have a different subject. where and whose can never be omitted.
There's the man (who) I saw yesterday in the park.
- In non-defining relative clauses, the information isn't essential and the sentence makes sense without it. We use a comma before and after the clause (or a full stop if the clause comes at the end of a sentence). We cannot omit the relative pronoun, and that cannot be used instead of who or which.
Christopher Wren, who designed St Paul's cathedral, is buried in the crypt.

- e You're going to write a description of a building in your town or city for a tourism website. Plan what you're going to write. Answer the questions in b in the correct order. You may need to research some of the information.
- f Write your description. Use the Useful language to help you.

8 A STORY

- a Read Matt's story about his wedding day. What problem was there?
- b Complete the story with an adverb or adverbial phrase from the list. Some can go in more than one place.

in fact in the end fortunately luckily unfortunately

Adverbs

Adverbs can describe an action or modify adjectives or other adverbs. They can be one word or a phrase, and can help to make a story more vivid. Sentence adverbs refer to the whole sentence and not just part of it. They usually go at the start of a sentence and often show the writer's opinion.

- c Correct the ten underlined mistakes (grammar, vocabulary, punctuation, and spelling).
- d Look at the exam question below.

- Your English teacher has asked you to write a story.
- Your story must have one of the following titles:
I won it!
It was so embarrassing!
A day I'd like to forget!
- Write your story.

You're going to write a story. Choose your title and think of some ideas for your topic.

- e Plan your story. Think about:
- 1 where and when the event / moment happened
 - 2 what was happening at the start of the story
 - 3 what actually happened on that day
 - 4 how you felt about it then, and how you feel now
- f Write your story. Use the Useful language to help you.

Useful language: telling a story with sentence adverbs
Unfortunately / Sadly, there was a big traffic jam before our wedding.
Fortunately / Luckily, we had a map and found a faster way.
Eventually / Finally / In the end, we arrived at the church just before the ceremony.
Surprisingly / Amazingly / Interestingly, we were the first people to arrive at the church.
In fact / Actually, we were the only ones there for 30 minutes.

- g Check your story for mistakes (grammar, vocabulary, punctuation, and spelling).

The most important day of my life

I think the most important day of my life was my wedding day. My wife and I got married five years ago in a little church in the countryside. The weather was perfect – sunny and warm. It wasn't a very big wedding – we only have about 20 gests – but it was very beautiful. However, there was one problem. We were hired a woman to play the violin at the wedding ceremony but ¹ _____ she lost and never arrived. That was a stressed situation for all of us. ² _____, there was a piano in the church and one of the bridesmaids, my wife's niece, was an excellent piano player. She was prepared to play for us, but she didn't really know any wedding music. ³ _____, my brother had his iPad so we downloaded the score for some wedding music, and ⁴ _____, our niece played the music very good. ⁵ _____, I think she was better than a professional musician because she was part of our family, and of course it is a great story. Now we have two small children who love to here the story of our wedding music.

9 AN EXAM TASK

- a Read the essay topic and the student essay. Does the writer agree or disagree with the statement?

Your class has just had a discussion about exams and education. Your teacher has asked you to write an essay on the topic below. Write about 200 words.

Exams are not a good way of testing what students know. Do you agree or disagree?

- 1 In most countries around the world, students are tested on what they know through exams, both at school and at university.
- 2 In general, I think testing through exams is a good thing. Firstly, it is a fair system ¹ _____ all students have to do the same thing in the same period of time with no help. Secondly, having exams makes students work harder. It is well known that many students only really work hard ² _____ they know they have an exam in the near future. Thirdly, the only real alternative is continuous assessment. This system benefits young people whose parents are closely involved in their education and help them with projects, ³ _____ it isn't as fair as an exam. In continuous assessment, it is also much more difficult to stop students from cheating by using other people's work from the internet ⁴ _____ their own.
- 3 The only real disadvantage of exams is that some students get very nervous and don't do their best, ⁵ _____ learning relaxation techniques is a good way of helping with this problem.
- 4 In conclusion, ⁶ _____ the exam system is not perfect, it is, in my opinion, the best way there is of testing students' knowledge.

- b Read the essay again. In which paragraph does the writer...?

Paragraph <input type="checkbox"/>	give his / her opinion and three reasons for it
Paragraph <input type="checkbox"/>	give a summary of his / her opinion
Paragraph <input type="checkbox"/>	give an introduction to the topic
Paragraph <input type="checkbox"/>	give a contrasting opinion

- c Read the essay again and complete it with a connecting word or phrase from the list.

although because but instead of so when

- d You're going to write an essay for an exam. The topic is:

It is not a good idea to cram the evening before an exam.

Interviewer Excuse me, I'm doing a survey. Can I ask you some questions about your name?
Sean OK.
Interviewer So, what's your name?
Sean Sean Gibson.
Interviewer Is that S-E-A-N or S-H-A-U-N?
Sean S-E-A-N.
Interviewer Why did your parents call you that?
Sean I think I'm named after the actor Sean Connery, who played James Bond in the 60s. He was still very famous at the time when I was born.
Interviewer Do you have a nickname?
Sean Yes, at school they used to call me 'Gibbo' because of my surname, Gibson. I didn't really mind it because most people were called by some nickname or other.
Interviewer And are you happy with your first name?
Sean Mmm, I like it. I was usually the only Sean at school, which I think was quite a good thing. But people find it quite difficult to spell, especially as there are two possible spellings, and most foreign people find it really difficult to pronounce.
Interviewer Would you like to change it?
Sean No, no, I definitely wouldn't change it.

2
Interviewer So, what's your name?
Deborah Deborah.
Interviewer Is that with an h at the end?
Deborah Yes, D-E-B-O-R-A-H.
Interviewer Why did your parents call you that?
Deborah Ah, I'm actually named after the hospital where I was born, Deborah Hospital in New Jersey – near New York. My dad thought of that.
Interviewer Do you have a nickname?
Deborah No, but everyone calls me Debbie or Deb for short.
Interviewer Are you happy with your name?
Deborah Not really.
Interviewer Would you like to change it?
Deborah I don't know. When I was little, I started calling myself April and then Caroline, but now I don't like those names either.

3
Interviewer What's your name?
Khari Khari.
Interviewer How do you spell it?
Khari K-H-A-R-I.
Interviewer Sorry, K-A-H...?
Khari No, K-H-A-R-I.
Interviewer Why did your parents call you that?
Khari It was my mum's idea. When she was young she went travelling in the Himalayas and she stayed at a monastery in Nepal called 'Khari' – I think she said it was also the name of the lama.
Interviewer Lama?
Khari Yeah, the head priest there. You know, like the Dalai Lama. Apparently Khari means 'the precious one'.
Interviewer Oh, OK! Thanks, that's really interesting. Do you have a nickname?
Khari No I don't.
Interviewer Are you happy with your name?
Khari Yeah.
Interviewer Would you like to change it?
Khari No, no way. My name's unique, I'm proud of it.

4

Interviewer What's your name?
Anya It's Anya, A-N-Y-A.
Interviewer Why did your parents call you that?
Anya Well, my dad's half-Polish, and my parents wanted a Polish name. My mum originally wanted to call me Agnieszka, but my dad thought it would be too hard to spell, so they decided on Anya.
Interviewer Do you have a nickname?
Anya I do, but I don't want to tell you what it is – it's too embarrassing.
Interviewer Are you happy with your name?
Anya Yes, I am – it's quite an unusual name in the UK. I only know one other Anya. I think it's more common in Poland, but there it's spelt A-N-I-A.
Interviewer Would you like to change your name?
Anya No, I really like it. I often get compliments about it.

1.8

Interviewer Today we're talking to the Creative Director of a business that names companies and products. Welcome, John.
John Hello, Sarah.
Interviewer So, how do companies go about choosing their names?
John Oh, in all sorts of ways. Many, like Burberry clothes and accessories, and Ferrari cars, are named after the people who started them. Others are combination words, such as Vodafone, which is from letters in the words Voice, Data, and Telephone – though actually, they changed the P-H in telephone to F. And Microsoft comes from the words Microcomputer and Software.
Interviewer Interesting...
John And other names come from phrases in the local language. A good example of that is Samsung, the big Korean electronics company. In Korean, Samsung means 'three stars'. The name was chosen back in the year 1938, and at that time three stars was the most impressive rating that people could imagine for hotels and things like that.
Interviewer So if they'd started the company today they would probably have called it 'five stars' – whatever that is in Korean.
John Absolutely. Some names even come from Latin – the name of the cosmetics company Nivea comes from the Latin word 'niveus', which means 'snow white'. And talking of Latin, there's another famous brand name with a classical connection, which is Nike.
Interviewer I think I know this one. Nike is the Greek goddess of victory. Is that right?
John Yes, exactly. However, 'Nike' wasn't the company's original name. When it started in 1964, its original name was Blue Ribbon Sports. They changed their name to Nike a few years later in 1971.
Interviewer I didn't know that.
John And a name ideally needs to have a strong sound. Take the coffee chain Starbucks, which was founded by two teachers and a writer, who decided to set up a business selling high-quality coffee beans and roasting equipment. Their advertising agency advised them that the letters S-T were powerful, and so they brainstormed words beginning with these letters and thought of a character called Starbuck from a 19th century novel. The name didn't have anything to do with coffee, but they said that 'the sound seemed to make sense'.

Interviewer And do you have a favourite brand name?
John Well, one of my favourites is Bluetooth. This one comes from the name of a Viking king, Harald Blatand, so called because he had a dead tooth which had turned blue – Blatand means 'blue tooth' in Danish. This king believed in good communication between people, which is an excellent model for a company developing new communication technologies. But also, the logo for Bluetooth on your phone screen, the B-shape, is made up of the two Viking letters for the king's initials – the symbols for H (Harald) and B (Blatand). I love that.
Interviewer Brilliant. Thank you so much, John, for speaking with us this afternoon.
John You're very welcome.

Look around you. Colour is everywhere in our lives. Did you know that, according to some experts, there are as many as 10 million possible colours in our world, though many are too complex for the human eye. So how much do you really know about colour? Here are some fascinating facts. Research shows that the world's most popular colour is blue, followed by purple, red, and green, while white, orange, and yellow are our least favourite colours. Works of art using the colour red tend to be more expensive. This is because it's a powerful colour, which is considered lucky in many countries, such as China. The most expensive works by the artist Mark Rothko, for example, whose paintings are mainly just blocks of colour, are his two red paintings. The word orange didn't describe a specific colour in English until the 16th century, when it was named after the fruit. Instead, people used the old English word 'geoluhread' which meant 'yellow-red'. This is why we have the word 'redhead' for people with this colour of hair. Pink has a calming effect and reduces anger and anxiety. Many prisons and hospitals paint their walls pink, to make prisoners and patients less anxious. In Imperial Rome, the colour purple was produced with an extremely expensive dye made from thousands of seashells. The colour symbolized the power and wealth of the Roman Empire, and by the fourth century AD, only the emperor was allowed to wear it. Mosquitoes are attracted to dark colours, especially blue. So, if you're planning to be outside in the evening in an area with a lot of mosquitoes, be careful what colour clothes you wear. There is no such thing as a green mammal, even though it's a perfectly common colour for birds, reptiles, fish, and insects. One reason might be that most mammals can't see this colour, so it doesn't help with camouflage. Van Gogh said that yellow was the colour of happiness, and it's the main colour of many of his paintings between 1880 and 1890. The Dutch painter suffered from epilepsy, and doctors may have given him the drug 'digitalis', which can cause people to see this colour very strongly. The safest colour for a car is white. Studies show that it is the most visible colour in all driving conditions except snow. Most diamonds in their natural state are brown. These are used in industry as cutting tools rather than in jewellery. The largest cut diamond in the world is this colour. It was found in 1985 in South Africa and weighs 109 grams.

The name for the colour black hasn't always meant 'dark'. It comes from the root word bhleg-, which meant 'to burn, gleam, or shine'. This may explain why in languages like French and Spanish, blanc or blanco are actually the words for white.

These are just a few of the fascinating facts I discovered when I was researching colour. The next time you make a choice about colour, for example, for a new car, do some research first to find out exactly what it means.

In reverse order, here's the list of the things that the British most often leave behind when they go on holiday. At number ten we have – passports. At number nine, flip-flops. Number eight, mobile phones.

At number seven, toothbrushes, and at number six, toothpaste. At number five, sunglasses, and at number four, a good book. So, to the things people forget the most often. At number three, sunscreen. At number two, phone chargers. And finally, the number one thing people forget to bring is... comfortable shoes!

The holiday season is here, and many of you will be about to travel, and that means that you need to start thinking about packing. Packing is often something we do at the last minute, and we frequently get it wrong – we take too much and then have to pay for extra luggage, or we forget some really important items. Often when we arrive and unpack, our clothes need ironing before we can wear them. So, to make things easier, here are my top eight tips for perfect packing.

My first tip is 'Don't pack too much'. Put all the clothes you think you want to take on your bed. Then put a third of them, yes, a third, back in the cupboard. And only pack things you really love, otherwise you probably won't wear them.

Now to my second tip. 'Keep some space in your suitcase for shopping.' If you're planning to do some serious clothes shopping when you're away, or if you love buying souvenirs, or you want to buy presents for the family, make sure there's some empty space in your case. Think about what you might want to buy, and how much space you'll need.

My third tip is 'Pack in the right order'. Think about your itinerary, and put your first day's clothes at the top and your last day's clothes at the bottom. Then, if you don't have space to unpack everything, you can just leave your suitcase under the bed, and every morning you'll easily find what you want to wear.

OK, tip number 4. 'Make sure your clothes arrive looking good.' Learn to pack your clothes like a professional. Roll your jeans, T-shirts, and pyjamas. The only things you really need to fold are shirts and jackets. Where possible, travel with clothes that don't need ironing.

My fifth tip is 'Keep your chargers and adaptors together'. We all need chargers for our gadgets these days. Pack them all together in a separate small bag, with adaptors if you're going to need them. It's also a good idea to put this bag in your hand luggage, and not in your checked-in luggage, to avoid losing it.

Tip number 6. 'Use shoe bags.' Never allow your shoes to have direct contact with your clothes – use shoe bags to keep them separate, and put socks and underwear inside your shoes.

Tip number 7. 'Think about airport security.' If you're travelling with hand luggage only, put your wash bag at the top or in an outside pocket of your case, so you can easily take it out at security. The same is true of laptops, tablets, and anything you might need to put on a separate tray.

And finally, my eighth tip. 'Buy a travel wallet.' It's a good idea to print out all your important documents, like your itinerary or travel insurance, and keep them with your passport in a special wallet. It's true that nowadays you can keep a lot of documents on your phone, including boarding passes. But you might lose your phone, or it may run out of battery just when you need it. So now you're ready to go. Have a great holiday!

1 Carol I do a lot of shopping online. I love how convenient it is you know, I can be in my pyjamas and do the food shopping for the week or clothes shopping, but one thing I hate about it though is how difficult it is to sort out any problems because, you know, if you buy something in a shop, you go back to the shop and you sort it out, but if you've bought something online, returning it can be a pain, especially getting something replaced or changed if it's broken – it's just a huge nightmare.

2 Alex I love online shopping. I guess because it's so convenient, because I can do it at any time of day or night and I can do it from home. I don't particularly like going shopping so that's a real bonus for me. But I hate having to send things back, particularly shoes. They never seem to fit when I buy them online.

3 David I do quite a lot of shopping online. Mainly food – I usually do my supermarket shopping online. What I like best is that I don't have to take the shopping home. I live at the top of a hill and I used to have to walk up the hill with a whole load of shopping bags. It was a real pain. The only thing I really don't like is that online, it's easy not to notice what size the packets are, so you can end up with a huge packet of things when you only want a tiny amount. For example, I ordered a box of tea bags and I wanted a small box of 40 bags, but I didn't read the description properly and I ended up with a huge box with 460 tea bags.

4 Anna I do a lot of online browsing, looking for things I might buy. Not really for clothes, more shopping for, kind of, cooking things, or things on Amazon, presents for friends, that sort of thing. I love the fact that you have access to all kinds of shops, and access to brands that you can't necessarily find in shops that are near where you live. But I don't like not being able to feel things or know exactly what the colours are – they're often different from what you see online.

5 Chris I do a lot of shopping online because I'm not very keen on going to places where there are crowds of people and it's really busy. It's great being able to avoid the big department stores and shopping streets especially at weekends, where you can hardly walk on the pavement because there are so many people there. The only thing I hate is people delivering things when I'm not in. Some companies are really good and give you a one hour delivery window, but with others they say they'll deliver between eight in the morning and seven in the evening, so you stay in all day but then just when you need to go out for an hour, that's when they come. That's so annoying.

Interviewer Welcome back. Up next, age and the generation gap. We know how hard it can be to tell someone's age, but in fact it turns out there may be a way that's quite simple. It's called the 'Mosquito Tone Test', and Mark is here to tell us more.

Mark Thanks, Sue. The Mosquito Tone is a sound – a very high pitched, very annoying sound, which is why it's named after the insect. What's interesting is that apparently as we age, we slowly lose our ability to hear this sound. According to scientists, almost everyone under the age of 25 can hear the Mosquito Tone, but almost no one over 25 can hear it!

Interviewer Really! Is that right?

Mark Yes. And to test this out, I actually played the tone for my family last night. My wife and I heard absolutely nothing at all, but our teenage daughters could hear it, and in fact they complained that it was an irritating sound that was quite painful to hear.

Interviewer Oh no! Well, at the risk of irritating some of our younger listeners' ears, why don't we play the tone briefly now?

Mark OK, here goes. I'm playing the tone in 3, 2, 1...

Interviewer Have you played the tone yet?

Mark I just did. Or, at least, I think I did.

Interviewer Well, I suppose that just confirms that neither of us are under 25!

Part 2

Interviewer Now Mark, apart from testing a person's age, what is the Mosquito Tone being used for?

Mark This has actually become an interesting controversy. Because the sound is so annoying, and because only the young can hear it, the Mosquito Tone is being used to keep teenagers away from certain places.

Interviewer What kinds of places?

Mark Well, for example, from shopping centres. As you know, in some towns you get large groups of young people hanging around shopping centres and causing trouble. And some shop owners say that these gangs can annoy other customers, or frighten them away, which is obviously not good for business. So now these centres can play the Mosquito Tone over their audio system, and the groups of teenagers will feel uncomfortable and leave the area. But of course the sound won't annoy the other customers at all, as they don't hear it.

Interviewer Have you spoken to any of these shop owners?

Mark Yes, I have, and they said that the Mosquito Tone has worked very well for them. And they also said that although it's true that the Mosquito Tone is certainly very annoying, it doesn't hurt the teenagers.

Interviewer It sounds like rather a good idea to me. But you said this was a controversy. Who's against it?

Mark Well, there are some groups of people who are trying to ban the Mosquito Tone. They've pointed out a number of problems with it. Firstly, they worry that the sound really is harmful, but more to the point they say that the Mosquito Tone affects all young people, some of whom are well-behaved and just want to go shopping. And finally, they say that the Mosquito Tone doesn't actually stop the problem of teenage gangs, it just drives them from one place to another.

Interviewer Those do seem like good points.

Mark Yes, indeed. And there's also an interesting twist. Some teenagers have discovered an advantage to the Mosquito Tone.

Interviewer Oh yes?

Mark Well, the Mosquito Tone has also been released as a ringtone for your mobile. So in secondary schools that don't permit mobile phones, teens can use their phones in class. They can receive calls and messages during lessons and teachers don't have any idea what is happening.

Interviewer Because the teacher can't hear it! That must really annoy them.

Mark That's right. And if they can't hear it, they can't...

You don't need expensive photographic equipment to take amazing photos. The camera on your phone can be just as good. Here are my top ten tips for taking great photos on your phone.

Tip 1 Be ready. It may be an obvious thing to say, but remember to charge your phone and to keep your lens clean. I carry a charger with me most of the time. Also, keep your phone in your hand, not in your bag. I always keep my phone in camera mode so that when I unlock it, it's ready to take pictures.

Tip 2 Don't think twice. Take photos whenever you want and of whatever you want! There's nothing to lose. Some moments will never be repeated. If you don't like your picture, you can always delete it, but you can't turn back time.

Tip 3 Learn about your phone camera. Read your phone manual, and make sure you're using your camera in the best way. Sometimes little tips can really help you to improve your photos. Learn how you can control the exposure, or focus on the objects better. Know the strengths and weaknesses of your phone camera. My iPhone isn't good at night photography, so I try to only use it in the day time.

Tip 4 Don't use zoom. Don't forget that this is just a phone. It doesn't work like a camera with a DSLR lens. If you want to take a close-up of something, use your legs and move nearer!

Tip 5 Light is important. Good photography is all about using light well. Even the most boring composition will be saved by good use of light, whether it's day or evening.

Tip 6 Use the grid. Imagine your picture is divided into nine equal squares. This is called 'the grid'. The important parts of your photo should be positioned where the lines cross. Learn to use the grid, and then, just as importantly, learn to do without it.

Tip 7 Choose unique angles. Try looking at objects from a new perspective. Take a picture from the dog's view!

Tip 8 Don't stick to one style. A lot of people nowadays try to take photos in the same style or colours. Don't do this! Show your creativity. Take any photos you like, landscapes, portraits, or unusual compositions. Your own unique style will develop.

Tip 9 Select and edit. Be selective! Choose only your best pictures and then edit those. There are many apps that will help you to do this. But remember that sometimes a picture can be better without any filters.

Tip 10 Make your pictures come alive. Print your pictures, send them as postcards, give them to your friends, and hang them on your walls. Holding your photos in your hands is such a lovely feeling, much nicer than looking at them on a screen.

1 Chris I took this photo last year when I was in Uganda. I was there working for three weeks with a charity, and before going back to London, the two friends I was working with and I decided to go and see the mountain gorillas which live in the rainforest on the border of Uganda. On the day of the trek, I was feeling very nervous because I wasn't sure whether I would manage it. I'm not very fit, and we basically had to walk up the mountain in the rainforest until we found the gorillas, which could take as long as five or six hours. Luckily, after two hours, just when I was wondering if I could carry on, we found them. The first gorilla we saw was this Silverback, which is the large dominant male in the group. I couldn't believe my eyes – he was so close, only about a couple of metres away. I'll never forget that moment. We stayed with the gorillas for an hour, and then walked back down again. I love this photo because it reminds me of that moment, how proud and relieved I was to have got there, and probably the most amazing wildlife experience I've ever had. I keep it on my computer as my desktop background and when I'm sitting working in rainy England, it reminds me of another world.

2 Tom So, I took this photo in Australia, when I was visiting my girlfriend, Roz. She was studying out there for a year. It was taken in Byron Bay, which is the most easterly point of the Australian mainland. We were out walking along the beach, and in Byron, when the sun sets, it's a really special occasion, lots of people go out onto the beach and watch the sun set over the bay, and so I took this photo just as the sun was setting. I really like the photo because I have some great memories of Byron Bay and Australia, because I'd been there before on my own, and I was really glad to go there with Roz. It was a really happy time of my life and we were having a lovely holiday. And I like that you can see the silhouettes of people on the sand and in the water and I love the way the light comes off the sea and sand. It's one of several photos, actually, from that trip, that we printed and it's in a frame on a wall in our house.

3 Kate This is a photo I really like. Me and my partner, David, were staying with friends who live on the edge of Dartmoor, a really wild and beautiful place in Devon, in the south west of the UK. We had a big lunch, and then we all decided to walk up to the top of the hill behind their house. The weather wasn't very good on most of the walk, in fact at one point it rained quite hard, but when we got to the top, the sun came out and there was a glorious blue sky, and we could see the most fantastic view of the countryside. We asked another walker up there to take the photo for us. That's me and David in the middle, in red and green, with our little black dog. I like this photo because it's so colourful and we all look really happy – it was just a lovely, memorable day. I have the photo on my phone and my iPad – at the moment, it's my Facebook profile photo.

Interviewer So how did you come up with the idea?

Tessa Well, I've always been worried about food waste. My parents have a farm in the north of England, in North Yorkshire, and I learnt as a child how much hard work goes into producing the food that we all eat. And so I grew up with the belief that food should be eaten, it ought not to be thrown away. But I got the idea for the app when I was living in Switzerland and I was packing up my flat because I was going to move back to the UK. When the removal people came to take all my things, I still had in my fridge some potatoes, a cabbage, and some pots of yogurt. The men told me to throw away the food, but it seemed such a terrible thing to do, to throw away good food. The removal men didn't want it and my neighbours were out, and I thought to myself, 'This is absolutely crazy...this food is delicious. Why isn't there an app where I can share it with someone nearby who wants it?' And so the idea for OLIO was born... When I told my friend Saasha about it...

Interviewer You co-founded OLIO with your friend Saasha, is that right?

Tessa Yes. Saasha has always been passionate about recycling, and when I told her my idea, her eyes immediately lit up – she got very excited. In just an hour of talking, we'd come up with a name and made a plan.

Part 3

Interviewer So what happened next?

Tessa The first thing we did was some research, in order to understand how big the problem of food waste was, and what we discovered truly shocked us. For example, did you know that in the UK, the average family throws away £700 worth of food each year? That adds up to 12.5 billion...£12.5 billion that's going straight in the bin! But our research also showed that one in three people feel really terrible when they throw away good food. But just because people hate throwing away food, that doesn't mean they'll take the next step, which is to share food. We needed a cheap and quick way to test whether our food sharing idea would work.

Interviewer How did you do that?

Tessa We invited 12 people from our research survey who said they hated throwing away good food, and we put them all in a closed WhatsApp group. We asked them to post photos of any surplus food they had into the group for two weeks, and see if anyone wanted it. Eventually, someone posted an item – half a bag of onions! And then more and more items of food were shared. Then, when the trial was over, we met face to face with everybody who took part, and asked for feedback. The conclusion was unanimous – 'it's an amazing idea'.

Interviewer So when did you actually launch the app?

Tessa We launched it on 9th July 2015. The very first version of the app could only be used in North London. But now it's being used in 41 countries.

Interviewer So people love it and are using it?

Tessa Absolutely. We get loads of messages on our website, and there was one the other day from this guy – I'm going to read it to you – he said, 'I had some vegetables I knew I wouldn't have time to eat and within an hour they'd been collected and I suddenly felt like a hero!' That's so great. People are helping each other, and helping the planet, and feeling good all at the same time.

Interviewer Recently in the news, students and graduates have been complaining about how interns are treated, basically about the fact that many people doing internships are either very badly paid or not paid at all. We asked Jake Butler from the website savethestudent.org to give us the facts. Hello Jake, nice to have you on the programme.

Jake Hi there.

Interviewer So what's the current situation with interns getting paid?

Jake Well, I'd like to make it clear that at Save the Student, we're strongly against unpaid internships. And thankfully, the situation is better than it used to be.

Interviewer But are unpaid internships actually legal?

Jake They can be. It all depends on your status as an intern: that is, whether you qualify as 'a worker' or not. And the law isn't completely clear about what being 'a worker' means.

Interviewer So how do you know if you should be getting paid?

Jake Well, if you're promised a contract for future work once the internship period is over, then you are an employee, so you're entitled to the National Minimum Wage – that's £7.70 an hour – or the National Living Wage if you're over 25, which is £8.21 an hour.

Interviewer Are there any other situations in which you should definitely be paid?

Jake Yes. If you spend your day doing jobs that would usually be done by a paid employee, then you should also be paid the Minimum or Living wage.

Interviewer So when is it legal for an employer not to pay an intern?

Jake You don't have to be paid if you're doing an internship as part of your university course, or if you're doing school work experience. And of course, if you're volunteering for a charity.

Interviewer Any other situations?

Jake Yes, you also don't have to be paid if the role you have is similar to work experience or shadowing – where you are in an office or another workplace just to observe and learn about what's going on rather than actually working. But, and this is very important, if you're not getting paid for doing an internship, you shouldn't be given fixed working hours.

Interviewer So the important thing is to know your rights?

Jake Absolutely!

Interviewer Thank you very much, Jake.

Part 2

Interviewer We're now asking people who either are interns, or have just been interns to phone in and tell us about their experiences. Our first caller is Rosie. Hi Rosie, and thanks for calling. So, what's your experience?

Rosie Well, I wanted to work in fashion, making hats, to be precise, and in the fashion industry, it's almost impossible to get a job unless you do an internship first, so I did several.

Interviewer And did you get paid?

Rosie The most I got was about £15 a day for lunch and transport. Companies get so many applications for internships that they don't need to pay you.

Interviewer So it wasn't a good experience?

Rosie Actually, it was. It was very hard work, but I learnt loads about designing and making clothes. I sometimes worked later than 11 p.m., and that wasn't easy, but then I'd look in the newspapers and I'd see a model wearing a hat that I'd helped to make, and then I felt great.

Interviewer But it can't have been easy to survive, financially?

Rosie No, it wasn't. My parents were able to help me a bit, but I had to earn money by working in a bar as well.

Interviewer Would you recommend doing an internship?

Rosie Oh yes, overall, I think they're brilliant. I'd definitely advise someone to do one – despite the hard work and the debt, you learn so much that it's worth it.

Interviewer Thank you, Rosie. Our next caller is Lauren. Hi Lauren.

Lauren Hello.

Interviewer So what was your experience like?

Lauren I've done four internships in Publicity. My last one was two months at a small Public Relations agency. They paid for my travel expenses and lunch, and I learnt a lot. It really helped me when I applied for jobs because I knew what I was talking about.

Interviewer So, a good experience.

Lauren Absolutely. But in the other three, I worked ten-hour days, six days a week, and I got no money at all, so I also had to work in a pub to support myself. And each time they told me, 'Do well and there'll be a job at the end of it.' But then there were no jobs. It made me so angry.

Interviewer And were you working during these internships, or was it more observing others?

Lauren I was working really hard. In fact, during one of those internships, the manager went on holiday for a month and I had to manage everything. And in another one, I worked from home, using my own phone, and I wasn't paid a penny, not even to cover the phone bill. I only met the boss once – it was all done by email. She promised me a job after three months, but it never happened.

Interviewer So you felt you were being exploited?

Lauren Yes, totally.

Interviewer I'm really sorry to hear that, Lauren...

1 Interviewer How do you watch TV programmes, on a television or on another device?

I watch programmes on TV if I'm at home, or on my laptop, or on my iPad. I might watch something on my phone, if I was, I don't know, I suppose when something has happened on the news, I might watch it live, or something like that.

2 Interviewer Do you 'two-screen' while watching TV? What kinds of things do you do?

Yes, I can often be guilty of perhaps checking emails on my phone, or perhaps even doing a bit of online shopping while I'm watching TV. In fact, yesterday I was watching Masterchef, you know, the cookery competition, and I bought some small cake tins that you needed to make, to make a chocolate thing that one of the contestants was making.

3 Interviewer Do you normally watch live TV or catch-up?

Both, though nowadays I watch more catch-up. But I watch the news live and football, or tennis – Wimbledon – things like that.

4 Interviewer Have you ever binge watched a TV series? How many episodes did you watch in one go?

I haven't done it for a long time, but I did once watch eight episodes in one sitting of Mad Men the American series. But as I say, it was a long time ago.

5 Interviewer Do you use a streaming service like Netflix? What do you like about it?

I have Netflix and I also buy things off Amazon Prime Video – is that a streaming service? I don't really use them for films, more for TV series, like old ones I missed when they first came out. For example, a few months ago, I watched all the episodes of Brideshead Revisited, the original series from the 80s, because I didn't see it then, but I'd heard that it was very good.

6 Interviewer How often do you watch YouTube, or online channels like Apple? What kinds of things do you watch?

I sometimes watch YouTube – it's usually if I have a problem with my laptop or my phone and I want to find out how to fix it, and I sometimes, I sometimes, use it for watching people cook recipes. In fact, I've just watched someone preparing a fish dish, because I'm going to cook it this evening.

7 Interviewer Do you ever interact with TV shows by voting for contestants?

Not very often, but I do like Strictly Come Dancing and I have voted several times for contestants, when they've done a really good dance. And once, I was addicted to a TV show where the contestants were auditioning for a part in a West End musical and I really liked one young singer, so I voted for him every week. And eventually, he won, and I remember shouting and jumping off the sofa when the results were announced!

I used to live in a village in the province of Sakarya. It was an amazing place to live – just so beautiful. There's a large lake nearby and the hills are covered with pine trees – people go to picnic there. The coast is also not far away. When I lived there, it was as if time had stood still. People worked in the fields. Some things were annoying...there was no running water or electricity – we had our own well and generator – and there was only one shop. We had to wait for a minibus from the nearest town to bring fresh bread and the newspapers every morning! I worked in a school in a nearby town – in fact, the one that sent the bread and papers. I used to think, when I was living there, that there wasn't much choice of things to do, things to buy, but I made my own entertainment – I played tennis, went for walks, played the piano. In the end, I had to move for work, to Istanbul, which is the biggest and noisiest city in Turkey, and now I really miss the fresh food and fresh fish, the peace and quiet.

Liz When I moved in, the house was cold and absolutely filthy, and the cooker didn't work. I discovered everything in the countryside is more expensive: you have to drive miles to find a shop where everything costs twice as much as in my local supermarket in London. Local restaurants are really expensive and if you tell the waiter that you're a vegetarian, they look at you as if you were from Mars. I never fitted in. I think that in the country, if you're a woman, you'll never be accepted unless you're a full-time mum. Another thing I hated was the shooting! I love animals, I had two horses and two dogs, and I just couldn't pass a group of men with guns, shooting rabbits and deer, without getting out of my car and saying, 'Do you really have nothing better to do on a Saturday morning?' That didn't make me very popular. I became so lonely, I often used to sit in my car and listen to the kind voice of the satnav lady. After five years, I decided to go back to London. I'd learnt that an amazing view and a pair of nesting herons were not enough to make me happy. On my last night in the country, I sat outside underneath millions of stars and I thought to myself, 'I've come to the end of a five-year prison sentence.' I promised myself I would never, ever go back.

Bob The first thing we had to do was find new jobs. Jean got part-time work with a local company that sells meat products, and I did work as a lawyer. Two years later, we had a barn built, and my wife always wanted to have a donkey or a horse, but in the end we thought sheep were less destructive to the land, so we kept with the sheep, better for the land. So we started with four sheep, which we kept in the garden at first, and then we bought a field, and then we bought ten more sheep and sold six for meat, and that was the start of our sheep business. Now we've got 68 sheep and seven fields. At the moment, we've got 25 sheep that are expecting lambs, ready for the next season. In addition to that, we've got free-range hens which we rescued from battery farms. It hasn't all been easy. Um, it rains a lot where we live now, and, um, it gets incredibly muddy, and of course the work with the animals – it can get physically very hard. At first, we had a little bit of resistance – there were some local farmers who didn't really like newcomers – but we've always employed local people and we buy food in the local shops, and we try and engage with the local community as much as we possibly can. We sell our meat and eggs to neighbours and friends, and we produce wool from the sheep as well now. We haven't really ever considered moving back, because we really enjoy it. We loved life in the city, but we would never think about going back now.

1 I remember we once went to a restaurant in Portugal, beautiful location, upstairs overlooking the River Douro. We ordered some grilled sardines to share, and after a few minutes, the waiter came with a big plate of fried sardines and put them down on our table. And we thought, well, we'd ordered grilled sardines but hey, they're really busy and these look really nice. So we each took a fried sardine and ate it, at which point the waiter came back, and said, 'These aren't yours' and took them away, and in a few minutes came back with a plate of grilled sardines. So this was all fine, and we had a nice meal, but when we got the bill we saw that we'd been charged for both the fried sardines and the grilled sardines. So we complained to the waiter and then to the manager and said, you know, 'This was your mistake.' But the manager said, basically, 'you ate them so you have to pay for them' and we had quite a long argument.

Eventually, when we said that we wanted to make a formal, written complaint, very reluctantly he agreed to take them off the bill. We didn't leave a tip.

2 We went to lunch one Sunday in a place, a Parisian brasserie called Delaville. It's a beautiful place, it's from about 1900 with wonderful old furniture, mirrors and all that, really nice. We ordered very simple things like lasagne, which is easy to just heat up, but we waited and waited and it didn't come. The place was crowded, but not completely full, and there were quite a few waiters, but when we realized that we had been waiting for two hours, we went to speak to them and we asked them, 'What about our food, have you forgotten us?' And instead of apologizing, they were really aggressive with us, so we became more and more angry with them. And finally, we got our dishes and ate them and left. We should have left earlier, but we kept thinking that the food would come and also it was too late to find somewhere else. But it was a terrible experience, because it was a very famous place, very, with a good reputation where all the famous people go. But that's the type of service they offer. First I thought, maybe they were treating us like that because we're not famous, but in fact, I heard lots of other people complaining.

3 I had a table recently at the restaurant I'm working at in London and I went to all sorts of trouble with them. It was a group of six and there was a vegan and a coeliac – you know, someone who can't eat wheat, and anyway, I went through the menu with them and explained what they could have – there was even a woman who said she didn't like onions so I had to check all the dishes to make sure they didn't have any. There was also a little boy and I got the kitchen to make a plain omelette for him. Anyway, one of them, an elderly woman, asked for the bill, and she paid in cash, and when I came back with the change, she said, 'Don't worry about that, you've been great. Keep it.' It was 16p. I mean, I know service was included, but in that case, much better not to tip at all. I left the 16p on the table.

Presenter In many countries, tipping is an optional extra. But in the USA, it's a serious business! There are no actual laws on tipping, but the unwritten rule is that you should always leave a tip in a restaurant unless you want to deal with some very unhappy waiters. But how much is reasonable, and who exactly do you have to tip? Sally from the US is here to help us. Hello, Sally.

Sally Hi.

Presenter So first of all, why is it so important to leave a tip?

Sally I absolutely get that in countries where servers are paid well, you shouldn't have to tip at all, unless you want to because the service was great. But in the US, many servers earn just two to three dollars per hour for their services, because it's assumed that the tips will make it up to the minimum wage, which varies between the different states, but is generally around eight dollars per hour, in tips. Now I know you may think this is wrong, and many Americans, myself included, would agree, but that is the situation right now, until the law changes.

Presenter And how much should you tip?

Sally A normal gratuity is around 15 to 20 per cent of the check. But it can be as much as 25 per cent for amazing service, or in very expensive restaurants. It sounds a lot, but servers work really hard and I think generally they deserve it!

Presenter OK, so it doesn't often happen often, but what about if the service is bad? Do you still have to tip?

Sally I'd say you do, but if it really was bad maybe just 10% – that will give the message. And if you feel you don't want to leave even that, then you should probably call the manager and complain, and explain why you're not leaving a tip.

Presenter Do you need to tip even if the restaurant has already added a service charge to your bill?

Sally There's no automatic service charge added in the US, but some restaurants will add a gratuity to your check if you're in a big group of eight people or more, if it's a public holiday or sometimes if you're in a busy tourist area. You don't have to leave any more money if the check already includes the service charge.

Presenter Do you have to tip for fast food or takeaway coffee?

Sally No, no. If you buy food or drinks over the counter, people don't usually leave any gratuity, but there's always a tip jar close by if you'd really like to!

Presenter And what should you do in bars?

Sally Well, take lots of dollar bills with you because the normal gratuity in bars is $1 a drink. Order and pay for your drink at the bar, and leave the dollar bill on the bar. Don't worry about putting it in the bartender's hand.

1 I love IKEA. Especially the bookshelves. We have several. And I'm usually pretty good at putting their stuff together. But I've had a few problems over the years. I remember I once had some trouble with a wardrobe. After hours and hours, and a lot of swearing, I finally managed to put it together. But I'd assembled it in my study, next to the bedroom, which was where the wardrobe was going, because I had more space there. And when my husband and I tried to move it into the bedroom, we couldn't get it to fit through the door. So I had to take it to pieces, move all the bits into the bedroom, and start all over again. I suppose it was my fault though, not IKEA's. And the wardrobe looked very nice and has lasted for ages.

2 About three years ago, my girlfriend and I went to IKEA to buy a kitchen. The units were cheap and cheerful, but they also looked quite well-designed, and we were very excited by how good it was all going to look. The guy in the store said they were easy to put up, that it wouldn't take long, etc. etc., and I'm quite handy, quite practical, so I thought, no problem, though I admit my girlfriend was a bit sceptical. Anyway, when we got home, I thought I'd assemble one cupboard, just to see how easy it was going to be. It was a nightmare. The instructions were incomprehensible – it took me the whole afternoon just to do this one cupboard and when it was finished, I realized I'd put the door handle on the wrong way round. In the end, we had to pay someone to come and do it all for us. But at least they looked good.

3 I have lots of things from IKEA – it's great for students because generally speaking it's pretty cheap. Anyway, I bought a table there with my boyfriend not long ago. We started putting the table together and at one point we had three legs screwed in. Then we reached for the screws to attach the fourth leg – and realized there were no more screws. We had to take off the other three legs, take one screw off every one of them and reassemble the table. So now at least it has four legs, but it's rather wobbly, and I'm not very happy with it. It does annoy me when they don't give you the right number of nails or screws or whatever, and it's not the first time it's happened to me. Now I always check before I bring stuff home.

Story 1 Tonight, we're going to start with a good news story – well, good news for some people! Yesterday, bank customers in a village in Hampshire were thousands of pounds richer after an ATM started giving out double the money people had asked for.

When people heard the news, they rushed to take money out of the faulty machine, and long queues formed. For two hours, around 200 residents continued to withdraw money. It was mostly middle-aged people, but a few children arrived on their bikes with their parents' bank cards. One villager, who asked not to be named, said that some people had used five or six bank cards and had got £300 free with each card. At first people thought it was funny, but then some people became a bit aggressive when other people started pushing into the queue.

Finally, after two hours, the police arrived and switched off the ATM. They even posted a message on Twitter to stop more people arriving. They warned that receiving too much money from a cash machine might be a crime, and that the bank would ask people to pay back the money. However, later, the bank said that it wasn't the customers' fault and that no one would have to return the money.

Story 2 And finally on Texas News this Wednesday evening, the man who got trapped inside an ATM. Customers who were using an ATM in Corpus Christi earlier today got a big surprise. While they were withdrawing money from the machine, several people received handwritten notes, asking for help.

A man, who asked not to be named, had locked himself in while he was changing the lock to the ATM room at the bank. Unfortunately, he'd left his cellphone and the swipe card he needed to get out of the room outside in his van. When he realized that he couldn't get out and couldn't phone for help, he started passing notes through the ATM receipt slot to customers who were taking out cash. One of them read, 'Please help. I'm stuck in here and I don't have my phone. Please call my boss!'

At first, the customers thought the notes were a trick. But eventually, one of them called the police. When the police arrived, they heard a very quiet voice coming from inside the ATM. An officer went into the bank, broke down the door to the room behind the cash machine, and found the man. Senior Officer Richard Olden said, 'We thought it was a joke. It was just crazy that somebody was stuck in the ATM. Luckily, the man is OK.'

1 Hi. Yeah, not bad... Yeah, it's half time... One-all. Yeah, there's a really good crowd. The stadium's packed... No, no trouble. The Liverpool fans are making a bit of a noise, but nothing major... OK, I'll call you when it's over. With a bit of luck, we'll be in the semi-final in an hour's time.

2 A So, tell me all about it!

B It was absolutely brilliant. We were in the second row, just near the stage, and when he was singing, I swear, a few times he looked right at me!

A Did he sing Baby Baby?

B Of course! All the best songs. It was just an amazing performance.

A Were Sandy and Annette there?

B Yeah, we met for a drink in the interval.

A Gosh, you're so lucky you got tickets!

3 A OK, I'm looking for tickets now... There's a matinee at 3 o'clock and then it's on again in the evening at 8.00.

B Let's go at 8.00 if we can get seats.

A Well, there aren't any in the stalls, but there are two upstairs in the circle, in the second row.

B OK. Go for it. It's a small theatre anyway, so we should have a good view wherever we sit.

A OK. Right, we've got them. We can pick them up at the box office.

1 Andy A few years ago, I went to Wimbledon, the tennis championships, which take place in June in south-west London, and it's quite difficult to get tickets, but I was very lucky and got two tickets for the men's quarter-final matches on Centre Court, which are usually fantastically exciting with lots of big names. The tickets were very expensive, but I was really pleased because they were right in the front row. And on the day, my partner and I, we got up and drove to Wimbledon, it took about two hours. And as we were driving, it started to rain – the weather forecast was for showers, and at that time there was no roof on Centre Court, and the players couldn't play if it was raining. But we got there, parked the car and went in and found our seats and sat under our umbrella. Play was supposed to start at 2.00, and at 1.30 the rain stopped, then at 2.00, the players came on and the atmosphere was brilliant, and then at 2.15... the rain started again! The match was stopped and the court was covered over, and that was all the tennis we saw all day. We just sat there for four hours, hoping to see some more, but in the end we just went home, very cold and very disappointed. It was a very expensive 15 minutes.

2 Cathy Once, when my daughter was about 14, our local theatre, the Playhouse in Oxford, put on a play called The Woman in Black. It's a classic ghost story, full of suspense and quite scary – it's been made into a film starring Daniel Radcliffe, you know, who played Harry Potter. Anyway, I decided to take my daughter, and I got quite good seats in the stalls so she could see well. When we got there, we found our seats and sat down. The theatre wasn't full, but then just before the play was going to start, the rows of seats in front of us suddenly filled up with a group of about 30 teenagers. They were obviously a school group, and they were a bit noisy, but I thought they'd settle down when the play started. So the curtain went up and the audience went very quiet, and there was spooky music, and the tension started to grow, but then, every time anything happened on stage, the teenage girls in front of us screamed, even though nothing was really happening yet, so then we couldn't hear what the actors were saying for a few minutes until they quietened down again. In fact, they carried on doing this all the way through the first half, and it totally ruined the atmosphere for absolutely everyone. Their teachers obviously said something to them during the interval, or maybe someone had complained, but they weren't much better during the second half. It basically ruined the whole evening.

3 Clive I'd been a fan of Leonard Cohen since I was a teenager, but I'd never ever heard him sing live. But then, in I think about 2009, I read that he was going to do a world tour and that he was coming to Valencia in Spain where I lived. I was really excited and I thought, 'Even though he's in his mid-seventies, I'm finally going to get to hear him!' The concert was in September, in the velodrome in Valencia, so in the open-air. I went with a group of friends, and when he came on stage and started singing, I was amazed at how great his voice still was. We were having a wonderful evening, but then when he was on his fourth song, one of his old classics called Bird on the Wire, he suddenly collapsed on the stage! The other musicians all rushed up to help him and carried him off. We waited there, hoping that he was OK and that the concert would continue, but after almost an hour there was no announcement, nothing, and we thought maybe he'd died. Finally, someone came on and said that he'd been taken to hospital and so the concert wouldn't continue. We went home terribly disappointed. I'd waited all my life to hear him sing live, and we just got three and a half songs. Luckily, he recovered, and went on with his tour, but he never came back to Valencia, and then he died in 2016, so I never got to hear him live again.

Interviewer Dino, what made you choose hairdressing?

Dino Er, I always liked it from when I was child. I remember being taken to the barber's by my dad when I was a child in Greece, and I really loved the atmosphere there.

Interviewer He wasn't a barber himself though?

Dino No, but my aunt was a hairdresser.

Interviewer What sort of training did you do?

Dino When I came to London, I went to the Vidal Sassoon Academy. It was a two-year course – absolutely fantastic, very intense. I loved it!

Interviewer What sort of things do you love or hate doing in hairdressing?

Dino I love everything. There really isn't anything I don't like. And I do everything, cut, colour, highlights, straightening. Nowadays, some hairdressers specialize in maybe just colour, or just styling, but I think it's important to do everything.

Interviewer What do you think are important qualities for a hairdresser?

Dino Well, as I just said, I think being able to do everything – colour, styling, cutting – is very important. I don't believe in specializing in just one area.

Interviewer Any other important qualities?

Dino I think you need to be sociable, to be able to talk to people, calm them down if they're stressed, listen to them if they want to talk.

Interviewer Do you enjoy that?

Dino Yes, I do. The sociable side of hairdressing was one of the things that attracted me to it. Even women who want to tell me all their problems – I don't mind it at all, it doesn't distract me.

Interviewer Are women clients very different from men?

Dino Yes, definitely. They are normally the ones who want to talk, and they are much more worried – stressed – about their hair. Men are more quiet and relaxed, and they're not normally very fussy about their hair.

Interviewer What do you do if a client doesn't like the results?

Dino I try to correct it immediately. That's easy if it's the colour, less easy if it's a cut.

Interviewer Have you ever had a really bad experience, I mean one where you couldn't correct it?

Dino Only once, when I was still at college. I cut a woman's hair shorter than she was expecting it – not much, only about one centimetre shorter, but she burst into tears – and I couldn't correct that.

Interviewer Is it true that hairdressers always want to cut off more hair than their clients want?

Dino I think maybe it is. Many hairdressers want to make the hair healthier, and cut off all the parts that are, you know, damaged. Or sometimes they have a style in mind and they just want to do it. But obviously, normally I try to do what the customer wants. You have to be flexible. That's another important quality in a hairdresser.

Interviewer So, if you completely disagreed with what a client wanted, would you still do it?

Dino Well, if a client wanted a treatment that I thought was going to damage her hair, for example, if she wanted to have her hair bleached when it was already in bad condition, then I would say no. But if it was a question of style – for example, a woman who wanted to have her head shaved completely – I would try to convince her that it wasn't a good idea, but if she insisted, I would do it. It's her choice after all.

Interviewer Do you have any tips for having good hair?

Dino Yes – use good products, ones which are right for your type of hair. I notice that a lot of people take a lot of trouble choosing the right face cream – you know for dry skin, or problem skin. For day, for night, and so on. But with shampoo, they just buy the first one they see in the supermarket.

Interviewer Thank you very much, Dino. I won't forget this.

The body polish

Joanna So? What did you think?

Stephen It was just horrible! Horrible. First, they covered me in fruit puree, then they wrapped me in plastic film, then in blankets, and then I was left on a water bed. I mean, come on! Fruit's for eating, not for putting on your body. It was hot and sticky, and incredibly uncomfortable. And I felt so stupid. I'd never have that again. I give it zero out of ten.

Joanna Sticky? It was fruit, for goodness sake! I thought it was wonderful. It smelled amazing, and the head massage was divine. I mean, how could anybody not like it? That was one of my favourite spa treatments ever. Ten out of ten.

The foot treatment

Stephen Wow!

Joanna Don't tell me – you liked it!

Stephen It was wonderful!

Joanna I must say, your feet look...well, better. Clean anyway.

Stephen Well, I've never liked my feet much, to be honest, but now they look great. Definitely worth the time and money. Nine out of ten. What do you think?

Joanna Yes, it was great. A real luxury. And I love the colour they painted my nails. I agree – nine out of ten. You see...

Guide Good afternoon, everybody, everyone, and welcome to St Paul's, which, as you probably know, is one of the most famous and most historic cathedrals in Britain. The previous church on this site burned down in 1666, in the Great Fire of London, and the famous architect Sir Christopher Wren was asked to design a new cathedral. It took nearly 40 years to build and was completed in 1710.

Just behind you is the great West Door, you can see the great West Door. The magnificent doors are nine metres tall. They're normally closed, except when someone very special arrives, for example, her Majesty the Queen. And now in front of you, you see the Nave, which gives you the most wonderful view of the full length of St Paul's Cathedral. Maybe some of you watched Prince Charles and Princess Diana walk down the Nave when they married here in 1981.

OK, now please follow me. We're going to walk down the Nave, and you'll see the north and south aisle on either side...

Guide Right. Can we just stop here? Could we stop here? We're now in the centre of the cathedral. Look up above you, and you can see inside the wonderful Dome. It is one of the largest domes in the world, and I personally think the most beautiful. Now, you remember the outside of the Dome, which you saw when you arrived, can anyone tell me what was on top of the Dome?

US tourist A cross?

Guide Yeah that's right, a cross. In 1710, the year the cathedral was finally completed, Christopher Wren was 81 years old, and he was lifted up in a basket and was able to watch his own son place the cross on the top of the Dome. Another thing about, fascinating thing about the Dome is that from the top of the Dome to the floor, down where you're standing, is exactly 365 feet, one foot for every day of the year.

Foreign tourist How much is that in metres?

Guide It's 1-1-1, 111 metres. In fact, St Paul's was the tallest building in London right up until the 1960s, because until that time, no one was allowed to build anything taller near St Paul's. We're going to move on shortly, but just spend a few minutes now looking at the magnificent paintings...

We are now in the area called the South Transept. Over there you can see the monument to Britain's great naval hero, Horatio Nelson, who died at the Battle of Trafalgar in 1805. Yes, yeah, he's the one on the top of the Nelson's column in Trafalgar Square.

We're now in the South Quire Aisle, and we're just going to stop for a moment to look at this marble statue of John Donne. Donne was a Dean of the Cathedral and one of Britain's finest poets – he died in 1631. But this statue is also important because it's one of the few monuments that survived the Great Fire of London. And you can still see the burn marks at the bottom of the statue there...

Now, are you all feeling energetic? I hope so, because we're going to go up these stairs here, to the Whispering Gallery, which goes around the inside of the great Dome, and I do need to tell you that there are 257 steps, so if there are any of you who don't think you can manage it, just wait for us here in the South Quire Aisle... So, that wasn't too bad, was it? We're now in the Whispering Gallery. The gallery gets its name because if you whisper, talk very quietly, on one side, your voice can be heard very clearly on the other side. When there are a lot of tourists, it doesn't always work, but as there aren't so many of us today, why don't you try it...?

So, did any of you try out the whispering? We're now going to go back along the Nave, and then down into the Crypt to see some of the tombs of famous people who are buried in St Paul's. Right, now, the tomb over there is Lord Nelson's – you remember you saw his monument earlier – and then here we have the tomb of the Duke of Wellington, who defeated Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo. And finally, this tomb here belongs to the great man himself, Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of St Paul's. It's just a simple stone monument, but can you see the Latin words on it? Anyone speak Latin here? No, well I'll translate it for you. It says, 'Reader, if you seek his monument, look around you.' Because of course, the whole of St Paul's is really Wren's monument.

1 Sarah My husband Rick always forgets where he's put things, and last night he came home very late from work and then had to leave very early again this morning, at 5.00, while I was still in bed. I heard him crashing about downstairs getting ready, and then he shouted up the stairs, 'Sarah, have you seen my car keys?' So I shouted back, 'No', and I tried to go back to sleep, but then he came running up the stairs into the bedroom and said, 'I can't find them. I left them on the table when I went to bed last night. You've moved them.' And I said, 'I didn't move them, I was in bed when you came home. Have you looked in your coat pocket?' So he went downstairs again and shouted, 'They're not there'. So I got up, in a very bad mood, and went downstairs, and looked in his coat pocket, and, surprise surprise, there were his car keys. I was really quite angry because by now I was completely awake. But at least he apologized.

2 Kim It was my mum's 70th birthday last week and I suggested to my sister Caro that it would be nice to have a birthday lunch for her. I said I'd organize it, because my sister isn't very good at that kind of thing – she works full time and has a very important job (so she says), but anyway she said, 'I want to do something to help. I'll bring a birthday cake.' I said, 'Fine', even though I quite wanted to make the cake myself. Anyway, on the day, everyone arrived and Mum was really surprised and pleased, and we had lunch, and then I said to my sister, 'Where's the cake?' She went pale, and said, 'OMG, I completely forgot about it.' Mum said, 'Oh don't make a fuss, Kim. It's no problem.' – she thought it was very funny – but I was seriously annoyed.

Continuity announcer Can you remember exactly what you did on any day 10, 20, or even 30 years ago? Now it's Mind Matters, and we're going to hear about a woman who can do just that.

Presenter Ask Jill Price to remember any day in her life, and she can usually come up with an answer. When I met her, she asked for my date of birth, which is 24th January 1986.

Jill OK, 24th January 1986 was a Friday. It was four days before the Challenger explosion. I was working in an ice cream shop. I hated my job. That night I went out with some friends, Tim and Candace.

Presenter Jill could also tell me what she ate and what time she got home that evening. I tried another date. What did she do on 29th August 1980?

Jill It was also a Friday, I went to Palm Springs with my friends Nina and Michelle and their family.

Presenter Then I asked her, 'When was the third time you drove a car?'

Jill That was 10th January 1981. A Saturday.

Presenter Jill Price has HSAM, or 'Highly Superior Autobiographical Memory', which means she can remember exactly what happened on most days in her life. She remembers the day of the week for every date since 1980 – what she was doing, who she was with, where she was. She can recall a memory of 20 years ago as easily as a memory of two days ago.

Jill was born on 30th December 1965 in New York. Her first memory is when she was 18 months old and she lived with her parents in an apartment in Manhattan. She remembers the traffic, and staring out of the window down 9th Avenue. When she was five, her family moved to New Jersey, and then when she was eight, they moved to a rented house in Los Angeles. That was 1st July 1974 – and on that day, she says, her 'brain snapped', and she began to be able to remember everything that happened to her in great detail. Her memories come without her trying to recall them.

Jill People have called it a gift, but for me it's a nightmare. My entire life goes through my head every day – it drives me crazy.

Part 2

Presenter So what do we know about how Jill's superior memory works? Dr James McGaugh, who is an expert in memory research, met her for the first time in June 2000. He first tested her memory using a big history book. Jill answered the questions quickly and confidently.

Dr McGaugh What happened on 16th August 1977?

Jill Elvis Presley died in his Graceland bathroom. It was a Tuesday.

Dr McGaugh When did Bing Crosby die?

Jill Friday, 14th October 1977, on a golf course in Spain. I heard it on the radio while my Mom was driving me to soccer practice.

Presenter It's often difficult for scientists to confirm whether autobiographical memories are accurate, but McGaugh was able to check with Jill's detailed diary. He also checked Jill's memories with her mother.

Dr McGaugh's research was focused on showing that strong emotional experiences are the most memorable ones, and Jill had the most vivid memories that McGaugh had ever encountered. However her memory only stores the things that she finds important. When it comes to remembering things that don't relate to her personally or to her interests, Jill is no better than the average person.

Jill At school, I couldn't remember facts and figures, and I can't memorize a sequence of random numbers.

Presenter McGaugh and other experts have now discovered around 60 people with HSAM. These people often say that there was a specific point in their lives that triggered their ability to remember in such detail. For Jill, it was her family's stressful move to Los Angeles. Most people would think that having HSAM is an advantage, but Jill says there are two big problems.

Jill The first is that there's so much information running through my head all the time, and the second is that I find it difficult to forget unpleasant things. For example, I can remember bad moments from my childhood as if they'd just happened, and they make me feel unhappy all over again.

Presenter No one else in Jill's family has a memory like hers. She's published an autobiography, The Woman Who Can't Forget, but her brother hasn't read it. He says that there might be things in it that he doesn't want to know.

Narrator When George arrived at Singapore he found a telegram waiting for him.

Reader 'Quite understand. Don't worry. Love Mabel.'

George 'My God, I believe she's following me.'

Reader he said. He checked the passenger list of the next ship on its way to Singapore, and sure enough her name was on it. There was not a moment to lose. He jumped on the first train to Bangkok. But he was uneasy; she would have no difficulty in finding out that he had gone to Bangkok. Fortunately there was a French boat sailing the next day for Saigon. He took it. At Saigon he would be safe. It would never occur to her that he had gone there. It was five days' journey from Bangkok to Saigon and the boat was dirty, crowded and uncomfortable. He was glad to arrive and went straight to the hotel. A telegram was immediately handed to him. It contained only two words:

Mabel 'Love Mabel.'

Reader He started to tremble.

George 'When is the next boat for Hong Kong?'

Reader he asked. He sailed to Hong Kong but was afraid to stay there. Then he went to Manila, and from there he went on to Shanghai. Shanghai made him feel nervous; every time he went out of the hotel he expected to run straight into Mabel's arms. No, Shanghai would never do. The only thing was to go to Yokohama. At the Grand Hotel in Yokohama a telegram awaited him.

Mabel 'So sorry I missed you at Manila. Love Mabel.'

Reader Where was she now? He went back to Shanghai. This time he went straight to the club and asked if he had received any telegrams. One was handed to him.

Mabel 'Arriving soon. Love Mabel.'

Alex My girlfriend Chloe and I had been together for just over a year. Soon after we met, I'd told her that I didn't want to get married or have children, and she seemed fine with that. But then, Chloe began to talk about moving in together. I tried not to discuss it, and we went on like that for a couple of months. Then one afternoon, it was the 29th February, Chloe invited me to her house. When I arrived, she was making a bracelet. I sat down and she passed me a box which contained some small beads with letters on them. When I looked into the box, I realized that the letters spelled 'Will you marry me?' I was horrified. I didn't want to embarrass her, so I started putting the letters on the bracelet thread in the wrong order – I made words like 'owl' and 'yellow', but then she started crying. So we went out for a walk and she explained that 29th February only happens once every four years, and it's the day when, traditionally, women can propose to men. I didn't say anything and went home. I felt awful. It's probably the worst thing that's ever happened to me, and I didn't see her for three days afterwards. But we got over it, and we're still together. We're not married, but who knows? Maybe in a few years' time, I'll propose, and Chloe will say no.

Emma When I first started going out with Tom, I was completely in love. He was ten years older than me, very good-looking, and he had been an Olympic athlete. He was also a really lovely guy. In theory, he was my perfect man, but after two years, our relationship became very difficult, so I decided to end it. Not long afterwards, Tom phoned me to say that he wanted to meet at the cathedral. I thought, OK, fine. When I got there, Tom was waiting for me outside. He was holding a bottle of champagne and a bunch of flowers. And then before I had a chance to say anything, he got down on one knee and proposed. He gave me a necklace – not a ring, a necklace. Then a crowd of Japanese tourists rushed towards us and began taking photos – Tom was down on one knee and I was looking white and shocked. It was awful. I asked him to get up, and explained to him, in front of all the tourists, that we were not together any more, and we were definitely not going to get married. We left the cathedral, and as I was walking with him to the station, Tom said he had hoped that if he proposed to me, it would solve all our problems. But it was never going to work. We're not together now.

- Yannis Um, so I've lived in New York for, uh, 12 years now, and one thing that I think I will always appreciate is the diversity of the place and the people. And every time I go away it's so nice to come back here and, and be on the subway and see all the different faces and hear different accents. Um, and, you know, my English is pretty good, but I have never felt judged here, you know, for having a foreign accent, and nobody is surprised, you know, if you have a strange surname, um, or if you sound different. I have never felt that. And I could say that sometimes in Europe, I did, so... This is one thing that I will always appreciate about living here.
- Cristina Um, one thing that, um, I don't particularly like here is the culture around American Football. And maybe this has something to do with me being European and liking, uh, European football, or soccer, um, more than American football. And I did try, um, but I think, uh, the game is way too complicated – though I tried to understand the rules. And I find the atmosphere around American football, I...I just...I find it a bit too aggressive? For example, recently the Philadelphia Eagles won the Superbowl and, um, the celebrations, so to speak, if we can call them celebrations, were more like riots.
- Louisa I know from having travelled a lot and having lived overseas, having an Italian husband, it's very complicated to get sort of bureaucratic tasks done in places like Italy. So I think the one thing that I like most about living in the United States is that things are pretty easy to do and even living in a big city it's, um, it's easy to get things done. So it's pretty easy to, you know, change your phone company, and it's easy to renew your driver's licence.

- Laura Um, something that I like about America is that I find people are very keen to help, even without being asked. 'cause I lived in Germany for four years and I remember every time I flew there, at the airport, I would always really struggle to get my bag off the luggage carousel and no one would ever help me. And every time I flew back home to the US, immediately someone would come over and offer to help. And I've noticed the same thing with opening doors, with helping people carry things up the stairs in the subway.
- Peter Something I really like about America is the sense of opportunity here. Um, I feel like as a new immigrant I've been able to come into the country and get jobs that I couldn't get back home in the UK because I don't think I would have had the same opportunities there, I think that you can move here and make something of yourself very quickly, and I really like the sort of entrepreneurial spirit there is here, um, the feeling that if you have a good idea and you work hard, you can be successful, I think it really is the land of opportunity and I really like that.
- Sarah I've lived in the US for three years, and something that I really dislike about American culture has to be the fascination with guns, er, growing up in the UK, growing up in Europe, I've never seen people really want to own guns themselves. For me, it's up to the police to take care of people and to make sure everyone's safe. I can't understand why a civilian would want to own their own gun and keep it in their house. For me that means that the country is less safe not more safe, so that's something I don't think I'll ever be able to understand.

- Interviewer What's the hardest exam or test you've ever taken?
- Mark My A Level physics exam – I didn't understand at least half the questions.
- Interviewer Have you ever done an exam where everything went wrong?
- Mark I'm afraid so. For a history O level there were five questions – all short essays. I'd prepared five questions from previous exam papers, but nothing else. So I was gambling that at least three of the questions would come up. But none of them did, so obviously I failed it.
- Interviewer How did you usually prepare for a big exam?
- Mark I remember it generally involved a lot of coffee and late nights!
- Interviewer Did you find exams stressful?
- Mark No, I never got that stressed about exams but that may have had a negative effect on the results, come to think of it. I was never the world's best at exams. I usually passed, but the results were never brilliant.
- Interviewer What's the hardest exam or test you've ever taken?
- Sophie I think the hardest was probably my driving test – the practical part. I got so nervous each time I just couldn't drive. In fact, I failed three times before I finally passed.
- Interviewer Have you ever done an exam where everything went wrong?
- Sophie Yes, in the beginning of my first driving test, I refused to stop where the examiner asked me to stop. I just didn't think it looked safe and I thought it was a trick – I mean, I thought that he was asking me to do something dangerous, to test me. Anyway it wasn't a trick and he wasn't happy at all.
- Interviewer How did you usually prepare for a big exam?
- Sophie I used to spend a lot of time writing notes; I probably spent more time making them look nice, using different coloured pens and so on, than I did actually learning the information. But I found it really helpful to stick the notes up on posters all over the house so that I could see them every day.

Interviewer Did exams use to stress you out?

Sophie Yes. I hated exams and used to get very nervous and stressed beforehand. But once the exam had started I usually relaxed.

Interviewer What's the hardest exam you've ever taken?

Diane I think it has to be the eleven plus because that was the first time I had ever felt any pressure to succeed.

Interviewer How did you do?

Diane I passed it.

Interviewer Have you ever done an exam where everything went wrong?

Diane Yes, my A level French oral exam went horribly wrong. Some friends had said, 'Whatever you do, don't say that you've been to France, otherwise they'll expect your French to be quite good', and so what happened was, I got in there and the examiner said, 'Have you ever been to France?' (in French) and I said 'Non' and then I started talking about driving to Gibraltar with my parents, and then the examiner said, 'Well, how did you manage to drive from the UK to Gibraltar without driving through France?', at which point I just completely froze and couldn't say anything else at all! But I guess I'd spoken enough previously, so I passed.

Interviewer How did you usually prepare for a big exam?

Diane Well, for literature exams I used to memorize loads and loads of famous passages from the books we were studying, so I could put them in my answers, and that seemed to work, because I passed.

Interviewer How did you usually feel about doing exams?

Diane Not great, but I was usually reasonably confident, I'd say.

Interviewer What's the hardest exam or test you've ever taken?

Paul Probably the exam at the end of the first year of my geography course at university. Not because the questions were very difficult but because I'd done so little work for it.

Interviewer Have you ever done an exam where everything went wrong?

Paul Oh yes. I thought I'd done quite well in my GCSE Chemistry exam but I failed it. So something must have gone very wrong.

Interviewer How did you usually prepare for a big exam?

Paul I used to read notes over and over again, right up till the last possible minute. Yeah, I relied heavily on short-term memory, I think.

Interviewer Did exams use to stress you out?

Paul Not really, though they probably would now. When I was at school and university it was just part of life – so not particularly stressful.

pronouns

Revise the basics

- 1 I live in London. NOT i-live
- 2 My parents don't visit me very often.
- 3 My name's Anna.
- 4 They have a flat in north London, but mine is in south London.

pronouns and possessive adjectives

1 subject pronouns	2 object pronouns	3 possessive adjectives	4 possessive pronouns
I	me	my	mine
you	you	your	yours
he / she / it	him / her / it	his / her / its	his / hers
we	us	our	ours
you	you	your	yours
they	them	their	theirs

direct / indirect object pronouns and word order

- 1 He bought me a rose. ▶ 1.5
I'm going to lend her my camera.
They showed us their new flat.

We brought him some books.
- 2 He bought it for me.
I'm going to lend it to her.
They showed it to us.
I'll send it to you.
We brought them for him.

- 1 Some verbs can have two objects, usually a thing (the direct object) and a person (the indirect object). If the direct object is a noun (a rose, my camera, etc.), we usually use verb + indirect object + direct object.
 - The order can also be verb + direct object + for or to + indirect object, e.g. He bought a rose for me, I'm going to lend my camera to her. See list of verbs with for and to below.
- 2 If the direct object is a pronoun (it, them), we usually use verb + direct object + indirect object, with either for or to before the indirect object. Some common verbs which can have two objects are:
 - With for bring sth for/to sb, buy sth for sb, cook sth for sb, find sth for sb, get sth for sb, make sth for sb
 - With to give sth to sb, lend sth to sb, offer sth to sb, read sth to sb, sell sth to sb, send sth to sb, show sth to sb, take sth to sb, write sth to sb
 - If the indirect object is a pronoun, we use the object pronoun, not the subject pronoun:
I'm going to lend it to her. NOT I'm going to lend it to she.

a Circle the correct form.

- My cousin's name's James, but we call his / (him) Jim.

- 1 Many verbs describe actions. These verbs are used in the present continuous to talk about actions happening now or in the future.
- 2 Some verbs describe states and feelings, not actions. Examples are agree, be, believe, belong, depend, forget, hate, hear, know, like, look like, love, matter, mean, need, prefer, realize, recognize, remember, seem, suppose, understand, want. These verbs are normally used in the present simple, not the continuous, even if we are referring to now.

a Circle the correct form.

We're going / We go to New Zealand on Saturday.
The flight ¹ leaves / is leaving at 6.50 in the morning.
² We need / We're needing to check in two hours ahead, so ³ we go / we're going to the airport the night before, and ⁴ we stay / we're staying in an airport hotel (£200 a night, but it's better than getting up at 2.00 a.m.!). The first part of the flight, to Singapore, ⁵ takes / is taking 14 hours, and ⁶ we break / we're breaking the journey there for a couple of days. Then it's on to Auckland. The flight ⁷ gets in / is getting in at nearly midnight, but our friends ⁸ meet / are meeting us at the airport, and ⁹ they look after / they're looking after us for a week or so. Then ¹⁰ we travel / we're travelling round North and South Island – ¹¹ we rent / we're renting a camper van.
¹² We have / We're having to be back in Auckland on 22nd February, but I don't think I'll want to come home!

verbs which can have action and non-action meanings

- Do you have any sunscreen? = possession (non-action) ▶ 2.11
He's having a shower at the moment. = an action
Do you think we should have lunch in the hotel? = opinion (non-action)
They're thinking of going on a cruise. = an action
I see what you mean. = understanding (non-action)
I'm seeing the hotel manager tomorrow morning. = an action

- Some verbs have two meanings, an action meaning and a non-action meaning, e.g. have, think, see. If they describe a state or feeling, not an action, they are not usually used in the present continuous. If they describe an action, they are used in the present continuous.

present continuous for future arrangements

- I'm leaving tomorrow and I'm coming back on Tuesday. ▶ 2.12
We're seeing our grandparents this weekend.
When are they coming to visit us?
Ella isn't going out tonight. She's staying in.

- We often use the present continuous where there is an arrangement to do something in the future.

present simple for 'timetable' future

- The train leaves at 6.30 in the morning. ▶ 2.13
Our flight doesn't stop in Hong Kong. It stops in Singapore.
What time does your flight arrive in New York?

- We use the present simple to talk about things which will happen according to a timetable, especially travel times. We are usually referring to things which always happen on certain days at certain times, like flight times or classes, and are not people's personal plans or decisions.

b Complete the sentences with the present simple or present continuous form of the verbs in brackets.

Do you know Andrew's sister? (know)

possessives

Revise the basics

possessive 's and of

- 1 That's Mark's jacket.
He's my sister's boyfriend.
- 2 What's the name of the street where you live?
They sat at the back of the bus.

more rules for possessive 's

- 2 This is a photo of my parents' house.
That's the children's bedroom.
- 3 We spent the weekend at Paul's.
I went to my grandmother's yesterday.
Can you get me some aspirin when you go to the chemist's?
- 4 We saw Tom and Mary's parents.
Is that Kate and David's house?

- 1 If a name ends with -s, we form the possessive with ' or 's.
Both are pronounced /ɪz/.
- 2 Possessives are different for regular and irregular plurals.
 - After a plural noun ending in -s, we form the possessive with a final ' (but no extra s).
 - After an irregular plural not ending in -s, we form the possessive with 's.
- 3 We can use name / person + 's to mean that person's house or flat.
 - We also use 's after words for certain jobs to refer to their shop or business, e.g. chemist's, hairdresser's etc.
- 4 When we are talking about something belonging to two people or things, we put the 's only after the second name.

more rules for of to show possession

That man over there is a friend of mine. ▶ 2.15
This is an interesting book of Sarah's.
Tell me about this plan of theirs.
Where's that husband of yours?

- We often use noun + of + possessive pronoun or name / noun + 's after a / an or this / that.

own

I'd love to have my own business. ▶ 2.16
That's my magazine. Why don't you buy your own?
Our town is going to get its own shopping centre.
Small bakers often sell their own bread and cakes.

- We can use own after a possessive adjective for emphasis.
- We can also use of my / his / her, etc. + own, e.g. I'd love to have a business of my own.

a Circle the correct form.

What's the name of the shop / the shop's name where Suzy works?

- 1 That's the car of my friend / my friend's car over there.
- 2 My brother's / brothers' names are Peter and Michael.

He was texting a friend when the accident happened.
While we were having our picnic, it started to rain.
Sorry, what did you say? I wasn't listening.

- 1 We use the past simple for finished past actions or states (when we say, ask, or know when they happened). We can use the past simple for things which happened at any time in the past – very recently or a long time ago. The important thing is that we see them as finished.
 - For irregular past simple verbs, see Irregular verbs p.165.
- 2 We use the past continuous:
 - to talk about an action or situation in progress at a specific time in the past.
 - to describe a past action in progress which was interrupted by another action (expressed in the past simple).

used to and past simple

- 1 I used to be very shy when I was a child.  3.5
Tim used to go to the theatre a lot when he lived in London.
We used to live in Rome.
- 2 I was very shy when I was a child.
Tim often went to the theatre when he lived in London.
We lived in Rome for ten years.

- 1 We use used to (not the past continuous) to describe a habit or state that was true for a significant period in the past, and that has now finished.
- 2 We can also often use the past simple instead of used to especially with an adverb of frequency, e.g. usually, often, etc.
 - We use the past simple (not used to) when we specify how long we did an action NOT We used to live in Rome for ten years.

a Are the highlighted forms right (✓) or wrong (X)? Correct the wrong ones.

5 Offers and suggestions

I'll cook dinner tonight.

Shall I throw away this bread?

What shall I do with my old phone?

Where shall we go for lunch today?

• We use will / won't + infinitive:

- 1 to ask for or make predictions about what we think or believe will happen.
- 2 for future facts which are beyond our control.
- 3 for instant decisions that you make at the time of speaking.
- 4 to make promises.
- 5 to offer to do something. If the offer is a question, we use Shall I / we...?

• We also use shall with I and we to make suggestions.be going to

1 Plans and intentions

4.12

first and second conditionals first conditional

- 1 If I have time, I'll write my CV tonight. 🔊 4.19
If you don't work hard, you won't get promoted.
- 2 If he does well at school, he can go to a good university.
I might (may) go back to college if I can't find a job.
If you apply for a job, you must prepare an up-to-date CV.
If you want to do well in the exam, you should work hard this weekend.
- 3 If you get an interview, think carefully about what to wear.

- We use the first conditional to talk about a possible future situation and its consequence.
 - 1 The first conditional normally uses if + present simple, will / won't + infinitive.
 - 2 We can also use other modal verbs instead of will, e.g. can, might, may, must, or should.
 - 3 We can also use an imperative instead of will.

🔍 unless

We can use unless instead of if...not in conditional sentences.

I won't go unless you go, too. (= I won't go if you don't go, too.)

second conditional

- 1 If I had more money, I wouldn't need to work overtime. 🔊 4.20
If they offered you a part-time job, would you take it?
- 2 I might meet more people if I lived in a hall of residence.
You could apply for a scholarship if you got a place to study in the USA.
- 3 If John was (were) here, he'd know what to do.
I'd take it back to the shop if I were you.

- We use the second conditional to talk about a hypothetical or imaginary present / future situation, or one that we don't think is a possibility.
 - 1 The second conditional normally uses if + past simple, would / wouldn't + infinitive.
 - 2 We can use might or could instead of would.
 - 3 When we use be in the if clause, we can use was or were after I / he / she / it.
- However, in the phrase if I were you, which is often used to give advice, only were is used. NOT if I was you.

🔍 First or second conditional

The conditional we use depends on how likely the condition is. Compare:

If I have time, I'll help you. (I think it's a real possibility that I'll have time.)

If I had time, I'd help you. (I think it's unlikely or impossible that I'll have time.)

a Circle the correct form.

- If I go to university, I'd study / I'll study engineering.
- 1 If she had her own car, she doesn't / wouldn't need to borrow yours.
 - 2 If I got / get a good degree, I'll find a better job.
 - 3 I'd take the job if I am / were you.
 - 4 We can't help you unless you tell / told us what the problem is.
 - 5 If you think / thought you're going to be late, please send me a text.
 - 6 You might / You'll give a better impression if you wore a suit.
 - 7 I won't / wouldn't go there unless I really had to.
 - 8 Dana would enjoy life more if she didn't / doesn't study all the time.
 - 9 If I can't find a cheap bike, I won't / wouldn't buy one.
 - 10 If I earned / earn more, I could afford to rent a flat.

b Complete the sentences with the verb in brackets.

- I wouldn't do research if I didn't enjoy working on my own. (not do)
- 1 If I _____ to stay at university, I'll probably do a PhD or a master's degree. (decide)
 - 2 If you didn't spend so much on clothes, you _____ borrow money all the time. (not have to)
 - 3 I think my sister and her boyfriend _____ sooner if they could afford to pay for the wedding. (get married)
 - 4 If I have time over the summer, I _____ for an internship. (apply)
 - 5 I think Andy might get a scholarship if he _____ on working hard. (keep)
 - 6 If we _____ a bigger house, we could rent a couple of rooms to students. (buy)
 - 7 I might enjoy my job more if I _____ such awful colleagues. (not have)
 - 8 If I don't like the job after six months, I _____. (not stay)
 - 9 My tutor says I must attend all the seminars if I _____ to fail my exams. (not want)
 - 10 I'd get more job offers if I _____ better qualified. (be)

B Yes, I've been decorating the kitchen all day.
- 3 How long have you been looking for a new job?
We've been living here since last year.
It's been raining all day.

5.18

- 1 We use the present perfect continuous with action verbs for repeated actions that started in the past and have continued till now. We often use time expressions like recently / lately.
- With non-action verbs we use the present perfect simple, e.g. I've known them for 10 years. NOT ~~I've been knowing them for 10 years~~.

2 We use the present perfect continuous for continuous actions which have visible present results.

3 We use the present perfect continuous to ask or talk about situations which started in the past and are still happening now. We often use for / since or time expressions like all day / all morning / all week. We don't use the present continuous or the present simple, e.g.

I've been waiting since 10 o'clock.

NOT ~~I'm waiting since 10 o'clock.~~

~~I wait since 10 o'clock.~~

- If you say when something happened, use the past simple, not the present perfect continuous, e.g. I've been watching a lot of TV lately. I saw a great programme last night. NOT ~~I've been seeing a great programme last night~~.

 work and live

These verbs can usually be used in either the present perfect simple or the present perfect continuous with no difference in meaning, e.g. I've been living here for three months.

OR I've lived here for three months.

 p.53

obligation, necessity, prohibition, advice obligation and necessity

- 1 I have to work every evening.
Do we have to leave a tip?
They had to wait for two hours at the airport.  6.7
- 2 You must be more careful.
Must I show ID at the door?
You must pay him back as soon as possible.
- 3 I need to buy some food for tonight.
Do we need to book a table?

- 1 We use have to to talk about all kinds of obligation. have to can be used in all tenses.
- 2 We also use must to talk about obligation. must is only used in the present tense. The meaning is similar to have to, but must is especially used when the speaker sees something as a personal obligation. Compare:
I have to start work at 9.00. (an external obligation, the rule where I work)
I must remember to book a table. (a personal obligation, one that I impose on myself)
- 3 We can use need to to talk about things that are necessary. need to can be used in all tenses.

no obligation / no necessity

- 1 You don't have to pay me now.  6.8
- 2 We won't need to take the car – it's walking distance from here.
- 3 You needn't hurry. We have plenty of time.

- 1 We use (not) have to when there is no obligation to do something.

- 2 We use (not) need to when it is not necessary to do something.
- 3 We can also use needn't + infinitive without to to say that it is not necessary to do something.

prohibition

- You mustn't be rude to customers.  6.9
You mustn't serve alcohol to people under 18.

- We use mustn't when something is prohibited, dangerous, or wrong.
- mustn't and don't have to are completely different. Compare:
You mustn't drive. You've been drinking. = Don't drive. (It's dangerous / wrong to do it).
You don't have to drive. We can get the bus. = It's not necessary to drive. (There's no obligation or necessity.)

advice

- 1 You should try that new Vietnamese restaurant.  6.10
He shouldn't drink so much coffee.
- 2 You ought to get a new phone.
She oughtn't to spend so much on clothes.
- 3 When you're in Venice, you must / have to have a drink at Harry's Bar!

- 1 We use should / shouldn't to give someone advice, or to say what we think is the right thing for ourselves or for someone else to do.
- 2 We can also use ought to / oughtn't to to give advice. The meaning is the same as should / shouldn't.
- 3 We can use must and have to to give strong advice when we think it's very important that someone does something.

a Circle the correct form. Tick (✓) if both are possible.

- I had to must buy a new fridge last week.
- 1 We don't have to / mustn't be at the airport until 5.00.
Our flight isn't until 7.00.
 - 2 You needn't / don't have to worry about getting a ticket in advance – you can pay on the train.
 - 3 He shouldn't / doesn't have to have any more cake.
He's already had three pieces.
 - 4 You'll have to / You'll need to book a table if you want to go to Gino's on Saturday evening.
 - 5 I should / ought to try to eat more vegetables.
 - 6 We don't need to / mustn't leave yet. The show doesn't start until 7.30.
 - 7 You mustn't / don't have to spill anything on the sofa – it's leather.
 - 8 We must / have to go to the supermarket later. We've run out of coffee.
 - 9 You don't need to / needn't phone me unless your train is delayed.
 - 10 You oughtn't to / don't have to arrive late on your first day at work.

b Complete the sentences with one word. Contractions count as one word.

- I definitely think you should sell your house. It would be a really good idea.
- 1 You _____ turn your phone on until the plane has landed.
 - 2 Here's the form. You _____ to sign it at the bottom.

 - 7 You _____ read his new book! You'll love it.
 - 8 You _____ to drink so many fizzy drinks. They're really not good for you.
 - 9 Do I _____ to write a thank-you letter or can I just send an email?

can, could, and be able to ability, possibility, and permission

- 1 You can use a toothbrush to clean jewellery. I can't understand these instructions. We can't park here. It's a no-parking zone. She could swim when she was three years old. They couldn't come to the concert last night.  6.13
- 2 Can you give me a hand? Could I borrow your car?
- 3 I've been able to drive since I was 17. The technician will be able to fix it. I'd love to be able to ski. I like being able to try clothes on, so I never buy things online.
- 4 Unfortunately, we are not able to supply the missing parts. I'm very sorry that I wasn't able to attend the interview on Friday.
- 5 I couldn't find the book I wanted in the shops, but I was able to buy it online. The mark on the carpet was really bad, but in the end I was able to get it out.

- We use can to talk about ability, possibility, and permission. can is a modal verb, and it only has a present form (which can be used to talk about the future) and a past / conditional form (could).
- We often use Can you / I...? or Could you / I...? to make requests or ask for permission. Could...? is more polite.
- For all other tenses and forms, we use be able to + infinitive.
- We sometimes use be able to in the present and past if we want to be more formal.
- If we want to talk about ability on one specific occasion in the past, we can use couldn't but not could. Instead, we use was / were able to.
 - We can also use managed to instead of was / were able to, e.g. I managed to buy it online.

deduction

It can't be broken! I only bought it last week. They can't be back yet. They said they were coming home on Sunday.  6.14

- We use can't to say we are sure that something is impossible / not true.
- In this sense, the opposite of can't is must. Compare:

She can't be at work yet. It's only 7.30 a.m. (= I'm sure it's not true.)

She must be at work now. It's 9.30 a.m. (= I'm sure it's true.)

a Are the highlighted forms right (✓) or wrong (X)? Correct the wrong ones.

- 1 We use the infinitive with to after many verbs. See p.164 for examples.
- 2 We use the infinitive without to after all modal verbs (except ought).

verbs + gerund (verb + -ing)

- 1 They enjoy watching films at home. 7.21
I've finished reading the paper if you want it.
- 2 She's given up working on Saturdays.
I'm looking forward to hearing from you.
Are you going to carry on studying English next year?

- 1 We use the gerund after some verbs, e.g. enjoy, finish, hate.
- 2 We use the gerund after phrasal verbs.

verbs + object + infinitive (with or without to)

- 1 They want us to go on holiday with them. 7.22
Liam told me not to tell anyone his news.
My parents don't allow me to wear make-up.
- 2 His parents let him go to the concert.
Our boss makes us work late on Fridays.

- 1 We use an object + the infinitive with to after some verbs.
NOT They want that we go with them. See p.164 for examples.
- 2 We use an object + the infinitive without to after let and make.

a Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

- We really enjoy going to concerts. (go)
- 1 We went to the box office _____ the tickets. (pick up)

have something done

How often do you have your car serviced?

I don't have the flat cleaned. I clean it myself.

She has her house repainted every few years.

I'm having my hair cut tomorrow.

We've had a new bathroom put in.

The flat was in good condition, so we didn't have it redecorated.

When did you have those photos taken?

We're going to have the carpets cleaned next week.

You ought to have your roof repaired.

8.1

- We use have + object + past participle when we arrange (and usually pay) for someone to do something for us, either because we can't or don't want to do it ourselves. Compare:

I cleaned my car yesterday.
(= I did it myself.)

I had my car cleaned yesterday.
(= I paid someone to clean it for me.)

- We can use have something done in any tense and with modal verbs and other verb patterns, e.g. gerunds or infinitives.
- have* is the main verb and is stressed. We use auxiliary verbs (do, did, etc.) to make questions and negatives.
- If we want to say who did the work, we use by, e.g. We had our wedding photos taken by the same photographer you used.
I had the central heating checked by British Gas.

Using get instead of have

In this structure, we can also use get instead of have, e.g. I'm going to have my hair cut = I'm going to get my hair cut.

a Put the words in the correct order to make sentences.

I (my hair had yesterday cut).

I had my hair cut yesterday.

- Have (eyes your tested had recently you)?
- We (to repaired don't have roof the need).
- I (never whitened teeth have my would).
- My sister (hair to cut not told short my me have).

infinitive with to	The city centre has to be closed to all traffic next weekend.
infinitive without to	The President must be elected by a clear majority.
gerund	Most people hate being woken up in the middle of the night.

- We often use the passive when it's not said, known, or important who does an action. My phone has been stolen. (= Somebody has stolen my phone, but we don't know who.)
- If we want to say who did an action in a passive structure, we use by. The Sagrada Familia was designed by Antoni Gaudi.

- The subject of a passive sentence can be the direct or the indirect object, e.g.
Active: They are going to give us (indirect object) our exam results (direct object) tomorrow.
Passive: We are going to be given our exam results tomorrow. OR Our exam results are going to be given to us tomorrow.
- We often use the passive to talk about processes, for example, scientific processes, and in formal writing, such as newspaper reports.
The chemicals are combined at very high temperatures.
Parts of Windsor Castle have been damaged in a fire.

 Active or passive?

We can often say things in two ways, in the active or the passive.

- Using active or passive changes the focus.

Compare:

The royal family owns Windsor Castle.

(Active: The focus is more on the owner.)

Windsor Castle is owned by the royal family.

(Passive: The focus is more on the castle.)

- The passive is often used for a more formal style.

Compare:

They grow rice in Valencia.

(Active: informal – they = people, farmers)

Rice is grown in Valencia.

(Passive: a more formal style) reported speech

Revise the basics

direct statements	reported statements
'I have a good memory.'	She said (that) she had a good memory.
'I'm not leaving.'	He told me (that) he wasn't leaving .
'We'll never forget you.'	They told me (that) they'd never forget me.
'I can't remember.'	He said (that) he couldn't remember.
'We might / may be a bit late.'	They told us (that) they might be a bit late.
'I must go.'	She said (that) she had to go .

word changes in reported speech

'I'll see you tomorrow .'	He said (that) he'd see me the next day .	9.2
'I did it yesterday .'	She told me (that) she'd done it the day before .
'I went skiing last week .'	He said (that) he'd been skiing the week before .
'We don't like it here .'	She told us (that) they didn't like it there .
'This is your station.'	She said (that) that was our station.

- Remember that when we report direct speech some time after the original words were said, we change pronouns and possessive adjectives, time expressions, and words like here and this.

reported questions

1 'What do you want to do?'	She asked me what I wanted to do.	9.3
'When's your birthday?'	She asked me when my birthday was .
2 ' Have you been to Australia?'	He asked us if / whether we'd been to Australia.
' Are you coming with me?'	She asked him if / whether he was coming with her .

- In reported questions, we change the tenses as with reported statements.
 - Reported questions have normal word order, auxiliaries do/did are not used, nor are question marks: She asked me what I wanted to do.
NOT She asked me what did I want to do?
 - The verb ask in reported questions can be used with or without a subject or object pronoun. e.g. She asked what I wanted to do.
 - With the verb be, the word order changes in the reported question.
- We use if or whether to report questions which start with an auxiliary verb.

a Complete the sentences using reported speech.

- 'I don't know your email.'
He said (that)...he didn't know my email.
- 'I can't find my purse.' She said (that)...
 - 'I'm not coming to class on Friday.' He said (that)...
 - 'We probably won't go on holiday this summer.'
They said (that)...
 - 'I've finished my exams!' Jane said (that)...
 - 'The film will be on tomorrow.' They told us (that)...
 - 'I haven't been here before.' Robert told me (that)...
 - 'I must leave at 6.30.' She said (that)...
 - 'We've never forgotten our visit.'
They told me (that)...
 - 'I saw a man hiding in the bushes.' He said (that)...
 - 'I don't really want to see you.' She told me (that)...

b Complete the reported questions, requests, and imperatives.

- 'Where do you live?' He asked me...where I lived.
- 'How many children do you have?' She asked him...
 - 'Could you take a photo of us?'
They asked the woman...
 - 'Will you be able to come?' They asked us...
 - 'Please fill in the application form.' He told me...
 - 'Did you arrive on time?' He asked her...
 - 'Bring plenty of food.' She told us...
 - 'Can you help me with the cooking?'
She asked me...
 - 'How long have you been waiting?'
He asked them...
 - 'Can you confirm your date of birth?' He asked her...
 - 'Don't worry about anything.' They told us...

reported imperatives and requests

- 'Wait in the car.'
She told me to wait in the car.
'Don't forget.'
He told me not to forget.
- 'Could you close the window?'
She asked me to close the window.
'Can you wait here, please?'
He asked us to wait there.

- We can use tell + object pronoun + infinitive to report imperatives and instructions.
 - The verb tell can mean give information or give an instruction. Compare:
He told me (that) his name was Rob. (= information)
He told me to close the door. (= instruction)
- We can use ask + object pronoun + infinitive to report requests (when you ask someone politely to do something). We must use an object pronoun, e.g. me, us.
 - The verb ask can mean ask a question or make a request. Compare:
He asked (me) what I was doing. (= question)
He asked me to close the door. (= request) third conditional and other uses of the past perfect third conditional

If I'd known his number, I would have called him.  9.13
They'd have been much happier if they'd never married.
If I hadn't gone to university, I wouldn't have met my wife.
What would we have done if we'd missed the flight?

- We use the third conditional to talk about how things could have been different in the past, i.e. for hypothetical / imaginary situations and their consequences. In the third conditional, we use if + past perfect, would have + past participle.

 'd

In third conditionals, 'd is the contraction of both had and would, e.g. If I'd known his number, I'd have called him.

had

would

other uses of the past perfect

1 When we arrived at the departure gate, the flight had already closed.  9.14
When the film started, I realized that I'd seen it before.
We still hadn't had breakfast when the taxi arrived.
How long had they been engaged before they got married?

2 'We haven't been married long.'
She said (that) they hadn't been married long.
'My boyfriend proposed to me in Paris.'
She told me (that) her boyfriend had proposed to her in Paris.
'I'd already seen the film.'
He said (that) he'd already seen the film.

- We use the past perfect in narratives when we are talking about the past and we want to talk about something that happened earlier in the past.
 - Compare:
When we arrived at the departure gate, the flight closed (= we were on time).
When we arrived at the departure gate, the flight had closed (= we were too late).
 - We use the past perfect in reported speech when the original speech uses the present perfect or the past simple.
- If the original speech is past perfect, there is no change in reported speech.

 possess /pə'zes/ power /paʊə/ rebel /rɪ'bel/rely /rɪ'laɪ/ response /rɪ'spɒns/ thought /θɔ:t/

Word endings for adjectives

Many adjectives are formed by adding suffixes (= endings) such as -able / -ible to a noun or verb. Sometimes another small spelling change is required, e.g. losing a final e (fame – famous). Check the spelling changes in your dictionary. Knowing typical suffixes will help you to recognize that a new word is an adjective.

- b 1.10 Listen and check.

ACTIVATION Cover the chart and look at the nouns and verbs in a. Say the adjectives.

3 -FUL AND -LESS

-ful and -less

-ful and -less are suffixes which add the meaning 'with' or 'without' to the base word, e.g. careful = with care, careless = without care, hopeful = with hope, hopeless = without hope.

However, not all words which can form an adjective with -ful can also form one with -less, e.g. we can say successful but NOT successless, and not all words which can form an adjective with -less can also form one with -ful, e.g. we can say endless but NOT endful.

- a Look at the -ful adjectives in the charts in 1 and 2. Tick the ones that can form an adjective with -less.
